SUMMARY.

News has reached New York that a revolution has broken out in Vienna, and that the revolutionists have organised a Ministry.

No confirmation of the reported revolution in Austria has been received in Washington.

The news, however, is widely credited, as the State Department has received daily reports that the situation is critical.

It is believed that Austria is becoming another Russia.

Information has reached New York that the Russians have finally rejected the German peace terms.

The rejection of the Czech resolution in favour of an independent Czecho-Slovak State provoked wild scenes.

Every Austrian Government, it is declared, would resist any attempt to establish Home Rule for the Czechs.

Military authorities suggest that the Allies may anticipate a German drive on the West by a great Allied offensive.

Colonel Repington, in a vigorous article in the "Morning Post," criticises the British Government's man-power proposals.

He states that the Germans alone have accumulated 165 divisions on the West.

He estimates that between 200 and 220 divisions will eventually be thrown against the English and French.

The enemy may attack before their concentrations are complete, in order to forestall the arrival of the Americans.

The British, Colonel Repington declared, will need at least 880,000 men, in addition to 450,000 already in view.

He considers that 100,000 should be withdrawn from distant campaigns, notably Salonica.

The combing-out process at home should be increased by 320,000 men.

Colonel Repington further considers that conscription should be extended to Ireland, yielding 200,000 men.

The London correspondent of the "New York Times" declares that Germany desires an early peace.

A Rotterdam message states that 332 British prisoners of war have arrived from Germany for internment in Holland.

The enemy in the Lumnitza region, Macedonia, attacked strongly on a sector of several kilometres.

The Hellenic division completely defeated the Bulgarians.

There were angry scenes at the Labour Congress at Nottingham, the extremists attacking the executive.

The London newspapers and the public continue to discuss the problem of the British high command.

Most of the newspapers protest against the Government allowing the continuance of attack against generals unable to reply.

The Prime Minister made an important statement in the House of Representatives yesterday.

The Government intended, he said, to direct its attention to reinforcements, repatriation, shipbuilding, and the organisation of industry.

It was also proposed to consider the whole question of industrial legislation.

Mr. Hughes said it would be necessary to raise £40,000,000 in Australia before the end of this year.

Brigadier-General Sir S. A. Pethebridge, Administrator at Rabaul, died yesterday at his home in Melbourne.

The Director-General of Recruiting, in an address in Martin-place, appealed for unity as a means of securing recruits.

"The people of Australia," he said, "are going to stick it, unless I do not properly understand them."

The cyclone at Mackay was accompanied by a tidal wave and floods resulting in loss of life.

Fourteen bodies have been recovered. Hundreds of people are homeless.

All the wharfs and the sugar stores collapsed. The bridge was wrecked. The country has suffered badly.

Mackay is on rations. There is only enough food for ten days.

The Fitzroy River at Rockhampton fell over a foot on Thursday, and continues to recede slowly.

Owing to the rough weather along the Queensland coast, the time-table for interstate vessels is disorganised.

At the opening of the Kiama show, Mr. Mark Morton, M.L.A., defended the Government policy, and urged unity.

The debate on the Supply Bill in the Senate lasted until nearly 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Supply was passed.

In the War Chest cricket match the interstate team lost seven wickets for 394 runs. T. J. Andrews scored 100.

The chairman of the Fire Board yesterday replied to the criticisms of the board's remodelling policy.

"In the scheme no one has been overstepped in rank, and no one has been disrated," said Mr. Farrar.

The members of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade have decided to protest against the proposed reforms.

The council of the Coal and Shale Employees' Federation has resolved to adopt the platform of the Australian Labour party.

A conference of trade unions is to be convened to consider ways and means to reduce the high cost of living.

The homestead on Meramine station, between Warren and Nevertire, has been destroyed by fire.

Two bush fires occurred in the Forbes district during the week. Sixty-five acres of a standing wheat crop were burnt.

State income tax returns for the year ended December 31, 1917, are now due.

Tattersall's Club has given £100 to the Nurses' Home building fund of the Women's Hospital.

The trawler Koraaga captured a skate weighing nearly 4cwt several miles off the entrance to Botany Bay.

A man was fined £10 yesterday for stealing from a wharf. Another man was fined £30 on a charge of receiving.

An outbreak of fire occurred yesterday at No. 2 Mercantile Free Store, Circular Quay, among a quantity of copra.

A mission is to be sent throughout the State to ascertain what has been done to overcome the sheep-fly pest.

The Walter and Eliza Hall Trust has offered to subsidise the mission to the extent of £500.

The report of the Sydney Ferries, Limited, for the past year shows a net profit of £28,687.

There was an excellent display of cattle at the Kiama show. The cattle entries constituted a record.

The high prices of water for industrial purposes were referred to at a meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal of a firm to establish galvanised iron works on a site near the steel works was discussed.

An oversea steamer left Newcastle with 2500 tons of coal short, owing to the shallow bar.

The local Chamber of Commerce considered that the entrance to the port should be deepened as soon as possible.

Claims for improved conditions have been lodged on behalf of the employees of the Newcastle passenger and vehicle ferries.

The rabbit trappers at Wellington, Dubbo, Cowra, Gulgong, and other centres are on strike.

The industrial conditions which are to rule in the shipbuilding industry were ratified at a conference yesterday.

The Red Cross Motor Service, it is notified, requires more motor cars than are now enrolled.

Thirteen young women employed in a Melbourne warehouse pleaded guilty to systematic robbery of goods.

It was admitted that girls in some departments exchanged goods with girls in other departments.

The report of the Australian Bank of Commerce shows a net profit of £33,056 for the half-year ended December 31.

Forecast:—Sultry and unsettled generally, with rain and thunderstorms, some heavy falls, and strong local blows, within the next 48 hours; moderate to rough seas on the coast, chiefly northerly.

FARMER'S, SYDNEY. 1840-1918. Seventy-eight years. THE HOUSE OF DISTINCTION.

FARMER'S,

CLOSED TO-DAY,

IN COMMEMORATION OF THE

LANDING

OF

CAPTAIN PHILLIP,

JANUARY 26, 1788.

One hundred and thirty years ago to-day Captain Arthur Phillip, R.N., who had been commissioned by Viscount Sydney to form a settlement here, brought the H.M.S. "Sirius" and a fleet of other vessels into Port Jackson and founded the first Australian settlement, which he named Sydney, after the Viscount.

It is this event that we celebrate to-day in Public Holiday, and although, comparatively speaking, Australia is but a young nation, the landing of Phillip is of such historic importance as to be reverenced throughout Australia, more particularly by the citizens of New South Wales.

RAZOR STROPS AND HONES.

To make shaving a comfort, I had almost said a luxury, is not difficult if your Razor Blade is of good Sheffield Steel, because on such perfect material you can easily build up an edge that will hold—that is the secret. A few rubs on a good Hone, followed by careful stropping on a clean Strop, is the only really effective way to build up the edge and give you a comfortable shave. My Hones and Strops are in every way superior articles, carefully chosen and manufactured. Simple instructions how to use are given with each Hone and Strop.

W. JNO. BAKER

FURTHER PROOF OF THE SPEED OF THE SAFTI MILLER OUTBOARD MOTOR.—"SUVA.—My Safti Miller has been running excellently, and has many admirers. Other makes of Outboard Motors are so hard to start, and mine is so easy, that I fancy there will be more Safti Millers sold here before long. I have a v-shape bottom punt about 13ft long, and under favourable conditions I get 8 miles an hour out of her without running on top speed. I recently raced a 4½ h.p. Outboard Motor of another make for just over a mile, and beat her by a length, which is creditable considering the high power of the other motor." (Name given.) The Safti Miller is 3½ h.p., speed 8 miles, weighs 70lb, equipped with Dixie H.T. Magneto and Reverse Propellor. Booklet H., post free from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 912, G.P.O., Sydney. HOLIDAY MAKING—CLOSED.

ANTHONY HORDERNS' SALE

COMMENCES ON MONDAY.

TO-DAY (SATURDAY) is being observed as a PUBLIC HOLIDAY, therefore the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM and all ANTHONY HORDERNS' FACTORIES will be CLOSED ALL DAY.

MONDAY will be the first day of

ANTHONY HORDERNS' SALE.

Shopping at this great half-yearly fixture will prove a profitable investment for all who are wise enough to purchase their future requirements during the currency of

ANTHONY HORDERNS'

FAMOUS SALE PRICES.

The cost of almost every commodity is still rising, many lines in daily demand are almost unprocurable, cottons and woollens are becoming extremely scarce, and there seems no likelihood of relief from the position of higher prices and restricted supplies.

The pages of the Sale Catalogue enumerate many thousands of lines that have been genuinely reduced in price; in many cases to below to-day's costs in London. It will be noted that the quantities available are set out, therefore the wisdom of early buying is apparent.

WRITE FOR A COPY of the SALE CATALOGUE—posted free. It is a PUBLICATION of 350 pages, constituting a BUYERS' GUIDE that will ENABLE TOWN and COUNTRY ALIKE to effect SUBSTANTIAL reduction in EXPENDITURE on TO-DAY'S REQUIREMENTS as well as FUTURE NEEDS.

THE CHARM OF BEAUTY

is not always seen in what one wears, but in the face; and so often we notice a face that would be beautiful if it were without unsightly superfluous growths, such as a

on the eye or the face. In ancient times it was considered a mark of beauty and good luck; but in these modern days perfection is expected, and one often remarks "Most charming; but what a pity that has not been removed!" To those who are so affected, and are afraid of complications, I offer to have a chat, and I shall show them work I have done, and give all information as to how moles can be treated and removed permanently.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS.

I would also be glad to remove, free of charge, a few of these unsightly blemishes, allowing the patient to wait three months before coming to be cured.

A SUDDEN CHANGE IN THE TEMPERATURE.

When the temperature rises or drops quickly wearers of

are least of all affected by the vagaries of the weather. Being of fine pure wool, Jaeger Underwear is a slow heat conductor, and protects the body against heat.

It absorbs moisture, and, unlike cotton, does not hold in a free state perspiration to chill the skin.

Jaeger during the cold weather keeps the body cosy and warm.

THE DRAMA OF ALL TIME, TOLD IN THE LIGHT OF DAY.

It will streak your cheeks with tears and wreathe your faces with smiles.

It mirrors the life of you and your neighbours.

It will do more good than a yearful of sermons.

It's the best tonic for broken-down households, because it lets in the truth.

It will make you think—and that is good for you.

It is a picture that every clean-minded individual should see.

It is a dramatic statement of the facts.

It proves what your instinct told you is right.

It will be the One Topic of Sydney

FOR WEEKS.

THE PADRE.

(BY CORPORAL S. BOSSOCK JONES.)

I saw him first at the Y.M.C.A. ——, a few miles behind the firing line, when the Division was out resting. He was behind the counter, serving out tea and selling biscuits, chocolates, cigarettes, matches, and the like, found in all such institutions out here. I was attracted by the man, he was so bright and energetic. For every customer he had some cheery word to say, whilst occasionally he came out with remarks that caused merriment all round. It was a pleasure to be served by him. The next time I saw him he was out in the street, where he returned our salutes with smiles and often cheery words. Both officers and men seemed pleased to receive his greetings. After this I saw and met him often—once sitting in the Q.M. store, enjoying a smoke and a yarn. One night he came into the hut with a sandbag, and whilst wondering what he had in store for us, pulled out a tin, which he handed to the N.C.O. with the words "Here you are, something to flavour your stew with. Tell the cook to put it all in, and your stew will be just 'tres bon.' (This is a very common expression among the boys for anything considered 'very good.') I've got one for each of the huts. And then, listen boys, the chaps in the next hut are giving a concert to-night to their mates in hut No. —, and they have asked me to act as chairman. You do the same for one of the other huts. Send for me, and I'll do all I can for you." And off he went, with a hearty good-night, sandbag slung over his shoulder. One day, the first of the many snowy ones that we have experienced here this winter, I heard a commotion outside the hut, and went out to investigate. And this greeted me—the padre in the thick of a snowball fight, going at it for all he was worth, just like a romping schoolboy. He was pelted at from all sides, and with much vigour he pelted back, laughing and cracking jokes the whole time. Then, from being a player, he became organiser, arranged sides, six or so on each, and refereed. There was a ding-dong fight and many amusing episodes. The call of tucker brought it, however, to a sudden close, the padre retiring with beaming countenance. He had spent a really enjoyable hour. As I stood in a queue, with mess-tin in hand, waiting for my ration of stew, this was one of many similar comments that I heard: "A great bloke that parson, ain't he? He's one of the dinkums, he is."

A day or two after this snowball match our battalion got marching orders, and off we went at very short notice with all the gear necessary for the front line. We had not proceeded far along the slippery duck-boards before one of the boys caught sight of this ubiquitous parson going in the same direction. "Hello," he cried, "there goes the old Padre again." The Padre heard, and responded with his usual happy smile and a wave of the hand. And again many were the short, rough, sincere eulogies of his worth and work. He was on his way this day to his headquarters when the division is in the line—the soup kitchen at ——. (The soup kitchen is a place a mile or two at the rear of the line where steaming hot soup or bovril or cocoa is supplied; "baksheesh" to men coming out of the firing line; and a great institution it is. The cocoa and milk and soup are supplied by the Australian Soldiers' Comfort Fund, and our thanks to the authorities in charge of this are many. Any night, nay, every night, and at every hour of the night, may be seen troops tired and begrimed partaking of the hot liquid dispensed at these places. So much do we appreciate this halt by the way and all that it means that we cannot think of the firing line apart from it. And, happily, there are many of these places.)

But the Padre does not stop here altogether. He goes farther. Only the other night as I was walking up a trench next to the front line I saw him getting into a dug-out. He had just been up into the line to give the boys a word of cheer and comfort. As we passed by he wished us also "good luck" and the blessing of God. Yes, this man's heart is in his work, and the men know it. This morning, in conversation with one of this company, I was told of a service he had in a dug-out not far from the one into which I had seen him enter. It was just before the occupants were about to leave on some ticklish work in No Man's Land, and said my friend: "By jove, that parson's a great chap. He gave us a splendid sermon. I was never more impressed in all my life."

And this brings me to say that the Padre is not only a great friend socially. He recognises that his work is first and foremost that of an ambassador for God. His popularity does not lead him to forget his true vocation. Here amidst much that gives Christianity and civilisation a rude shock, he preaches Christ as the Hope of every living man. And there is no whittling down of principles. He is a man of faith himself and also of courage. I shall never forget a parade service we had one Sunday morning at ———, when we were out in billets. It was a bright but cold morning. Overhead was the constant buzz of our aeroplanes going out scouting, whilst away in the distance was the equally constant roar of our artillery. In striking contrast to this we heard the birds above us whistling cheerfully away, blissfully unconscious that below them and above them, and about them, were scenes of the world's greatest tragedy. Whether our minds were too occupied with these thoughts, or whether it was due to cold feet, I don't know, but our interest in the service seemed too indifferent altogether for the Padre, and so he gave vent to his feelings in this way:—"What's the matter with all you men this morning? What do you think I am here for? Why don't you join in the responses? I'm not the only miserable offender here on the parade ground ('us miserable offenders' are words of the confession in which only a few had joined this morning, and that in a very perfunctory manner). Come now, men, enter heartily into the service, and you'll all feel the better for it." We caught something of his enthusiasm—and both the responses and the singing were better after this.

The other Sunday he held service in one of the huts, but owing to illness I was unable to be present. The boys, however, told me of the service. "Gee whiz," said one, "the old skipper was hot this morning on the swearing racket. Said he had absolutely no time for it, and there was no need for it. And he actually used the words ——, ——, ——." "And he's quite right too," added another. "We get over the fence at times. And it's no good anyhow." You see him at times in the street or walking briskly about the camp with a few sheets of paper in his hand, and whilst you are wondering what these papers are he comes along with his usual smile and greetings, and "I say, sergeant," or "corporal," or if you are a private—"Battalion, just stick this up, will you, in some prominent place. It's the announcement of a communion service which I am holding next Sunday morning at Brigade Headquarters. (This in addition to the official notice.) Come along yourself, old chap, and bring others with you." And on he goes, seeking to do good wherever and whenever he can.

Yes, this man is the right stamp of a man as chaplain. He is bright—men have a great down on dopes; he is sincere—men soon detect unreality; he is enthusiastic—men like a man who means business. He thinks of the physical; knows that a good feed does more good than a sermon at times; he realises that men are human, and will have sport. More—he enters into it with the men. He knows, too, that the cultivation of thoughts, good, beautiful, and true, rule out of life those that degrade. But, above all, he knows and feels that man was made for God, to whom he endeavours to lead him. May his stay be long with us. He must do and does good. The boys know his worth, and trust him, and when he speaks, listen, even if they do not always carry out his words.

And his name is Ward, Captain-Chaplain Ward, C. of E., and hails, I believe, from the Goulburn Diocese.

DR. MORRISON'S LIBRARY.

(BY M. MEAGHER.)

Dr. Morrison's famous library, which has recently been sold to Baron Iwasaki, of the Mitsubishi Company, and of the Yokohama Specie Bank, for the sum of £35,000, is probably the finest of its kind in existence. It is some consolation to English students that this fine collection of books relating to China is to remain intact. A building will be especially erected to house it in its new home in Tokyo, which will go by the name of the "Dr. G. E. Morrison Library." This magnificent reference library has never been what the elder Disraeli would call "a tomb of books," for the possessor was always anxious to make them available. In accordance with the courteous custom in vogue in Peking, the library in Tokyo will always be open to serious students.

As Dr. Morrison is one of the most modest of Australia's famous sons, very few references to this wonderful collection of books have ever appeared. In fact, this brief sketch, from notes taken by the writer during a recent visit to the Library in Morrison-street, Peking, is the first description that has ever been published in an English newspaper. Dr. Morrison has spent about 25 years in getting his library together—he began collecting his books about China before he had set foot in that country. While he was "Times" correspondent, Dr. Morrison spent something like £400 per year on making purchases for his library. During the time he has been adviser to the Chinese Government he has spent a still larger sum. It has been his rule to buy any book that he thought necessary, regardless of cost.

The collection consists of about 20,000 volumes, and Dr. Morrison's book plate—an Australian scene—is on every book. This does not include a great mass of missionary literature in the shape of pamphlets, etc., and a remarkable collection of articles cut from reports and periodicals which have been considered to be not worth keeping as sets. The missionary literature is of the greatest importance in things Chinese. The "Lettres Edifiantes," which Dr. Morrison says are the chief source of information of conditions in China during two centuries, date back to 1602, and have been continued down to the present day, although now appearing under the title of "Annales de la Propagation de la Foi." They are published in Lyons. A complete set is to be found in Morrison-street. One notices on a shelf the "Further Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," which is a very accurate account of China, and is told by Dr. Morrison that this is because it is taken from the "Lettres Edifiantes." In his "Curiosities of Literature" Isaac Disraeli refers to the monumental work on China, of Pere du Halde, which is also compiled from the memoirs of the missionaries, the French priest du Halde never having travelled ten leagues from Paris, though he appears by his writings to be familiar with China and its scenery.

There is also a great assembling of the reports of the Belgian and Dutch Missionaries, the most important being the "Missions en Chine et au Congo," and the "Missions Catholiques." We readily understand the importance of this literature, when Dr. Morrison tells us that our knowledge of Mongolia is mainly derived from the reports of the Belgian missionaries, and that our knowledge of Chinese Turkestan is due largely to the Dutch missionaries. Dr. Morrison further points to the letters of Pere Courrejolles, published in the missionary collection, which contain the first complete account of the manufacture of Chinese porcelain, and to an important series of monographs, published by the Jesuits, both Chinese and foreign, at Siccawei, entitled "Varietes Sinologiques." They number upwards of forty volumes, and deal with such questions as marriage customs, the Nestorian tablet, superstitions, etc., etc., all of which, says Dr. Morrison, are of the highest value.

There are few books in the Chinese language in the collection, but there are no less than four hundred dictionaries, amongst them being the greatest dictionary yet published in China, which is the work of Pere Seraphin Couvreur, S.J., of Hokienfu. The author is still alive at the age of 85. Dr. Morrison called my attention to a completed manuscript dictionary in Chinese and Latin, dated 1706. It is the work of an Italian Franciscan friar, the learned lexicographer, Basile de Glemona. A copy of this manuscript dictionary was given to the first Protestant missionary in China, Robert Morrison, on his arrival in Canton, in 1807, and was an important help to him in the compiling of his monumental encyclopedic dictionary, published in six volumes, between 1815 and 1822.

There are many shelffuls of English, French, German, Latin, Dutch, Italian, Russian, Portuguese and Spanish volumes. There are probably thrice as many volumes in English as in French, and more than four times as many in Englishas in German.

The most prolific author seems to be Dr. H. A. Giles, Professor of Chinese at the University of Cambridge. Marco Polo is well represented, for we find his first Latin edition of 1485, and the first Italian of 1496. In all there are 15 editions bearing dates before 1700. There are also the first editions of Mendes Pinto's famous "Peregrination" in Portuguese, Spanish, and English. It is interesting to see the log books of the "Lion" frigate, which brought Macartney on his important mission to China. And also the diary and other manuscript volumes in the hand writing of the statesman and diplomatist, George Macartney, afterwards Earl Macartney, who embarked on the Lion—64 guns—as plenipotentiary, in which capacity he visited Peking in 1792. Sir John Mandeville's description (1485) of Asia, and his history of the Mongols, and their manners and customs is also to be seen. It is interesting to find in the library a letter from the imposter, George Psalmanazar, who faked the Formosa Grammar and the History of Formosa so well that he deceived Dr. Johnson.

An interesting section of the library is works of fiction which contain scenes laid in China. At times one wonders why certain books are in the collection, but soon learns that the particular book has a chapter or chapters on Chinese affairs. Take Dr. Nitobe's well-known "Thoughts and Essays" for example. Its presence is justified by its chapter on Confucius; and Dr. Morrison has been thoughtful enough to help the student by drawing attention to the particular chapter in the card index.

A noteworthy item in the collection is a full set of the "Canton Register," the first newspaper published in English, in China, 1827.

Besides the books the library contains a surprising number of plates and scenes in China, and a most interesting collection of photographs, taken by Dr. Morrison himself at the time of his famous walk through China.

[It is to be noted with regret that news has been received that serious damage has been done by a typhoon and rain to this precious library just as it was landed at Tokyo.]

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S WAR HOSPITALS.

The fund now stands at £6982/18/4. The following additional amounts having been received:—Tattersall's Club, £250; Picton Branch Red Cross Society, £12/7/; Balmain Branch Red Cross Society, £10; Mrs. B. M. Mackerras, £2/2/; Erina Branch Red Cross Society, £2; and smaller amounts.

The Mayor of West Maitland (Ald. Thompson) has called a public meeting for Wednesday, February 6. The workers for the Red Cross are showing themselves to be in active sympathy with the movement.

Contributions should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurers, J. Russell French and H. H. Massie, 89 Phillip-street, Sydney.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL.

Tattersall's Club has given £100 to the Nurses' Home Building Fund of the Women's Hospital.

The hon. treasurer, Mr. Reginald S. Wickham, states that this is the seventh cheque for that amount, and that three more are required to complete the ten which it is necessary to obtain before two of the amounts, which are conditional, may be claimed. The directors hope that these three £100 cheques will be subscribed, so that this special thousand may be placed to the credit of the building fund.

ANNIVERSARY DAY.

(BY W. H. H. YARRINGTON, M.A., LL.B.)

The fact that Anniversary Day this year (1918) falls on a Saturday is a coincidence which very seldom occurs, and it justifies a brief account of the circumstances which the day commemorates. The present article is written at the instance of the council of the Australian Historical Society, and its principal purpose is the instruction, specially of the children and young people of our State who may not be correctly informed on all the particulars of the settlement of our colony. Owing probably in some measure to the annual celebrations in connection with the arrival of Captain Cook in Botany Bay which are held at Kurnell there is some confusion and uncertainty as to what Anniversary Day really means. There is a certain oft-repeated story that, on being asked what Anniversary Day celebrated, a person with confidence replied that it was the day on which Captain Cook anchored at the Circular Quay in a ship called the La Perouse, whereas the truth is that Captain Cook had nothing whatever to do with Anniversary Day. Captain Cook in the little ship the Endeavour, of only 370 tons, entered Botany Bay on Saturday, April 28, 1770, just 18 years before the event commemorated on Anniversary Day. During that intervening period no one visited Botany Bay, as far as is known. After remaining at Botany Bay a week, Cook continued his voyage, leaving Botany on Sunday, May 6. On that day he passed the Sydney Heads, not entering our harbour in any way. He thought it only a boat harbour, as he never beheld its vast expanse, and yet he named it after Sir George Jackson, his friend, a secretary of the Admiralty. It has frequently been asserted that the harbour was named after the seaman on the Endeavour who first descried Sydney Heads, but it is certainly stated that there was no seaman of that name on board the Endeavour.

Our Anniversary Day is connected with the arrival of Captain Arthur Phillip, whose statue is conspicuous in the Upper Botanic Gardens. He was the first Governor of this colony, and indeed at that time of the whole British possessions in Australia. He brought out the First Fleet, as it has always been called, consisting of 11 ships, leaving England on May 13, 1787. Captain Phillip, with Captain Hunter—after whom Hunter-street is named—was on board his Majesty's ship the Sirius, the anchor and other relics of which may be seen in Macquarie-place. Leaving the fleet, Phillip proceeded it on board the Supply, an armed tender (of which the commander was Lieutenant Ball, after whom Ball's Head, on the Parramatta River, is named), in order to reach Botany Bay before the other vessels should arrive. On Friday, January 18, 1788, Phillip reached Botany Bay, the rest of the fleet arriving on the Sunday following—January 20. Phillip soon found that Botany Bay was quite unsuitable as a settlement, and on Monday, January 21—as it were last Monday—he started with three boats to examine, not Port Jackson, as frequently but erroneously has been stated, but Broken Bay, of which in his log Captain Cook had written, and which he so named not because the bay was broken by inlets but because of the broken appearance of the hilly country around. There is great discrepancy in the various accounts of the boats which came with Captain Phillip, some authorities referring to one, to two, or to three boats. There is also great variation as to the days of their starting for and their return to Botany Bay. There were certainly three boats, in which were the leading members of the fleet company, including Captain Phillip, Captain Hunter, and several officers, besides marines. They arrived at Sydney Heads, and entered early—say, about 1 o'clock—in the afternoon. There was no intention whatever of examining Port Jackson, but they did so from curiosity to see its extent. Before long they discovered that the inlet extended to the south-west, expanding into "the finest harbour in the world." Surgeon White describes it as the "finest in the universe." The party continued their exploration during the rest of Monday, the whole of Tuesday, and part of Wednesday, the 23rd, when they returned on the evening of that day to Botany Bay. Orders were at once given that the fleet should sail for Port Jackson.

The fleet left Botany Bay on Saturday morning, and as they sailed out the two French ships of La Perouse entered the bay. On the Saturday evening, as if it were of to-day, the whole of the fleet had arrived, and anchored in or at the mouth of Sydney Cove, which had been selected by Phillip as the most suitable, owing to its depth and the supply of water from the Tank Stream. His judgment in this selection has been amply justified. On the evening of this memorable day Phillip and the party that had come with him in the Supply on the Friday, assembled at the point where they first landed in the morning, and on which a flagstaff had been erected. There, with the Union Jack over their heads, Phillip proposed several toasts as of "King George the Third," "The Royal Family," and "Success to the New Colony," which were duly honoured and followed by volleys from the marines. How different is Sydney now compared with the wild scene of rocks and forest which surrounded those first settlers. This is the event which we commemorate on this our 130th Anniversary Day.

PUBLIC SERVICE INQUIRY.

Sydney A. Maddocks, Chief Clerk, Police Department, and chairman of the Clerical Advisory Conference, continuing his evidence, said the conference contended that the obligation for payment of salaries of Public Servants should be a commitment upon the State equally as binding as an industrial award; that when increments and increases of salaries were justified by the nature of the work, embargoes upon increases or increments constituted an unjust tax upon merit and efficiency, and that percentage reduction on salaries also constituted an unfair class tax, with undesirable results from every point of view. The conference also contended that payment in lieu of extended leave, and payment of gratuity in the case of decease before retirement should be statutory rights. Overtime at the rate of time and a half for work done after office hours should be paid, with tea or luncheon allowances for work done in meal hours. It was also urged that the Superannuation Act, 1916, be amended with a view to providing that officers with 30 years' service should be able to retire on a pension to be actuarially calculated.

The Commission adjourned. The Commissioner will on Monday resume personal inspection of the departments.

The official report of Mr. Maddocks's evidence on political influence, given on Thursday, is as follows:—"The opinion is held in the service—I am not going to say whether it is wrongly or rightly held—but it is generally held that the royal road to progress in the Public Service is through the Ministerial offices. That should not be so. If that is so, it is a most undesirable state of affairs. We have to recognise this fact as evidence that the opinion of Public Servants under that head is not altogether without some foundation—that three of our present-day under-secretaries are men whose rapid progress is, I will not say attributable, but is accompanied by the fact that they were Ministers' secretaries. We do not question the ability of these gentlemen. One of them was, we know, secretary to at least four or five Premiers, and he must undoubtedly have been a man of particular qualifications; but the principle is wrong. They are not the only men of ability and qualifications in the service, and Ministers do not know the other men."

NO. 2 DISTRICT GUARD.

A sports meeting and drill competition to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the No. 2 District Guard was held at the Addison-road camp yesterday. Particular interest was centred in the drill competition, in which squads of twenty men, drawn from the Engineers at Moore Park, the Garrison Military Police, the camp at Liverpool, and the No. 2 District Guard, competed. The Liverpool team gave a well-finished display, but one of the members had the misfortune to drop his rifle, thus placing the team hors de combat. The G.M.P. gave a fine display of marching, and were only beaten by half a point by the No. 2 District Guard, whose finished performance, both as regards marching and the rifle manual, reflects the greatest credit on their instructor, C.M.S. Hodges. Various athletic events took place.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

MODERN EUROPE.

Although it is still too soon for a final estimate of the developments in international relations which culminated in the great war, "The Main Currents of European History, 1815 to 1915," by Professor F. J. Hearnshaw, is a most effective summing-up of the material at present at the historian's disposal. Professor Hearnshaw points out that though a century usually is an arbitrary period in the record of human affairs, that century of which he writes is by an odd coincidence complete in itself. The settlement after the Napoleonic wars definitely closed one era in European relationships, and opened another in which new ideals sought expression and new groups formed. This era lasted almost exactly a hundred years. It has been closed by a war, a war greater than any that Napoleon waged. Towards the end of it can be discerned tendencies which made the war inevitable. Here, again, by curious chance, the symmetry of arithmetic reinforces the classification of the historian. The death of Queen Victoria and the dawn of the new century are, as it were, symbols of a changed order. From 1901 to 1914 is a period of schism in which antagonisms became more sharply defined and friendships crystallised.

The two main currents of the 19th century, says Professor Hearnshaw, were broadly the growth in the sentiments of democracy and nationality. In Europe there was scarcely a country in which the people did not make a successful bid for greater freedom, greater control of the State. The manner of their endeavour, and the nature of their gains varied; the transfer of political power might be affected constitutionally and simply, as in Britain, by the mere extension of the franchise, or it might be accomplished through rivers of blood and the excesses of a commune. The attempt might fail, crushed by brute force, as in Austria, out-manoeuvred and befooled, as in Germany, but everywhere it was made. At the same time the consciousness of nationality was making itself felt; the unity of Italy was one of its greatest results. Another was the re-emergence of the small States in the south-east of Europe, with their passionate cravings for territorial adjustments which would enable those of common stock to enjoy common national independence.

Professor Hearnshaw holds that these two dominant tendencies of democracy and nationality do not in themselves make either for peace or for war. A democracy can be as bellicose as any dynasty—of this he quotes a dozen examples. A Louis Napoleon may make war to gratify his personal ambitions or to serve his personal ends, but equally a democratic "public opinion" may clamour for a war, which, to calmer judgment, appears utterly unjustifiable. The history of Britain during the last forty years supplies several instances. In the same way, the sentiment of nationality, an excellent thing in itself, may become Chauvinistic, and lead to aggression. It was the sentiment of nationality that was responsible for the formation of the German Empire. The author thinks that during the 19th century these twin currents were neutral in their influence on the issues of peace and war. But with the beginning of the 20th century came a change. The sentiment of nationality became aggressive; democracy, secure in the knowledge that it could an' it would, was less concerned with general principles and more with economic adjustments. It was preoccupied with the loaves and fishes.

In dealing with the 20th century, the author admits that he writes under serious disabilities. One is of perspective; the other of material. It is not easy, in writing of an enemy, to take the broad, detached view that historical impartiality requires, while in the historical documents of the past few years there may be suppressions and falsifications of which the full story has not yet been told. The consciousness of this makes him doubly cautious, but he believes that history will support his verdict, which is based very largely on German admissions. He holds that in Germany's resolve for war there were four factors, none of them powerful enough individually to impel her to so desperate a venture, but collectively and cumulatively decisive. In the first place, "in the sphere of foreign affairs it was clear that German diplomacy had reached the limits wherein success could be achieved by mere bluster and bluff—by the simple rattling of sabres, exhibition of shining armour, and shaking of mailed fists." Russia could not be expected to tolerate a repetition of the humiliation of 1909. France had made her last surrender in Morocco; even Britain, the long-suffering, had taken a definite stand in refusing to allow a German naval base on the Atlantic. Germany realised that the three Powers were yearly drawing closer together, and growing more determined to resist her outrageous pretensions. In the second place, there was the failure of the German colonial empire. A stock-taking at the end of twenty-five years showed a colossal deficit; nor had these colonies fulfilled their purpose in attracting immigrants. The French and Belgian possessions in Africa were a tempting bait, but they could not be had without war. The third cause was the increasing power of the Social Democrats, whom the Government sought at once to divert and discipline by war. The fourth cause was to be found in Germany's industrial and commercial difficulties. Fears of over-production and inflation had brought the economic fabric of Germany perilously close to collapse. Indemnities were wanted to repair the damage; new markets, fresh sources of mineral supply. These four factors, interworking with ever-increasing pressure, produced the climax of 1914. Nowhere where the shadow of democracy existed could they have gathered such force, but "the failure of the democratic and national movements in Germany and Austria-Hungary had committed the destinies of Central Europe into the hands of hopelessly reactionary forces. Round the despotisms of the two Emperors collected all the influences that conflicted with freedom, self-government, and progress. In 1914 these influences made their bid for complete and final victory. Never before had so great an issue been joined; perhaps never again will a war be waged in which so much is at stake. . . . In such a fight no compromise is possible, and amiable pacificists or weak sentimentalists who express a longing for peace without victory, and reconciliation without a decision, do not recognise that this is a conflict between light and darkness. If the German conspiracy and revolt against Europe should succeed, nay, if it should so much as escape complete disaster, then, indeed, would the future be black; for an inconclusive settlement could only mean the brief postponement to other and still more sanguinary battlefields of the uncompromisable issue whether in the common affairs of the Continent, the lawless force of Germany or the forceful law of the concert of Europe should prevail." (Macmillan.)

THE OLD ARMY.

Captain R. W. Campbell, whose racy pictures of the war have had such a vogue, has now turned his attention to fiction, but it must be admitted that, regarded solely as a novel, "Donald and Helen" is rather disappointing. The tale of the wooing of a Highland chieftain's daughter by the son of a cash draper fails to thrill our pulses; the social and sentimental element is rather unsatisfactory, and, really, Captain Campbell ought to know better than to permit his hero "to light a cigarette with the polished ease that he had unconsciously acquired at Oxford." But the professional interest of the book far outweighs any deficiencies that it may have as a work of fiction. It is a study of the old army shortly before the war, when it was in a period of transition, and—only just in time—adjusting itself to modern conditions. Captain Campbell yields to none in his admiration of the old army, but he does not hide its shortcomings. When Donald Loome joins a crack Highland regiment he meets with a rather doubtful reception, not so much because his father is a Radical and "in trade" as because he takes his work seriously. This was the day when the regimental officer was not expected to know much as long as he was personally brave and sportsmanlike. But Loome is par excellence the scientific soldier. He reads up the technical side of his subject, and on the human side, determined to make his company the crack one in the regiment, he cultivates his men. Meanwhile what was going on in A company was going on throughout the army. The military chiefs acted on the principle that "past campaigns have been won on drill books; future campaigns will be won on reference libraries." Organisation and preparation proceeded quietly but systematically. We are rather apt to disparage the British system, as compared with the German, but Captain Campbell refuses to permit this in the case of the B.E.F. This force was small, of course, but there was nothing wrong with its staff work, either in organisation or in intelligence. The whole system was cut and dried. The actual telegrams to officers and men had been all written out years before 1914, and the proclamations set up in type. The very woodwork used in fitting up the transports was all cut and marked, ready to be fixed on. Between the British military organisation of the South African war and that of 1914 there was an almost incredible difference. The career of Donald Loome symbolises the transition, and enables Captain Campbell to show us how it was brought about. (Hutchinson: Dymock's.)

THE LONG TRICK.

In "The Long Trick," the naval officer who writes under the pseudonym of "Bartimeus" continues his vivid sketches of the fleet at work. The book begins by adhering to the formula of a novel; its hero is our old friend Bunjie, the "India Rubber Man," a gymnastic instructor who has taken unto himself a wife, and leaves her to join a battleship at a base in a northern island. But soon any pretence at a consecutive narrative ceases, and "The Long Trick" becomes purely episodic. We are shown all sorts and conditions of men and craft, from the commodore to the "snotty," from the majestic super-dreadnought to the self-effacing submarine chaser. We are introduced to some admirable "types"—the ebullient midshipmen who turn the gun-room into a bear garden; "Mouldy Jakes," the pessimist who was known to smile but once in his career, and that was when the order came to take stations for action; and a dozen others, who differ in every essential save their devotion to duty and their esprit de corps. One of the best of them is a hard-bitten individual, "name of Gedge," who has threshed the seven seas under the red duster, and has discovered the metier in which his training and his natural instincts have their fullest scope. Gedge is a submarine hunter, and he approaches his job in exactly the same way as a big game shooter will deal with a tiger who has become dangerous to the neighbourhood. Gedge is a man of few words, but from time to time he meditatively cuts a notch on the bridge-rail of his little grey trawler—a notch that is more eloquent than an oration about the best way of defeating the submarine in theory. Gedge is also apparently the one man in the world who approves of the censorship; if he had his way the papers would not be allowed to publish any war news at all; his idea of heaven excludes special correspondents and resolves itself into a waste of sea, whereon he moves, adding innumerable notches to his tally. The book ends with a glimpse of the fight off Jutland, as seen from a great battleship, which, with her sisters, came into action after the British battle-cruiser squadron had engaged and held the German fleet. "Bartimeus" enables us to see the whole picture, the fog which parted for moments to reveal a stricken ship, or to open a target for the sixteen-inch guns; the bitter disappointment when night came and the big ships had no longer a chance of closing with their adversary. There are many "ifs" in the battle of Jutland; it may be that on the results of the day the honours were easy. But there is one thing certain; it is that it was not the British who broke off the action. (Cassell: Dymock's.)

NEW NOVELS.

Mr. Stephen M'Kenna has followed "Sonia" with "Ninety-six Hours' Leave," which, though of slighter texture than its predecessor, is nevertheless highly entertaining. We are introduced to three types of the new army, each keen on enjoying his respite from the trenches. There is Fenwick, of the A.S.C., ex-professor of logic, precise and donnish, but terribly efficient. There is Osborne, indolent, the apostle of good form, and thoroughly bored by the war. And, finally, there is the effervescent Kitten, who will fly off at a tangent at the sight of a pretty face. These are reinforced by Armitage, the sailor, breezy, resourceful, and ready for any sort of a rag. The methodical Fenwick has planned out every moment of their leave in a programme of discreet revelry, but his schemes are foiled by the irresponsible Kitten, who has no sooner reached London than he darts off in pursuit of a girl he has noticed at the station. His method of introduction is always the same. He buys a wrist watch, and pretends that he thinks that the lady has dropped it. Sometimes he loses the watch, but the acquaintance is always gained. Eventually the Kitten turns up at the meeting place, the fashionable Hotel Semiramis, attired in an appalling suit of ready-made reach-me-downs. No self-respecting head-waiter would allow such clothes to be seen in his exclusive dining room, so they pass him off as an Italian prince, who has come incognito to England on business of State. The princely role once assumed cannot easily be laid aside. Tremendous complications follow, and the fun becomes more intense when the real prince turns up, and has to be kept out of the way by the theft of his trousers. There is a serious element in the extravaganza, for two German agents are trying to assassinate the prince, and it is chiefly the desire to protect him and deal with his enemies that impels the Kitten and his friends to maintain the imposture. It is an extraordinarily clever book, in which, symbolically of the days we live in, tragedy jostles the broadest of farce, and flippancy goes hand in hand with genuine feeling. The action is compressed into an incredibly small space of time for all that happens, a vivid romantic crowded interlude of London, that recalls Stevenson's "New Arabian Nights," and then back they all go to the workaday monotony of the trenches. (Methuen: Sydney Book Club.)

Mrs. Edith Wharton has written novels about great men and great affairs in America; in "Summer" she has taken for a setting a little provincial village, which holds tragedies as poignant as may be found anywhere, although the actors in them are inconspicuous. Old Dormer is content in its stagnation; behind it is the brooding shadow of "The Mountain," where a wild breed of outlaws contrive to exist and admit only the parson and the lawyer; the parson shrives their souls, the lawyer is useful in protecting them from the consequences of their irregularities. Charity Royall is a child of the mountain and this has left in her a wild strain, which makes her greedy of the moment. Old Dormer is a dull place; Charity, who acts as librarian in a library unvisited except for purposes of flirtation, is vastly intrigued by the spark who comes to study the architecture of the old colonial days, and stays because he is captivated by her charms. So the tale moves to its inevitable ending. There are three characters in the book, Charity, her lover, and old lawyer Royall, Charity's adopted father. Lawyer Royall is a fine piece of work. We meet him as a drunken, dissipated old man, who nevertheless preserves a certain dignity and is capable of magnanimity on occasion. Charity had known him at his worst; she was to know him at his best. (Macmillan.)

MAILS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Much inconvenience is caused by north-west mails closing at the G.P.O. so early, viz., 4 p.m. The train does not leave till nearly three hours after. It is also said that inward mails are frequently not delivered till after the outward mail closes. Recently we had the unprecedented incident, war time, too, of some country post-offices being closed on New Year's Eve whilst all the business places, except banks, were open. It looks as if the public convenience was subordinated to that of the rank and file of this department.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"All that can be said is that two people happened to hit on the same thought—and Shakespeare made use of it first. That's all." Mr. Puff's apology for the scientific annexation of one of Othello's passionate phrases during the play rehearsal scene in Sheridan's comedy, "The Critic," is recalled by a development in connection with the recent New York production of "Madame Sand." Without even suggesting that Philip Moeller stole his thunder, a Sydney journalist, Mr. Humphrey Hall, who has written several plays, appears to have good ground for thinking that he was not only the first to make use of the "love affairs" of George Sand for dramatic purposes, but the first to bring the idea of presenting the famous French novelist as an interesting stage character, under the notice of Mrs. Fiske, who, by all accounts, is having a great success in the part. On December 13 Arthur Hopkins published the following on the theatrical page of the "New York Times":—"Philip Moeller came to the office one day with a brief synopsis of a play he wanted to write. I read it, and telephoned him to go to work immediately. In a week the first act was finished—it was splendid. I sent him on the trail of the second act—it was splendid. In a few days he had captured the third act, and 'Madame Sand' was finished."

An advocate would have no difficulty in convincing a judge in such matters that Mr. Humphrey Hall has a case to go to the jury. About twelve years ago Mr. Hall wrote a four-act play, "Madame Dudevant," with the famous novelist, under her proper name, as the principal character. This play, like the one now being performed in New York, opened in the Latin Quarter, Paris, and the second act (another coincidence) dealt with the "break" between George Sand and Alfred de Musset in Venice. The Sydney author sent a copy of his play to Mrs. Fiske. A little later he received the following note:—"New York, Feb. 9, 1909.—Mrs. Fiske has read the manuscript of your play, and she asks me to say that while she finds it interesting, it is not suitable to her use. I return the manuscript. Very truly, yours, Harrison Grey Fiske." In July, 1912, the second act of Mr. Hall's play was staged here as one of the features of "the Australian dramatists' matinee" at the Criterion Theatre, and was appraised in the "Herald" as "a piece of scholarly dramatic writing." Miss Stella Chapman appeared as George Sand, Miss Sylvia Bremer as Bonita (a servant), Mr. Douglas Ancelon as Alfred de Musset, and Mr. Clarence Lee as Dr. Pagello.

On the eve of Christmas Madame Melba arrived in New York in advance of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, which, under the direction of Signor Cleofante Campanini, was to open on January 22 "with many novelties in French, Italian, and English." To an interviewer Madame Melba explained that she had not been in England since June, 1914, and that she would not go there again until the end of the war. It was her intention, she added, to have a long holiday in Japan before returning to Australia. Speaking about the war the brilliant singer said that she was proud of her nephew, who had won the Military Medal. In this regard expression was given to " the hope of every Australian to see the war fought to a finish in 1918."

Patrons of the Criterion Theatre to-night are promised something out of the ordinary by the J. C. Williamson management in "The Willow Tree," which is described as "a modern stage setting of an ancient Japanese legend." A student of the drama, who recently visited Japan, assures us that Australians can have no conception of "the native art" in things theatrical. Such plays as "Madame Butterfly" and "The Darling of the Gods," he says, are not racy of the soil. "They are Western products, with a certain amount of Japanese colouring." Recording his impressions the keen-eyed observer writes:—"I acquired most of my knowledge at the Imperial Theatre at Tokio, which outside is not unlike the Vienna Grand Opera House, and the more typical Kabukiza. It may be news to Sydney playgoers that most of what is new in the West is old in the East. For instance, the revolving stage is as old as the hills in Japan, and 'the flower path,' or walking plank, from the stage to the auditorium, has been in use hundreds of years. Little is left to be desired in regard to scenery. Both interior and exterior scenes are wonderfully well designed and painted on the realistic plan. Smoking is allowed all over the theatre. Visitors leave their shoes or boots at the door of a little box, with hats, canes, parasols, or umbrellas. Slippers are provided. The audiences squat on mats, and as a rule only visitors use cushions. The Imperial Theatre holds about 2000 persons. Usually five or six plays of varying length are performed on a single afternoon and evening, the drama being interspersed with dancing, farce, and musical comedy. If you go to a picture show you will find a lecturer or interpreter who explains what is being shown on the screen. The Japanese have been accustomed to a Greek chorus, or "announcer," from time immemorial. The orchestra is confined in a cage. The performances start at 5.30 in the afternoon and terminate about midnight. There is a restaurant handy. What is spoken of as the modern school of Japanese dramatic art is on the wane. Still there are occasional performances of Shakespeare, Ibsen, Shaw, and Maeterlinck. Evidently the Japanese prefer the classic dramas of Old Yedo and Kabuki (the Japanese stage). I saw several very fine Japanese actors and actresses, but I doubt if the day will ever come when these artists will seek to win applause out of their own country."

The J. and N. Tait management have decided to keep on "Turn to the Right" at the Palace Theatre until the arrival of the "Aladdin" pantomime, with Mr. Bert Bailey as the Dame. The one-hundredth Sydney performance of the American farce-comedy (two seasons) will be reached on Tuesday next. After the pantomime Mr. Guy Bates Post, who has been secured in New York, will make his first appearance here in "The Masquerader." In London Mr. Nevin Tait has purchased for his firm the Australian rights of "The Invisible Foe," in which Mr. H. B. Irving was recently successful.

Mdlle. Antonia Dolores is giving concerts in Tasmania. Miss Ella Caspers, who left this week for Hobart, will give a series of 10 concerts in the island, and will return to Sydney in time to sing at the second of the Royal Philharmonic Society's popular concerts in the Town Hall.

The Lidcombe Borough Band won the C grade competition at the Sydney Sports Ground on Wednesday night, with John Gladney's arrangement of Verdi's "Stiffelio." The custom of having the judge "folded away" in a tent is followed at these inter-State band contests. Sometimes accidents happen. Shortly before the Besses o' th' Barn Band came to Australia there was a humorous finish to a high-pressure contest in England. Under the belief that the adjudicator was in his little tent, band after band mounted the stand and gave of their best. As there was no sign of life in the tent, it was decided, after an hour's wait for the awards, to request the judge to announce the points. Then, and not till then, was it discovered that the judge had missed the train which was to have brought him to the contest. The tent was empty, and there had been five hours' waste of style, sympathy, and sonorous sound, to say nothing of wind and energy.

Almost untouched by "Time's defacing finger" the Garden Theatre, in Bayswater-road, Darlinghurst, vanished this week like the baseless fabric of a dream. The place had been closed since the last troupe of "Dandies" danced and sang and did their best to look happy. On Thursday carts and lorries removed the "remains" of the proscenium and other memories of departed mirth.

DISTRESS RELIEF FUND.

At the final meeting of the Lord Mayor's distress relief committee held on Wednesday financial statements showed that street collections amounted to £3590 17s 5d, and receipts from other sources £3218 18s 4d. The Lord Mayor's city relief demonstration cost £877 7s 8d, and the balance of the fund was disbursed in relief of distress amongst women and children. When accounts closed there was a balance of £3 1s 3d.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

That old Kitely was shrewd—shrewd. He had at once hit on a fact which those Wilchester folk of thirty years ago had never suspected. It had been said at the time that the two offenders had lost the building society's money in gambling and speculation, and there had been grounds for such a belief. But that was not so. Most of the money had been skilfully and carefully put where the two conspirators could lay hands on it as soon as it was wanted, and when the term of imprisonment was over they had nothing to do but take possession of it for their own purposes. They had engineered everything very well—Cotherstone's essentially constructive mind, regarding their doings from the vantage ground of thirty thirty years' difference, acknowledged that they had been cute, crafty, and cautious to an admirable degree of perfection. Quietly and unobtrusively they had completely disappeared from their own district in the extreme South of England, when their punishment was over. They had let it get abroad that they were going to another continent, to retrieve the past and start a new life; it was even known that they repaired to Liverpool, to take ship for America. But in Liverpool they had shuffled off everything of the past—names, relations, antecedents. There was no reason why any one should watch them out of the country, but they had adopted precautions against such watching. They separated, disappeared, met again in the far North, in a sparsely-populated, lonely country of hill and dale, led there by an advertisement which they had seen in a local newspaper, met with by sheer chance in a Liverpool hotel. There was an old-established business to sell as a going concern, in the dale town of Highmarket; the two ex-convicts bought it. From that time they were Anthony Mallalieu and Milford Cotherstone, and the past was dead.

During the thirty years in which that past had been dead, Cotherstone had often heard men remark that this world of ours is a very small one, and he had secretly laughed at them. To him and to his partner the world had been wide and big enough. They were now four hundred miles away from the scene of their crime. There was nothing whatever to bring Wilchester people into that northern country, nothing to take Highmarket folk anywhere near Wilchester. Neither he nor Mallalieu ever went far afield—London they avoided with particular care, lest they should meet any one there who had known them in the old days. They had stopped at home, and minded their own business, year in and year out. Naturally, they had prospered. They had speedily become known as hard-working young men; then as good employers of labour; finally as men of considerable standing in a town of which there were only some five thousand inhabitants. They had been invited to join in public matters—Mallalieu had gone into the Town Council first; Cotherstone had followed him later. They had been as successful in administering the affairs of the little town as in conducting their own; and in time both had attained high honours; Mallalieu was now wearing the mayoral chain for the second time, Cotherstone, as borough treasurer, had governed the financial matters of Highmarket for several years. And as he sat there, staring at the red embers of the office fire, he remembered that there were no two men in the whole town who were more trusted and respected than he and his partner—his partner in success . . . and in crime.

But that was not all. Both men had married within a few years of their coming to Highmarket. They had married young women of good standing in the neighbourhood; it was perhaps well, reflected Cotherstone, that their wives were dead, and that Mallalieu had never been blessed with children. But Cotherstone had a daughter, of whom he was as fond as he was proud; for her he had toiled and contrived, always intending her to be a rich woman. He had seen to it that she was well educated; he had even allowed himself to be deprived of her company for two years while she went to an expensive school, far away; since she had grown up, he had surrounded her with every comfort. And now, as Kitely had reminded him, she was engaged to be married to the most promising young man in Highmarket, Windle Bent, a rich manufacturer, who had succeeded to and greatly developed a fine business, who had already made his mark on the Town Council, and was known to cherish Parliamentary ambitions. Everybody knew that Bent had a big career before him; he had all the necessary gifts; all the proper stuff in him for such a career. He would succeed; he would probably win a title for himself—a baronetcy, perhaps a peerage. This was just the marriage which Cotherstone desired for Lettie; he would die more than happy if he could once hear her called Your Ladyship. And now here was—this.

Cotherstone sat there a long time, thinking, reflecting, reckoning up things. The dusk had come; the darkness followed; he made no movement towards the gas bracket. Nothing mattered but his trouble. That must be dealt with. At all costs, Kitely's silence must be purchased—aye, even if it cost him and Mallalieu one-half of what they had. And, of course, Mallalieu must be told—at once.

A tap of somebody's knuckles on the door of the private room roused him at last, and he sprang up and seized a box of matches as he bade the person without to enter. The clerk came in, carrying a sheaf of papers, and Cotherstone bustled to the gas.

"Dear me!" he exclaimed. "I'd dropped off into a nod over this warm fire, Stoner. What's that—letters?"

"There's all these letters to sign, Mr. Cotherstone, and these three contracts to go through," answered the clerk. "And there are those specifications to examine, as well."

"Mr. Mallalieu'll have to see those," said Cotherstone. He lighted the gas above his desk, put the decanter and the glasses aside, and took the letters. "I'll sign these, anyhow," he said, "and then you can post 'em as you go home. The other papers'll do to-morrow morning."

The clerk stood slightly behind his master as Cotherstone signed one letter after the other, glancing quickly through each. He was a young man of twenty-two or three, with quick, observant manners, a keen eye, and a not unhandsome face, and as he stood there the face was bent on Cotherstone with a surmising look. Stoner had noticed his employer's thoughtful attitude, the gloom in which Cotherstone sat, the decanter on the table, the glass in Cotherstone's hand, and he knew that Cotherstone was telling a fib when he said he had been asleep. He noticed, too, the six sovereigns and the two or three silver coins lying on the desk, and he wondered what had made his master so abstracted that he had forgotten to pocket them. For he knew Cotherstone well, and Cotherstone was so particular about money that he never allowed even a penny to lie out of place.

"There!" said Cotherstone, handing back the batch of letters. "You'll be going now, I suppose. Put those in the post. I'm not going just yet, so I'll lock up the office. Leave the outer door open—Mr. Mallalieu's coming back."

He pulled down the blinds of the private room when Stoner had gone, and that done he fell to walking up and down, awaiting his partner. And presently Mallalieu came, smoking a cigar, and evidently in as good humour as usual.

"Oh, you're still here?" he said as he entered. "I—what's up, like?"

He had come to a sudden halt close to his partner, and he now stood staring at him. And Cotherstone, glancing past Mallalieu's broad shoulder at a mirror, saw that he himself had become startlingly pale and haggard. He looked twenty years older than he had looked when he shaved himself that morning.

"Aren't you well?" demanded Mallalieu. "What is it?"

Cotherstone made no answer. He walked past Mallalieu and looked into the outer office. The clerk had gone, and the place was only half lighted. But Cotherstone closed the door with great care, and when he went back to Mallalieu he sank his voice to a whisper.

"Bad news!" he said. "Bad—bad news!"

"What about?" asked Mallalieu. "Private? Business?"

Cotherstone put his lips almost close to Mallalieu's ear.

"That man Kitely—my new tenant," he whispered. "He's met us—you and me—before!"

Mallalieu's rosy cheeks paled, and he turned sharply on his companion.

"Met—us!" he exclaimed. "Him! Where?—when?"

Cotherstone got his lips still closer.

"Wilchester!" he answered. "Thirty years ago. He—knows!"

Mallalieu dropped into the nearest chair; dropped as if he had been shot. His face, full of colour from the keen air outside, became as pale as his partner's; his jaw fell, his mouth opened; a strained look came into his small eyes.

"Gad!" he muttered hoarsely. "You—you don't say so!"

"It's a fact," answered Cotherstone. "He knows everything. He's an ex-detective. He was there—that day."

"Tracked us down?" asked Mallalieu. "That it?"

"No," said Cotherstone. "Sheer chance—pure accident. Recognised us—after he came here. Aye—after all these years! Thirty years."

(To be continued.)

An outbreak of fire occurred yesterday morning at No. 2 Mercantile Free Store, Circular Quay, where a large quantity of copra was stored. Fire brigades from headquarters and George-street North subdued the outbreak with the aid of chemical extinguishers. Four bags of copra were slightly damaged.

MISSION STUDY SCHOOL.

The sixth mission study school, under the auspices of the New South Wales Council for Missionary Education, will be held at Springwood at Easter, extending from March 30 to April 6. It is hoped that all members will plan to reach Springwood in time for tea at 5.45 on Saturday, March 30. The opening meeting will be held in the Parish Hall at 7.30 p.m. A recreation committee is planning excursions, to which each afternoon except Sunday will be given up. Among the speakers will be Principal Thatcher, the Revs. A. B. Palmer, G. J. Wheen, Copland King, C. A. White, B.A., F. C. Philip, M.A., W. E. Bennett, M.A., and E. J. Bannan, Mesdames J. Jones and H. J. Renwick, and Miss Perkins. The addresses will cover a wide range of subjects, including the needs of primitive peoples (the Pacific and in Mohammed lands), the need of India, China, and Japan, the place of missionary education in the Church, and the promotion of such education.

THE UNION MOVEMENT.

As a practical outcome of the effort being made towards a union of the Churches, members and adherents of five Churches—Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Congregational, and the Church of Christ—assembled at the Albert-street Methodist Church, Brisbane, on Wednesday night, and joined in a combined Communion service. The gathering was most encouraging as regards size. The chairman (Rev. W. Waters) said it showed that a great number of Brisbane worshippers realised the urgency of the movement.

The anniversary of the first act of worship of the Church in Australia will this year be celebrated on February 3. The first service was on Sunday, February 3, 1788, on "the first Sunday after the landing" from the first fleet. The landing had taken several days, and on the Sunday after the service was held in the open air "under a great tree." The Rev. Richard Johnson conducted the service, and preached from the text, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" (Psalm cxvi., 12). The anniversary will be observed in a large number of parishes.

The following cablegram from the Lord Mayor's Committee, London, has been received by his Excellency the Governor-General:—"Arrangements are being made, with support of Archbishop of Canterbury and religious leaders, for regarding Sunday, February 3 as a day for intercessions and collections wherever possible on behalf of Armenia. The Lord Mayor's Committee trust that steps may be taken to observe this day for a similar purpose in Australia." This message has been communicated to the heads of Churches in compliance with the request of the Lord Mayor's Committee that the appeal be brought to the notice of all religious bodies in Australia.

The annual "retreat" of the priests of the Diocese of Sydney was held this week at St. Patrick's College, Manly.

To-morrow Archbishop Kelly will preside at a meeting in St. Patrick's Church, Church Hill, the object of which is to rebuild the old Parochial School of the Marist Brothers.

The Rev. H. Gainford, of Milton, Queensland, has occupied the pulpit at Newtown Congregational Church for two Sundays, will terminate his engagement to-morrow prior to returning to the northern State.

Not only has the intercession service in the Pitt-street Congregational Church taken place every Tuesday without intermission since the outbreak of the war, but interest in it has been so sustained that the congregations have been uniformly large. The speaker last Tuesday was Chaplain Gordon Robertson. The Rev. William Allen will give the address next Tuesday.

The congregation at Scots' Church has chosen to-morrow as the rallying day in connection with their effort to extinguish the debt upon the church property. They are aiming at raising £1500, and already a considerable sum has been received and promised. Special services are being arranged for the occasion.

The general secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society (Rev. J. G. Wheen) says that the financial results of the organisation for last year give promise of proving most satisfactory, the revenue from all the States, and also New Zealand, as well as from the Island missions, being in advance of that for the previous year.

The Methodist Conference Foreign Mission Secretary for New South Wales (Rev. G. H. Hewitt) reports largely-attended services and meetings, and also a large increase on last year's returns, in connection with the deputation work at Harden. Mr. Hewitt adds that throughout the State over £9000 was raised last year for the foreign mission work, being an increase of about £600 on the previous year's figures.

The official organ of the Methodist Church announces that the annual meeting of the Board of Missions will begin on Wednesday, February 6. It is expected there will be representatives from all the States of Australia, also from New Zealand and from Fiji, and possibly some other mission districts. For the first time four lady members will have seats at the annual meeting.

Mr. Leslie Piper, whose solo work has been one of the features of the Lyceum congregations, and who is with the A.A.M.C. in France, is reported to have been wounded.

Mr. A. E. Marler, late of Narrabri, has taken charge of the Church of Christ, South Kensington.

Mr. T. Eagle, of Taree, will commence work with the Erskineville Church of Christ on February 3. Until recently he was associated with the Baptist Church in Queensland.

Mr. A. E. Illingworth, minister of the Enmore Tabernacle, who has been on holidays for the past month at Newport, Pittwater, will resume his ministry to-morrow.

The annual report of the New South Wales Bush Missionary Society disclosed the fact that there are two missionaries employed by the association; Mr. Corlett travels the northern districts, the Clarence, Richmond, and Tweed rivers, across to New England, Tenterfield, out to the Gwydir, Moree, Manilla, and Singleton. During last year he travelled approximately 3000 miles by van, visited 700 homes, held 90 services, sold £75 worth of copies of the Scriptures and books, and distributed numerous tracts. Mr. Sutcliffe, the other missionary, is to travel the country from the Western line at Cobar down to the Victorian border, including the great Riverina and the Monaro—a district big enough for three missionaries, and one which with the present staff can be visited only once in three years. Three legacies were left to the mission during last year—from the late Mr. W. McCall, of Blackheath, £200; the late Mr. G. L. Fuller, of Kiama, £100; and the late Miss M. L. Penfold, of Gordon, £10. The balance-sheet shows £176 in hand.

About 500 Salvation Army officers are changing their corps during this month. These include a hundred who are being transferred from one division to another. A few are inter-State changes, but more are inter-divisional. In the Army's experience such changes have proved a great stimulus, and have produced an increase of vitality to the whole concern.

Adjutant Egan, who has been in charge of the Salvation Army at Granville for some time, has been transferred to Waterloo; and Commandant Norrie, from Queensland, will take his place. At a farewell tendered to the adjutant, at which Major Townsend presided, the four ministers present, the Revs. McLennan, Pittinger, McDonald, and Granford, presented the adjutant with a book in which their names were inscribed, as a mark of the respect in which he was held by them.

The Rev. C. F. Andrews, a double first-class of Cambridge, and for some time fellow of Pembroke College, is on a visit to Australia. Of late he has been closely identified with the Indian national movement. He rendered signal service in bringing about a peaceful settlement of the serious difficulty a few years ago between the Natal Government and the Indian settlers in South Africa.

She denied having stolen the brooch, however, and said that she had pawned it for and under the name of Mrs. Brooks, of Arthur-street, Pyrmont. In reply to the police prosecutor, witness stated that no such street existed in Pyrmont.

The church was decorated with white flowers. The bride, who entered the church with her sister, wore a bridal gown of ivory crepe Georgette, embroidered in lilies, over a double flounce of rose point lace; the same lace was used on the corsage, and to finish the full-length sleeves. The train was beautified by two long panels of lace and posies of orange blossoms, the whole being lightly veiled in tulle. The long veil was of tulle, which fell from a lace cap, kept in place with a wreath of orange blossoms and jewelled filet. Her bouquet and diamond bracelet were, with a squirrel coat and silver fox furs, her bridegroom's presents. The bridesmaids, Misses Mollie and Doris Johnston, wore pale grey crepe-de-Chine frocks, grey hats with pink posies, and carried silver baskets of Dorothy Perkins roses, which, with diamond cluster rings, were the bridegroom's gifts. Mrs. Tomkinson afterwards held a reception at the Hotel Australia. The dining-room was brightly decorated with pink and white flowers. The cake was ornamented with sheep and wheat. The bride's travelling costume was of ivory crepe marguerite, and a motor bonnet. The honeymoon was spent in touring New South Wales by motor. Eventually, Mr. Neale left for the front.

Brooks, was attired in a gown of white Georgette; the train of brocaded crepe-de-Chine was lined with shell pink tulle, and finished with large true lovers' knots. She carried a sheaf of white heather and carnations. The bridal veil of embroidered Brussels net was worn over the face. Misses Muriel Scott and Gladys Loveridge were in attendance as bridesmaids, and wore gowns of shell pink crepe-de-Chine, embroidered with blue. Their hats being of black tulle and blue posies. Their bouquets were composed of pink heather and carnations. The best man was Mr. A. E. Harper, of Sydney. The church was decorated in the bridegroom's colours. A number of the local troop of boy scouts, under Troop-leader Boyd, was in attendance, and formed a guard of honour at the church door. The bridal car was drawn by the boys to the Golden Fleece Hotel, where the reception was held, the bride cutting the wedding cake with her husband's sword. Later Major and Mrs. Loveridge left for an extended honeymoon, the bride travelling in a Navy crepe-de-Chine coat and skirt, with hat to match. Major Loveridge, a member of the 1st Anzac Divisional Train, has been at the front over three years; he is here on furlough.

Mr. A. F. Dawson, Crown Prosecutor.

John Thomas, 47, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assaulting Maggie Courtney-Pratt, at Paddington, on September 26 last, and robbing her of a watch and chain, 12s in money, and sundry small articles. The jury found the accused guilty. He was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment in Parramatta Gaol.

John Clare was charged with assaulting Thomas Smith at Sydney on the 3rd instant. He pleaded not guilty. The accused was bound over in his own recognisances in the sum of £20 to come up for trial if called upon within twelve months.

He was further charged with receiving the articles. Mr. Maddocks Cohen, who appeared for the prisoner, said that the latter had enlisted for active service, and that the military authorities would still accept him. His Honor sentenced O'Hara to nine months' imprisonment, and ordered him to enter into recognisances, himself in £30 and two sureties in £15 each, to be of good behaviour for three years, in default an additional sentence of three months.

John Mitchell pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling the sum of £32, the property of Henry James Craig and another, his masters, at Sydney, on the 10th ultimo. Mr. W. D. M'Mahon, who appeared for the prisoner, called witnesses as to the latter's previous good character, and stated that restitution of the stolen money would be made. Mitchell was remanded for sentence, his Honor remarking that if immediate restitution were made he would take that fact into consideration.

John Milham, 73, was charged with indecently assaulting a girl of the age of 12 years and 9 months, at Randwick, on the 30th ultimo. He pleaded not guilty. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and added a rider complimenting a witness, Thomas M'Clenahan, on his prompt action in following the prisoner when he took the little girl away. His Honor endorsed the jury's comment, and said to Mr. M'Clenahan that it was due to him that the girl had not suffered seriously. Milham was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Goulburn Gaol, this being his first offence.

Stanley Misson and James Nicholas, who had been found guilty of receiving a motor car and accessories, knowing the same to be stolen, were brought up for sentence. REAL ESTATE.

Last year was a record one in real estate circles as far as the war period is concerned and if the business transacted this month can be taken as an indication for 1918, then the present year will eclipse those immediately preceding it. This year has opened up well in every branch of the work. January is a quiet month for business, as a rule most people are holidaying, but agents everywhere are unusually busy just now, and this does not apply to any one section of the business, but is general.

The indoor auctions were well attended this week, and there was good competition for a number of the properties offered, with a result that sales were effected in many instances at pre-war prices.

An instance of keen competition was witnessed yesterday at the rooms of Messrs Richardson and Wrench, where, in the presence of a large attendance, Mr. Gregg, with whom were associated Mr. H. Gorman (Hardie and Gorman) and Mr. Rabett (Raine and Horne), submitted, on behalf of the City Council, the building lease for 50 years of the property at the corner of William-street and Darlinghurst-road known as King's Cross, Darlinghurst, which property had been resumed in connection with the widening of William-street. This valuable corner had been divided into five allotments. One, the corner site, was keenly contested. The offers started at a bid of £300 per year ground rent. The bidding rose to £400 per year in small bids. Then one of the parties competing offered £500 per year. In £25 bids the offers were carried further until the offer of a rental of £725 per annum was reached. At this figure it was knocked down to Mr. S. Pearl. Lot 2 had been leased privately by the City Council. Lot 3 realised a rental of £170 per year, and lot 4 was knocked down at a rental of £171 per year.

At the same sale Pfahlert's Hotel, at Wynyard-square, came under the hammer, but there were no offers for this property, which will probably command a more ready sale privately. An investment property of six houses at Potts Point was sold after good competition for £4625, a cottage at Petersham brought £800, another cottage in the same suburb was sold subject to approval for £550, and a house at Waverley, known as St. Heliers, was knocked down subject to approval for £700. There was bidding for several of the other properties on the list. During the week this firm sold two dwellings fronting the Boulevard, Petersham, for £1150; a cottage, Mount-street, Hurlstone Park, £700; three leaseholds, Phillip-street, Alexandria, £425; an allotment, March-street, Bellevue Hill, £4 per foot (£200); an allotment, Fairweather-street, Bellevue Hill, £4 per foot (£200); a lot, Delmar Park Estate, Deewhy, at 45/ per foot (£107); two blocks at Smithfield at £12 per acre, and two lots at £10 per acre; an allotment, Glen-street, Eastwood, at 35/ per foot; two allotments, Williams' subdivision, Bundanoon, at £40 per block, and an allotment, Alleyne-street, Manly, at 15/ per foot.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had a good attendance at their fortnightly indoor sale on Thursday, and a list of about a dozen properties was handled by Mr. Rabett, some of these excited good competition. A house, Shepherd-street, Darlington, was sold for £500; a cottage at Bexley was disposed of for £600; a house, Riley-street, Surry Hills, found a buyer at £500; and a residence in Glassop-street, Balmain, was sold for £450. For a residence, known as Tara, at Glebe Point, £775 was offered. This was within a few pounds of the reserve, but as neither party would give way the property was passed in for private treaty. During the week the firm sold a residence at Mosman for £2500, and a factory site at Alexandria, consisting of five acres, at £800 per acre (£4000).

One of the busiest firms in the city this week was Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, who had quite a record result for this time of the year. The firm sold a warehouse property on the northern side of Barrack-street, between George and York-street, for £18,000; a property in Bridge-street, between George and Pitt streets, for £12,000. The whole of the unsold portion of the Chamberlain estate, Artarmon, consisting of 27 lots in one line, for £1363; a weatherboard cottage, Stanley-street, Waverley, for £275; and two allotments, Collaroy Park estate, Narrabeen, at 40s per foot (£200.)

Messrs. Stanton and Son, Ltd., report having sold the following properties during the week:—Brick cottage, Crinan-street, Hurlstone Park, £975; brick cottage, Church-street, Burwood, £650; brick cottage, Minna-street, Burwood, £960; brick cottage, Stanton-road, Haberfield, £1100; brick cottage, Rocky Point-road, Rockdale, £1000.

Messrs. Arthur Richard and Co., Ltd., report very keen competition for seaside lots during the week. At Woy Woy, on the firms two principal beaches, viz., Pretty Beach Extension and Ettalong Beach, many satisfactory sales were completed. At Ettalong Beach considerable improvements have been effected The motor drive from Woy Woy is completed. Pumps and good footpaths have been added to the estate, and a number of bungalows will shortly be erected there. At Toongabbie, Bargo, Riverstone, and Bankstown several poultry farms were placed. Homesites also found buyers at Hurstville and Balmoral. On the whole the transactions were in excess of those of the same period of the preceding year.

Messrs. Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd., acting as agents for the Union Trustee Company of Australia, Ltd., administrators of the estate of the late A. Amos, report the direct sale of Tulloona station, Moree district. The property comprises 46,102 acres of secured land, and about 11,500 acres of leases. 25,000 sheep, 1385 cattle, and 143 horses were included in the transaction. Messrs. T. F. and J. Grills, of Guyra, were the purchasers. Tulloona was originally selected by the late Mr. Dines, and was held by the late Mr. Amos for about 40 years.

Messrs. E. C. V. Broughton and Co. sold during the week an allotment, Moore-street, Freshwater, £157; two lots, Central-street, Penshurst, £160; a weatherboard cottage, Belgium-street, Punchbowl, £157; cottage, Victoria-road, Punchbowl, £200; cottage, Lakemba, £190; and a cottage, Peakhurst, £230.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. (Mr. A. T. Carpenter) report having sold during the week cottage residence, Archer-street, Chatswood, £1087; subdivision block, Middle Harbour, £2250; allotment, Searl-street, Cronulla, £141.

Two important sales of city and suburban properties have been arranged by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, Horning and Co., and Stanton and Son, acting in conjunction. The properties are in the estate of the late Mr. Samuel Hordern, and will be offered at the instance of the trustees. The first sale will be at the rooms of the association, in Castlereagh-street, on February 26, when a lengthy list of good investments will come under the hammer.

Last Saturday's subdivision sales were most successful. The Mount Pleasant Estate, at Cheltenham, was offered by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, when 30 allotments realised £8741. The prices ran from 35/ to £7/12/6 per foot. The same firm also offered the Sea View Estate, at South Head. Twelve lots were sold at from 30/ to 46/ per foot. This yielded a total of £1117. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench sold 17 allotments in the Emerald Hill Estate, Strathfield South, at prices from 15/ to 32/ per foot. Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. disposed of portions of the Hawthorn Estate, at Chatswood, at £2/10/ per foot, while Messrs. Horning and Co. sold 12 lots of the Barton Hill Estate, at Fairfield, at good prices.

Taking advantage of the holiday, a number of subdivision sales have been arranged for Baroona Estate at Church Point, Bayview, the Barona Estate will come under the hammer, when Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves will submit some good week-end allotments. Special arrangements have been made for free trips by motor car to the estate. There will be two sales in the Cronulla district this afternoon. Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will submit the Surf-view Estate, from which the main surfing beach can be reached in five minutes. There are 23 good allotments to select from.

Another sale to-day by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will be held at Austinmer on the South Coast. The land is near the beach and railway station. Mr. C. Monro has arranged a capital sale for this afternoon of the Long View Estate, between Cronulla and Sutherland. This is choice building land and ought to sell well.

There is a sale arranged for Narrabeen to-day, when Mr. A. Edgar will submit 3 choice business sites at the tram terminus.

There are two sales arranged for to-day at Katoomba. Messrs. Backhouse and Goyder will submit 14 elevated lots in the Stredwick Estate, and Messrs. Mackenzie and Lawrie will offer four choice building sites in the town.

Messrs. Horning and Co. have arranged a sale for to-day at Dora Creek. The land is within five minutes of the local railway station and two miles from Lake Macquarie.

ON THE LAND.

BIRD NAMES.

(BY W. M. SHERRIE.)

A movement has been initiated with the object of having many of the birds of Australia re-named. It would be an advantage to ornithology and to nature study generally if some effective means could be devised for placing this question of bird nomenclature upon a more euphonious and satisfactory footing, but the problem is one which bristles with difficulties. It may be admitted that not a few of the cumbersome names given to indigenous birds are both inharmonious and ridiculous. For many years no better "popular" name could be given the beautiful and brilliantly melodious Whistler (genus Pachycephala) than Thickhead. Recently this ugly and inappropriate name has been discarded, but scores of equally silly names are retained for other birds. Even now the names given to these exquisite songsters are cumbersome, since we have the golden-breasted whistler, the rufous-breasted whistler, and the red-throated whistler. We also have the yellow-breasted shrike tit, the black-throated butcherbird, the yellow-rumped tit, the white-shouldered caterpillar-eater, the striated grass wren, the white-throated scrub wren, the white-rumped woodswallow, the blue-breasted superb warbler, the rufous bristle-bird, the white-browed treecreeper, the sooty oystercatcher, the striated field wren (or "stink-bird"), the chestnut-rumped ground bird, and so on. Even when such simple European names as cuckoo, lark, thrush, etc., have been adopted they have other words prefixed to them in such a way as to make them unwieldy and unpoetic to the last degree.

It has been suggested (by Mr. David Stead, I think) that aborigines' names should be adopted for Australian birds. The idea would be an excellent one if it could be consistently and successfully applied without making the confusion which already prevails worse confounded. The difficulty in this respect lies mainly in the fact that different Australian tribes had different names for the same birds. Some of the names which have, as a matter of fact, come into use among bush people, if not among ornithologists, are those given by the now extinct Woragery tribe, which once roamed the country from the Murrumbidgee to the Murray and beyond into the north-eastern regions of Victoria. The blacks—as is common among wild things—had a singularly acute sense of hearing, and they were very exact in reproducing the calls of birds. As a general thing they named birds after their calls. Thus the wood-duck became g'naroo, and the black swan gunyick or gunyuck. One of the best examples of their capacity for accurately translating the calls of birds is found in the case of the hawk owl, which popular nomenclature designates as the "mopoke," or "morepork." The call of this bird is literally as near to "boobook" as it is possible to express it in words, and that was the name given to the pretty little owl by the blacks. On the whole the names used by the aborigines for identifying birds were more expressive, more simple, and more apt than the names given to the same species by white people. They called the black and white cormorant Baratta, the wattle-bird (gillbird) Biaratt, the leatherhead Bobala, the native companion Braigon, the light blue crane Gungaroo, the eagle Mulyan, the bronze-winged pigeon Wabba, the black cormorant Wonga, the crow Wargan, the cockatoo Weimar, the waterhen (coot) Milliyung.

However, the difficulty of substituting native names to any useful extent for those now in use would be accentuated by two other drawbacks, in addition to that already noted, since not only different tribes had different names for the same birds, but often a duplication would be found, even in the language of the one tribe. Thus the names bobala and carabobala were applied to the one bird, the leatherhead, while the magpie was mittigong or wipplegong, or noorengong or wantigong, in the tongue of the Woragery tribe, at all events. The swallow was called yarabin or derabin. A few of the bird names of this tribe are, of course, already incorporated in the language, as, for instance, kookaburra, gang-gang, galah, corella, wabba, wonga wonga, boobook, and others. What between a multiplicity of local names which are applied to the same birds in different parts of the country, and the conflict of many of these with the accepted names of ornithology, the position is bad enough now, but one honestly questions whether it would be greatly improved by adopting the comparatively few native names available. Something might well be done to simplify and render more apt and euphonious many of the cumbersome names by which so considerable a percentage of Australian birds are at present identified, but even this undertaking is not as easy as it might seem if the work is to be adequately done and assurance given that the last position shall not be worse than the first.

THE WOOL TRADE.

EFFECT OF NARROW VIEWS.

The sixth series of catalogues in the Sydney market closed on Thursday, and the seventh series under the revised conditions commenced yesterday. Some little dissatisfaction has been expressed at the alterations for the current series; generally, however, the revision is considered to be a good and equitable one. Exception has been taken to wools that were formerly marketed in London being catalogued in the order of shearing dates, because some smaller growers may thereby have to come into a later appraisement than would otherwise be the case. This is a very narrow view to take of the position. All the wool has to be appraised now in one or other of the markets of the Commonwealth, and surely none should be penalised in the matter of appraisement dates because they were formerly catalogued in London. Rather should there be cause for rejoicing in trade circles that Australian wools are now being sold in the local markets, and that equitable treatment under war conditions is likely to be requited when normal conditions in trade return, by all those clips being realised in future in Australia and not in London.

The narrow view in wool is not a good one. Wool is one of the most cosmopolitan of commodities. Australia is unique for its wide range of qualities, and for a large proportion of wools that cannot be obtained in such quantities in any other wool-growing country in the world. It has played a considerable part in the war in providing the British Empire with wool for our army and navy as well as for some of our Allies. Also, by blocking it from going to the enemy, crippling Germany and Austria. Lack of wool in enemy countries has impaired the quality of its military equipment, and curbed some of the civil population in its enthusiasm for a war of aggrandisement.

How great a part wool can play in other directions is not so widely recognised. The cable from Washington this week, that M. Tanimura, Japanese Live Stock Commissioner, in a speech at the convention of the Wool-growers' Association, said the embargos on the exportation of wool from Australia made it necessary for Japan to seek United States wool, is a case in point. For instance, if Japan had been allowed to secure greasy and scoured wool from Australia, instead of being restricted to wool tops, Japan would not have to seek wool in the United States, a country that only grows a very small proportion of wool for its own requirements, nor would Japanese buyers have had to go to South Africa for wool supplies after November 23, 1916. How far-reaching this was is only now being realised. Japanese competition with America in South Africa forced up wool values to such an extent that when the British Government sought to acquire the wool production of the growers in the Union a section in South Africa urged growers to refuse to accept the acquisition proposals because open market rates (forced up by Japan) were higher than the British Government's offer.

So unfortunate was this narrow view, taken in South Africa, that only three-eighths of the South African clip was put under offer to the British Government in October last. Prior to Japan going to South Africa the Americans were able to secure wool more or less on a parity with Australian prices; but when the Japanese competed values soared to such an extent that the disloyal element in the Union had a good argument why growers should not offer the wool to the Government at 55 per cent. above the pre-war rates. A generous policy in regard to greasy and scoured wool supplies from Australia to Japan would have saved the acquisition situation in South Africa, or gone a long way towards making the British Government's offer there a success.

THIS WEEK'S APPRAISEMENTS.

Appraisements have been proceeding uninterruptedly this week, and wools from a wide area of the State have been catalogued. INTERSTATE MARKETS.

Appraisements have been proceeding in Victoria. The Geelong series closed last week, and Melbourne resumed on Monday last. With regard to the offerings and prices in Geelong, the "Argus" of Wednesday last said that "the selection of both merino and crossbred was a wonderfully good one, which resulted in a succession of remarkably high prices and an Australian record for greasy merino fleece being established which is not likely to be exceeded. This was obtained for the top lot of the well-known Mawallock clip, from near Beaufort (Victoria), which realised up to 31¼d; whilst many other marks sold from 30¾d down.

Appraisements are to take place in Tasmania and Albury next week. The next series in Adelaide opens on February 4, and the next in Brisbane on February 18.

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

There has been an appreciable increase in the receipts of wool during the week by rail, and a decrease in the arrivals by boat. The prospects are for the season's decrease in the receipts by rail to be transformed into an increase next week, but the probability is that the arrivals by boat will show a decrease to the end of the season. The quantity for the week and for the season to date by rail and boat compares with the corresponding period last season as follows:—

BY RAIL.

Season.	Jan. 19-25. Bales.		July 1-Jan. 25. Bales.
1917-18	20,175	..	554,971

WHEAT OR MEAT.

MR. ASHFORD'S FINAL WORD.

"MISREPRESENTATION OR MISUNDERSTANDING."

Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, again referred yesterday to the controversy which centres on the position of the wheat farmers of the State, and complained that some critics of his actions and arguments in the matter have either "wilfully misrepresented or wofully misunderstood him." He took particular exception to certain remarks in the "Herald" leader on "Weather and the War," and said that had it not been for some of the contentions then advanced he would not have entered further into the argument, preferring to await the committee's dissection of the situation, which he has no doubt will be capable and thorough and result in a valuable report being furnished.

"The comparison you have drawn between the depression caused by droughts and the bad times arising from the war is not, to my mind at all apt," the Minister said. "The losses sustained and financial difficulties created by even protracted drought are local in their influences and quickly remediable when Nature, in her ordinary course, balances the conditions by the prolific seasons which follow drought and aridity. The war is world-wide, and its finances are discussed in millions of pounds as against multiples of thousands in which we have been mulct by losses of stock and crops. A few good seasons will repay drought losses. Many years must be devoted after the war to re-establishing the devastated countries, reconstructing their industries, replacing their manhood, and, above all, restoring the money markets of all countries to an even balance. In times of drought we send wheat and wool ships away from our ports in ballast or partly laden. After the war we shall for several years have our granaries and warehouses and other stores crammed full with consignments for overseas, but we shall not have the ships to carry them, the accumulation of years will be there, but on the authority of the ex-chairman of the United States Shipping Board it is stated that the combined efforts of the American and British yards cannot overtake the U-boat ravages, and until that condition is changed we shall not be able to deliver our produce, while it is equally certain that would-be buyers abroad will not part with their money until they see reasonable prospects of receiving what they are paying for.

"There are, however, more definite statements in the 'Herald' leader about which I wish to say something. For instance, 'Salvation for the man on the land will not come from Government interference.' Had it not been for Government interference in the wheat business in 1914, which the farmers, and especially the speculators, so wildly condemned, where would the farmers have been to-day? Is the Government not eternally presented with appeals for some form of interference—even though it be called 'help'—in the interests of the man on the land? Is not the distribution of seed wheat and fodder for starving stock an interference with some farmers, in as much as it enables those who need the assistance to continue in competition with those who, by good management, good fortune, or the accident of circumstances, have not had their herds and flocks depleted or their cultivation laid bare? But the present occasion is not one of interference, as the 'Herald' implies. The State Government foresees increasing difficulties, and asks the people who are directly concerned to discuss and consider the position. A committee has been invited to dissect the pros and cons and to advise what shall be done. Personally I put forward as a basis for discussion what appeared to me the best alternative to meet the crisis in the wheat business. If anyone will suggest another possible alternative it will perhaps help in the solution of the problem. I have not suggested that the farmers should give up wheat; but, knowing very intimately how the farmers stand—knowing from practical experience as one of themselves, and with the facilities of my Ministerial office to aid—I have exploited my ideas. In any case, it is a question for the Federal Government to answer, not for the State Government, whose mere existence seems to have provoked the introduction of political bias into the discussion of a subject which is in no sense political, but wholly one of economics.

"And, again, 'if Australia had been able to build and man ships enough to carry her foodstuffs, wool, and other commodities, to America there would have been no trouble about the best thing to produce.' That everlasting 'if!' If we had more ships of our own—and it is to our sorrow, and perhaps to our shame, that we have not—they would have gone into war service, and been gladly, if greedily, acquired by the Admiralty in the same way as others have. Had New South Wales built ships for war-time trade the Federal Government would no doubt have seized them, sold them, or lent them (as they did with the Western Australian ship) without asking even for our views on the proposition. And it would not have made any difference whether we wished to send them to America or to Europe. Does not the 'Herald' realise that the Imperial Government controls shipping and trade, and, given the bottoms in which to carry it, would certainly have favoured the sending of our produce to England or to France.

"One more point," Mr. Ashford continued—'But the politicians who have apparently found it impossible to build ships, or to get them built, are not the men to advise about what is the crop to grow or to refrain from growing. . . . . They will be wise to give every facility for inquiry and discussion, but not to darken counsel with foregone conclusions or with words that may be turned one against the other.' Once more I must repeat that the New South Wales Government has not advised what is the crop to grow, but by a stroke of wonderful prevision they anticipated their councillors and critics and did, more than a week ago, what the 'Herald' says to-day they would be wise to do. They gave every facility for inquiry and discussion by convening a meeting of all interested, large men and small men alike, and from that meeting there has been evolved a committee whose conclusions will command the highest respect. That has been the full measure of interference by the Government and by me as a member of it."

SHEEP-FLY PEST.

PASTORAL COMMITTEE'S INVESTIGATIONS.

Mr. James Kidd, the president of the pastoral committee for the investigation of the blowfly pest, referring yesterday to the important work his committee has had in hand for the past few years, stated that, in consequence of the difficulty there has been sometimes in getting information from country people as to work they have themselves been doing, the committee's efforts to solve the trouble have to a great extent been hampered. While the committee has a scientific experiment station located in the country under the supervision of Government officers, most of the pastoralists have made their own special efforts to overcome the trouble. Some have been more successful than others, and in order to get specific information on the subject and be in a position to gauge how and in what degree success has been achieved, the committee has determined on sending a thoroughly experienced and capable man on a mission throughout the State with the object of ascertaining in each district what has been done by graziers in the shape of prevention, palliation, and destruction. His mission will, in fact, be to investigate thoroughly every phase of the trouble, and ascertain all that has been done to overcome it. In this way the committee hopes to get information which will enable it to make such efforts as have so far been successful more general. The gentleman the committee has selected for the work is Mr. W. H. Treweeke, of Euiälie, near Mungindi. He will devote several months to it, and Mr. Kidd would bespeak from all graziers every possible help they can extend to Mr. Treweeke in furthering his investigations should he visit their particular property. The pest has cost the country a vast amount of money during the last few years, and it is everyone's duty to promote an investigation of this kind as far as lies in their power.

Recognising the far-reaching importance of the investigation, the trustees of the Walter and Eliza Hall Trust have, with splendid national spirit, intimated to the committee that they are prepared to subsidise the mission referred to above to the extent of, in all, £500, which it is hoped will cover the cost of the inquiry. Some reassuring information has come to the knowledge of the committee within the last week or two as bearing on their efforts to overcome this pest. The Messrs. Mackay, of Gunyerwarildi, have within the last week announced that they have discovered on their property a dead carcase swarming with the chalcid wasp, and with not a live maggot upon it. Confirmation of this state of things has come from other parts of the country, and it is most gratifying news, because it goes to show that the committee has on Mr. Froggatt's discovery been working in the right direction in cultivating and distributing the chalcid wasp. These wasps, it is believed have made ruthless war upon the blowfly maggot. Mr. Froggatt is prepared to supply pastoralists with tubes of the wasps upon application to him.

KIAMA SHOW.

KIAMA.—The first of the South Coast shows was opened at Kiama on Friday in fine weather. In numbers the cattle entries exceeded any previous show, and with regard to quality the judges had a trying task in determining their decisions in quite a number of instances. During the past few years there has been a marked improvement in Illawarra herds, and visitors from other States present were agreeably impressed, not only with the general appearance, but the high-class dairy quality of the animals shown. Mr. Fred. Moore, of Camden, one of the cattle judges, remarked that the young stock was especially remarkable, and the display of cattle generally was the finest he had yet seen in Illawarra. He came from a very conservative centre in the show world, and it was a distinct compliment to the Illawarra breed of cattle when his society had decided at its next show to introduce special classes for the Illawarra district breed. For the best pen of three milking cows, after a very keen contest with a big entry, G. Gray secured first and second prizes, and H. Dudgeon third. The prize for the best dairy cow in the show of any recognised pure breed was awarded G. Gray's Cinderella. Another important contest was for pen of three dairy cows under four years old, in which G. Gray won both prizes. In the group of cattle consisting of bull, two cows, and two heifers under three years competition was extremely keen. A very fine lot of animals owned by G. Gray was awarded first prize, with those of F. S. Morton a close second, and J. W. Cole third. In the contest for the champion Illawarra cow, Bailey Bros.' Princess of Homeleigh secured the ribbon. The milk and butter tests proved one of the most interesting items. In the class for cow giving best results in three tests extending over a period of 180 days, H. Chittick's Buttercup was the winner with an average over the three tests of 45.4 lbs. of milk per day, 2.629 lbs. butter per day, 18.404 lbs. butter per week. In the class for cow with not less than six permanent teeth producing the most butter over the required standard of the Kiama Society's Dairy Herd Book, one day's test, G. Gray's Cinderella was successful with 3.471 lbs. of butter per day, and 24.297 lbs. per week. For cow with not less than six permanent teeth giving the largest quantity of milk in 24 hours subject to 3.2 test, G. Gray's Model was the winner with 60.6 lbs. of milk per day. In similar competitions for cows with not more than four permanent teeth T. Brown's Cambria won in both classes, producing 2.468 lbs. of butter per day, and 17.276 lbs. per week, and 47.1 lbs. of milk per day.

This year the Kiama and Jamberoo districts co-operated in a district exhibit, its chief features being an excellent wool display, also butter and cheese and fruits.

SYDNEY TO MELBOURNE BY ROAD.

For some time past there has been correspondence between the Victorian Country Roads Board and the various Ministers who have administered Local Government in New South Wales respecting the necessity for the linking up of the main roads of Victoria and New South Wales at two points, one of which would afford a through route for travellers between Melbourne and Sydney via the coastal districts, while the other would afford an opportunity for reciprocal trade between two important producing districts, one in New South Wales and the other in Victoria.

Yesterday Mr. Fitzgerald, Minister for Local Government, said he was convinced that the coastal route from Sydney to Melbourne offered the ideal route from the scenic standpoint, and would attract motorists and tourists who did not avail themselves of the inland route at present. He has decided, therefore, to make regular allotments from the main roads vote from year to year with a view to carrying forward a steady improvement of the link between Eden and the Victorian border on the understanding that the Victorian authorities will similarly pursue a set policy of carrying out improvements on the roads on the Victorian side leading from Bairnsdale to the border near Genoa.

THE LATE LES. DARCY.

BAKER v. "TRUTH" NEWSPAPER.

APOLOGY.

The action brought by Mr. R. L. Baker, whose name is prominent in Sporting Circles as "Snowy" Baker, in respect of articles appearing last year in "Truth," which dealt with the visit to America of the late boxing champion Les Darcy, has been amicably settled.

We have been afforded by Mr. W. H. Drew, Mr. Baker's Solicitor, a perusal of all Mr. Baker's correspondence and records dealing with the matters, which were criticised in "Truth," and some of its American contributors, and have made exhaustive independent inquiries in the United States. We are now convinced that the articles and criticisms of which Mr. Baker complains were based upon utterly misleading information and wholly unmerited, and that he acted throughout not merely in accordance with the highest standards of ethics and honour, but with signal generosity towards the late Champion Boxer.

We, therefore, unreservedly withdraw, and apologise to Mr. Baker for, the publications complained of, and agree to pay his legal expenses as between solicitor and client.

For, and on behalf of, the Proprietors of "Truth" and "Sydney Sportsman," the Executors of the late JOHN NORTON,

R. J. McCLINTOCK,
General Manager.

MR. LESLIE V. STANSELL, Dentist, North Sydney, will resume practice on Monday.

THE ROAD TO PEACE.

In addressing the British Labour Conference, M. Litvinoff, the Russian Provisional Plenipotentiary in London, declared that more history had been made at Brest-Litovsk than during three years of war. And it is true, at all events, that whatever the impressions that have been formed in our minds regarding the mysterious Bolsheviks of Russia, their remarkable rise to power and their remarkable methods, the proceedings at the Brest-Litovsk conference have carried us a long way on the road to peace. They have done this because the delegates have been obliged to make a clear statement of the war aims of their respective countries. The world can no longer be under any misapprehension as to the real aims of the Central Powers, whose demands, we are now informed, have been definitely rejected by Russia. Nor is it likely that the German people themselves can any longer be deceived. The militaristic Pan-Germans have regained the ascendancy, and the Reichstag resolution in favour of a peace without annexations and without indemnities has been tossed aside as one more scrap of paper. To-day they are demanding the annexation of Poland, Lithuania, and Courland. To tell their people, therefore, that they are fighting a defensive war is the rankest hypocrisy. And in that the Austro-Hungarian delegates, whatever they may say to their own people in extenuation or in protest, have been content to sit at the peace table and tacitly approve of every German yea or nay, they must share the responsibility. The Brest-Litovsk conference has brought peace nearer because it has written large for all the free world to see the duplicity of the Central Powers, and the perils that confront us. It has shown us that we have to deal with a foe that knows nothing of honour and fair dealing between nations, and will continue to be a foe to all mankind unless this war ends in his absolute defeat. The lesson of Brest-Litovsk is that we must press on until the war results in another Jena for Germany. There can be no stopping half-way. Mr. Purdey, in his notable presidential address to the Labour Congress at Nottingham—perhaps the finest patriotic utterance that has fallen from a British Labour leader in this war—put it clearly and concisely when he said:—"If Germany and her Allies will not accept Mr. Lloyd George's, President Wilson's, and the Labour party's minimum, we must fight on. We must have a clean peace, even if it means waiting to the end." Otherwise any peace made now would only contain the germs of future wars; and to guard against the possibility of some new maniac, with bright armour and shining sword, disturbing the world's peace, say, in twenty years' time, the whole world would remain an armed camp. There would have to be universal conscription. Armaments would go on growing. Taxation would go on increasing. The nations would become impoverished. Civilisation would lapse again into barbarism. A clean peace is a victory for righteousness and freedom; any other peace is a German victory that will bring down the horrors of hell upon our children's children.

In this war, as in all wars, it is the working man and the working man's son who have been called on to do most of the fighting. It is the working classes, and especially the women and children, who have to do most of the suffering. And now we find that Labour is beginning to exert its power, not in one nation only but in many nations, to bring peace again to the world, and such a peace as shall endure. It is perhaps the first time that the working people, unable any longer to sustain the terrible weariness of a long war, have exerted such pressure, and never before in the world's history have they been so conscious of their power. If we would seek for the reason we shall find it in the spread of education, in the growth of the trades union organisations, and in the conception of universal brotherhood. And it is not strange that we should find in Russia the great driving force of to-day. Dostoyevsky has written concerning the part Russia is destined to play in the world:—"The Russians possess the synthetic faculty in a high degree—the gift of feeling at one with the universe and a universal humanity. The Russian has a feeling for all that is human, regardless of race, nationality or fundamental ideas. He finds and readily admits reasonableness in all that contains even a vestige of true human instinct, and often succeeds in finding a starting-point for reconciling the conflicting ideas of two different European nations." But there is also a curious obstinacy about the Russians—an obstinacy which oftentimes proves a serious stumbling block. Having fixed their eyes on a thing, it is with difficulty that they can be made to see that there is another point of view; and this peculiarity of the Russian mind, this rushing to extremes, has often been called "Maximalism." We had an instance of it at Brest-Litovsk. Extremes were met with extremes. Nevertheless, as Mr. Arthur Henderson states, all the Socialist parties in Europe may be said to be in agreement with the greater part of the Russian peace proposals; and the reported revolution in Austria may be taken as the latest evidence of this fact. Mr. Henderson has been much criticised of recent months. Not long ago he was a member of the British War Cabinet, but his visit to Petrograd had a powerful influence on his mind, and since his return he has laboured unceasingly for peace, believing that just as war cannot be carried on without the working classes neither can a satisfactory peace be arrived at without their help. And Mr. Henderson has left us in no doubt as to what he regards as a satisfactory peace. Members of the Commonwealth Parliament who were present at the Hotel Cecil as the guests of Mr. Andrew Fisher on August 29, 1916, will remember the speech which the British Labour leader made on that occasion. The oversea visitors might go to their distant homes, he said, with the positive assurance that the mother country and the Allied Powers were determined that there should be no dishonourable peace, but a peace that would be neither premature nor belated—"a peace consistent with the great objects we went to war for, and consistent with the great ideal of establishing right against the might of military force." The Empire would never rest, he added, no matter how long the war might endure, until it had secured the complete triumph of the ideal in national life over the government of national life by military force. And until that triumph is achieved we must needs "fight on."

THE WORLD'S FOOD.

It is not impossible that, before the war is over, the food situation will throw even the military situation into the background. Armies cannot long fight foodless, and, even if the armies are the last to suffer, it is not so easy for the high command to proceed as though nothing untoward were happening, when they know that the soldiers under them are quite aware that their loved ones at home are pinched for bread, while their children may be slowly dying for want of nutritious food. There are some who regard the position so seriously that they fully expect that before the war ends the losses among the civil populations through starvation will far exceed the losses in the armies through the clash of steel. There are three factors that have affected the food situation. The first is the withdrawal of so many producers from their normal activity of tilling the soil. The second is the fact that interference with commerce on the seas—and this especially affects enemy countries—has cut off the supply of fertilisers that was so necessary to ensure anything like an adequate harvest in many parts of impoverished Europe. The third important factor is the reduction of tonnage, which has had the effect of isolating large quantities of foodstuffs in certain parts of the world, as, for instance, in Australia, and preventing its rapid transportation to those places where it is most needed. How to overcome that difficulty is the most important problem, apart from winning the war, that confronts Australia to-day. The scarcity of food is evidenced by the high prices ruling for it, but prices are not high solely because food is scarce. The price of a commodity contains within it several different elements. If the currency were fixed in quantity and unchangeable in quality, and the law of supply and demand were allowed unrestricted sway, the position would be simple, but, under war conditions, the currency has been expanded almost recklessly in some countries, and largely even in those countries that are usually prudent in matters of finance. Then the law of supply and demand is only allowed to operate as far as it is conceived by the powers that be as harmless. The price-fixing activities of the various Governments is evidence of this interference with the natural law. Only yesterday it was announced that the Federal Government had taken power to increase the issue of Australian notes to fifty millions sterling, where, in the old days of bank notes, the circulation of these amongst the public never much exceeded one-tenth of that amount. But what have notes to do with the prices of food? Everything. Dr. Johnson, more than a century ago, was quite familiar with the connection. When on his famous tour to the Hebrides he was informed that on the Isle of Sky 20 eggs could be purchased for one penny. This, his informant evidently hoped, would favourably impress the learned doctor as to the productivity of the island. "Sir," replied Dr. Johnson, "I do not gather from this that eggs are plenty on your miserable island, but that pence are few." The converse applies to-day. Eggs are scarce, though, perhaps, in most countries not much scarcer than usual, but the demand is greater, and paper pence are plentiful. So in October last the price of eggs in London was 4s 3d per dozen, which was a record, and in Germany they are said to have been sold at as high a price as the equivalent of 10s each, measured in depreciated German currency.

The Allies have pooled their resources of food just as they have pooled their resources of money. Towards the end of last year the position in France became very serious, when an arrangement was arrived at between the British and the French Governments. The French Premier, in announcing what had been done, explained that in virtue of this agreement, the Allied countries would in future constitute a single country, from the point of view of food supplies and imports indispensable to their existence. Great Britain, he went on to say, had never hesitated in the division of resources, which she regarded as one of the essential duties of alliance, but hitherto the measures taken had been provisional measures for immediate aid. So the same restrictions and sacrifices were being imposed upon all, and each country was aware that only what was unavoidable was being done, and that in a spirit of equal sacrifice. If the necessary tonnage was to be released for the transport of American troops to France, drastic measures were necessary. It is difficult enough to ensure reasonable equality of sacrifice among nations; it is still more difficult to ensure something like equality among the different classes of the same nation. The poor who cannot pay must inevitably suffer most. Even where food is handed out under supervision, with restricted quantities for each purchaser, it is not given away. Hoarding by the rich is always among the possibilities. Yet every Government knows that if it is to have reasonable content among the masses, it must prevent a ruinous burden falling upon the poor. As far as Australia is concerned the most interesting problem that faces us in connection with this world-wide shortage of food, is as to whether we should go on producing wheat and possibly meat that we cannot at present dispose of, on the off-chance of filling hungry mouths later on, and possibly saving many lives. The alternative is to turn our attention to some other form of activity, in which the return for present labour is less problematical, if such can be found. The problem largely resolves, as so many of these problems do, into one of finance. Can we afford to go on adding to our unconsumed stocks even if we felt certain that the world would one day thank us and pay us handsomely for our thoughtfulness? Someone must bear the burden. If the farmers cannot, then the banks may be able to. If they are not able or are unwilling, then the Government may. If the State or the Federal Government cannot see its way, then the British Government may be inclined. If the British Government already has its hands too full of present and urgent war commitments to enable it to look far into the future then the American Government, that still seems to have money to spare, may do something. If none of these can be persuaded, then we fear that we have no option. Even the most patriotic farmer is unable to live on air.

PERSONAL.

The Minister for the Navy, Mr. J. Cook, left Melbourne for Sydney yesterday.

Mr. J. R. Hall, M.L.C., who was recently operated on for appendicitis at Leura, has left the private hospital and proceeded to his home in Craigend-street, Leura.

A private cable message has been received intimating that Lieutenant-Colonel Rex Rabett, C.M.G., will return to Sydney shortly for six months' change. Lieutenant N. B. Rabett, R.F.A., is in a London hospital suffering from rheumatism.

Dr. H. J. Ritchie was entertained at dinner at Wentworth House on Thursday night by the president, treasurer, and officers of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board. Dr. Ritchie is about to terminate his services as acting medical officer to the board during the time Dr. Stokes was engaged on military duties.

Sergeant A. J. Boyd, of the "Herald" staff, who recently returned from the front, was "welcomed home" by a gathering of some of his fellow-journalists at the Press Club yesterday. The health of the guest was proposed by the president of the club, Mr. Bert Medge, and supported by Mr. Farmer Whyte on behalf of the "Herald" staff, and Mr. C. C. Faulkner on behalf of the Australian Journalists' Association. Mr. Boyd, in responding, gave some interesting particulars of life at the front.

Lieutenant-Colonel T. Forster Rutledge, of the Royal Flying Corps, son of Mr. Thos. F. Rutledge, of Toorak, Melbourne, has been awarded the Military Cross.

LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

FIRST RESPONSE TO APPEAL.

SOLDIERS' DEPENDENTS.

Towards the end of last week the committee which administers the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund launched an appeal for £150,000, which would enable it to carry on for another year its work of assisting the dependents of New South Wales soldiers and sailors. The first list of subscriptions received in response to that appeal is given below.

The response is considered extremely satisfactory, particularly in view of the fact that the appeal was made simply through the newspapers, and was not launched with any of the furore of public meetings or other demonstrations calculated to stir up public interest. The appeal was a plain statement of what the fund has done and what it proposes to do, but that was sufficient.

The people have realised, judging by the contributions and letters already received, that a gift to the Lord Mayor's Fund provides the most effective means of giving expression to that feeling of gratitude to our soldiers that must be felt by every Australian. "I have subscribed to every fund," wrote one man, when sending in a cheque, "but I think I get most satisfaction out of this, for I know that it is going to make things a bit easier for the wife or mother of some New South Wales man on active service. With the Lord Mayor's Fund one has the comfortable feeling that it is probably helping some soldier's family in one's own street."

The committee desires to emphasise the fact that these subscriptions will be spent in supplementing the military allowances and pensions of the dependents of New South Wales soldiers, and in making them special grants where circumstances render this course desirable.

The accounts of the Lord Mayor's Fund are audited half-yearly by Messrs. David Fell and Co., Ltd., public accountants, whose services are given gratuitously, and the balance-sheets published in the daily papers.

A considerable sum has been earned for the fund in interest by the deposit, in the early days of the war, of the sum of £100,000, which was not required at that time to meet the fund's obligations. Of this sum, which was available on demand, only £64,000 remains, and this is being withdrawn as it is required.

INCOMING MAILS.

The postal authorities expect that English and American mails will arrive in Sydney to-morrow. They will be delivered on Monday morning.

GERMAN PEACE

REJECTED BY RUSSIA

ALLIES' AID NEEDED

LONDON, Jan. 24.

Information has reached New York that the Russians have finally rejected the German peace terms.

ENEMY AIMS.

RUTHLESS ANNEXATION.

A report from Berne states that General von Liebert, speaking at a Conservative conference at Halle, said: "We repudiate sentimentality. We do not need humanity. We must be ruthless. We must retain Courland, Belgium, and Northern France, and add the Portuguese colonies to the German Empire. France must pay our war bill, and England—accursed country—the end of the war must be the end of the British Empire."

NEED FOR MEN.

HAS BRITAIN ENOUGH?

TEUTON MENACE IN WEST.

Colonel Repington, in a vigorous article in the "Morning Post," criticises the Government's man-power proposals. He states that the Germans alone have accumulated 165 divisions in the West, and estimates that from 200 to 220 divisions eventually will be thrown against the British and French. Although the enemy may attack before his concentrations are complete, in order to forestall the arrival of the Americans, he expects the arrival of Austrians, of whom some already are in Belgium.

The British casualties for the war period are only a little higher than the total of French dead. The British need at least 850,000 men, in addition to the 450,000 already in view. A hundred thousand should be withdrawn from distant campaigns, notably Salonica. The comb-out, Colonel Repington contends, should be increased by 320,000, and conscription should be extended to Ireland, which would yield 200,000 men.

ALLIES MAY HIT FIRST.

A Washington message says the military authorities suggest that the Allies may anticipate a German drive on the West front by a great Allied offensive.

U-BOAT CAMPAIGN.

AMERICAN LOSSES.

A New York message says survivors arriving at an Atlantic port report that the American steamer Owasco was torpedoed early in December in the Mediterranean. Two lives were lost.

A Boston message says an incoming captain reports that U-boats were seen off the Brazilian coast.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS.

Incoming vessels report having picked up S.O.S. signals from the British steamer Baykerran, 3755 tons, which is reported to have lost the lifeboats.

SCHOONER'S GALLANT FIGHT.

A small French schooner encountered a German submarine off the French coast. A duel ensued, in which the schooner was damaged, but forced the enemy to give way. A second duel lasted 20 minutes, and the submarine again was forced to submerge. A third fight, the most bitter of all, lasted a quarter of an hour. The schooner holed the submarine, which fled at full-speed. The schooner fired 74 shots, and the submarine 26. Three of the schooner's crew were wounded.

The vessel was safely brought to port. The underwriters presented the captain with 100 guineas, and the crew with 200.

BRITAIN'S FOOD.

DEALING WITH PROFITEERS.

The Press Bureau announces that a deputation of Manchester engineers and munition workers waited on Lord Rhondda (Food Controller), and asked for a definite assurance that there was a shortage of food and that steps were being taken for national rationing. Lord Rhondda said: "There is no famine and no likelihood of one; but there is a definite shortage of meat, butter, bacon, and margarine. Local schemes will ultimately be welded in a national scheme. Nearly 2000 food control committees are now working. Arrangements are being made to create a food clearing house, aiming at giving each district a fair share. The Cabinet has authorised a bill dealing with profiteering, and exacting from the offender double the amount of profit, in addition to the penalty imposed."

ITALY.

FOOD SITUATION GRAVE.

A Washington cablegram says an official despatch from Rome states that words cannot adequately express the seriousness of the food situation in Italy.

POSITIONS KEPT OPEN.

FOR BRITISH SOLDIERS.

Dr. Addison, describing the progress of the work of the Ministry of Reconstruction, said the department had been divided into branches, dealing with various problems, such as commerce, finance, and shipping. He had appointed an advisory council, representing all the leading interests concerned. The Minister pointed out that many months must elapse after demobilisation before any quantity of shipping was released for general trade, so a shortage of many commodities would continue.

The scheme for the demobilisation of the —— had been completed. The Government had ascertained that places had been kept open for 60 per cent. of the army.

A PARIS SENSATION.

The "Echo de Paris" states that a wireless installation had been discovered in the rooms of Captain Seailles, who is charged with giving Almereyda information regarding the Salonika army, which Almereyda transmitted to Germany. Almereyda was editor of the notorious paper "Bonnet Rouge." He committed suicide while in prison.

BRITISH ARMY OFFICERS.

The "Daily News" says the report is not true that the War Office will immediately appoint a number of brigadier-generals in the new army.

The War Office will continue its present policy of promoting a certain number of the new army officers to higher commands.

SALONICA FRONT.

GREEKS DEFEAT BULGARS.

LONDON, Jan. 24.

An Athens report says: The enemy in the Lumnitza region attacked strongly on a sector of several kilometres. The Hellenic division completely defeated the Bulgarians.

WEST FRONT QUIET.

Sir Douglas Haig at noon on Thursday stated: There is nothing special to report.

BRITISH HIGH COMMAND

NEWSPAPER PROTESTS.

The newspapers and the public continue to discuss the problem of the British High Command. Most of the newspapers energetically protest against the Government allowing the continuance of attacks against generals who are unable to reply. The "Globe" points out that Mr. Lloyd George could render such attacks harmless by a single word, yet he neglects to speak. Mr. Lloyd George profited by the result of the Press vendetta against Mr. Asquith, but these attacks on generals may result in his downfall.

Several Commoners heckled Mr. Bonar Law for allowing attacks on Sir William Robertson and Sir Douglas Haig, suggesting that newspapers should be suspended. Other members suggested that some member of the Government was responsible.

Mr. Bonar Law: So far as I am aware, no member of the Government is behind these attacks.

LABOUR CONGRESS.

MINISTERS DENOUNCED.

There were several angry scenes at Nottingham, the extremists attacking the executive, particularly members of the Government, who were accused of joining the capitalists and betraying Socialism and the Labour movement.

Mr. J. P. Clynes, M.P. (Secretary to Food Control Depot), in a vigorous, highly effective speech, declared that despite mob oratory it was possible for a man to be honest to Labour and yet serve national interests in some department.

Exciting scenes occurred during a discussion on a resolution condemning the Labour Ministers, Messrs. Brace, Barnes, Hodge, Parker, and Roberts for supporting the Government's agricultural minimum wage of 25/ per week against the Labour amendment of 30/. The resolution was carried by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Roberts has resigned from the Labour Executive.

The Congress, by 1,885,000 votes to 722,000, rejected a proposal to withdraw Labourites from the Government. Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., declared that the proposal would wreck the Government and delay peace.

M. Renaudel, a French Socialist, informed the congress that arrangements had been made for convening a meeting of the Labour and Socialist parties of various countries on February 17, for the purpose of arriving at an agreement of war aims, on the lines of the aims set out by British Labour.

The new Labour Constitution was referred back by Congress at the instance of the miners and textile workers, whose delegates explained they were not hostile to the constitution's principles, but felt that the unions required time for full consideration.

UNITED STATES.

THE MILITARY SYSTEM CRITICISED.

A Washington reports says Senator G. E. Chamberlain, in a speech in the Senate, resented President Wilson's statement that he had distorted the truth in alleging that America's military system had broken down. Senator Chamberlain said the War Department was inefficient, because it failed to supply ordnance and equipment. Thousands of deaths of soldiers in camps were due to neglect. Many camps were using wooden machine-guns. He bitterly attacked Mr. Baker's administration.

A Washington cablegram says the Senate has referred the War Council Bill to the committee on military affairs.

POST-WAR PROBLEMS.

A White Paper shows that to December 8th 87 commissions and committees had been appointed to deal with post-war reconstruction problems. Separate committees had been appointed to deal with all leading manufacturing and producing industries, paying special attention to research, also education.

POWDERED GLASS SUSPECTED IN SWEETS.

A Washington report says the Navy Department has prohibited the supply of candy in navy canteens, pending an investigation of impurities. This action is believed to be the result of the discovery of powdered glass in confectionery.

FINLAND'S PLIGHT.

ON VERGE OF FAMINE.

M. Kihlman, formerly Attorney-General of Finland, who is visiting England in connection with the relief fund, when interviewed, stated that Finland is on the verge of famine. Two-fifths of the population were unable to obtain bread of any description. The food supplies available include some millions of kilogrammes of Iceland moss, which has been declared unfit for human consumption, and a small quantity of grain; but, altogether, only half of what is necessary to sustain life.

The Finlanders are threatened with destruction unless they are given speedy help and receive provisions. The supplying of weapons to the lowest elements of the community, enabling them to rob and plunder, aggravates the situation.

CHINESE OUTRAGE.

JAPAN PROTESTS STRONGLY.

A Tokio report says the Japanese Foreign Office has announced that the Southern and Northern Chinese who fired on the United States gunboat Monocacy, on the Yang-Tse River, continue to attack British and Japanese ships. A strong protest has been sent to China.

ENEMY GENERALS KILLED.

Advices have been received in Rome from Washington that the Austrian General von Aur and the German General Liebeskid have been killed on the Italian front.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

Mr. Lloyd George met Signor Orlando, Premier of Italy, on his arrival in London.

New York newspapers have increased their price to 2 cents.

A Washington report says Mr. Baker (Secretary for War) announces that General Bliss has arrived in Paris to be the United States permanent representative on the Supreme War Board.

REVOLUTION

DOES AUSTRIA FOLLOW RUSSIA?

UNCONFIRMED REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.

A Washington message says there is no confirmation of the Vienna revolution, but the news is widely credited, as the State Department has been receiving daily reports that the Austrian situation was growing more critical. It is believed Austria is becoming another Russia.

Mr. Penfield, ex-Ambassador to Austria, says that while the report of the revolt in Vienna is unconfirmed, there is no doubt that Austria is heartily tired of the war. The Emperor constantly has strived for peace. If Austria withdraws, Turkey and Bulgaria immediately will follow.

Mr. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Berlin, believes the Germanic Alliance is cracking. The return from Russia of nearly a million Austrian prisoners is spreading discontent in Austria, which is the logical starting place of a revolution.

CZECHS WANT HOME RULE.

Reports have reached Copenhagen that the reply of Dr. von Seidler (ex-Premier of Austria) that the Reichsrath rejected the Czech resolution in favour of the creation of an independent Czech-Slovak State, provoked wild scenes. The Czech members, violently gesticulating, surrounded Seidler, shouting "Liar!" and "Resign!"—finally compelling the Premier to abandon his speech.

Dr. von Seidler indicated that he had the Emperor's authority to state that every Austrian Government would resist by all means in its power any attempt to establish Home Rule for the Czechs.

He said the resolution aimed at destroying the foundations of the State.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT WARNED.

A Copenhagen message states that following upon angry Socialist protests in the Reichstag, "Vorwaerts" was republished after a single day's suspension. Herr Iberta denounced the attempt to suppress news of the Austrian strikers.

Herr Scheidemann (leader of the Majority Socialists) declared that the German authorities were playing with fire. The situation in Germany was not greatly different from that in Austria.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

A Rotterdam message states that 332 British prisoners of war have arrived from Germany for internment in Holland.

WAR NOTES.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

Though there has been a lull for some time on the Western front, it is but the calm before the storm. The time is coming, and it is not far off, when we shall see another mighty clash of arms there—perhaps the mightiest of all. There is the possibility, of course, that the failure of the peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk, and the spread of the revolutionary movement in Austria-Hungary, may upset all the war plans of the Central Powers; but it would be dangerous to rely on such a contingency. Colonel Repington, who recently resigned his post as military correspondent of the London "Times," has signalised his appointment to the staff of the "Morning Post" by pointing out the danger of the position on the Western front. Already, he tells us, the Germans have accumulated 165 divisions there for the impending attack, and he expresses the opinion that from 200 to 220 divisions will eventually be thrown against the British and French forces. The Americans are not mentioned—probably because their numbers will not be very large by the time the German offensive begins. It may be taken for granted that the German High Command will endeavour to forestall the Americans, and that no unnecessary time will be lost in launching the attack. It is for this reason that Colonel Repington, who when he errs usually errs on the side of safety, urges a more drastic combing-out than is proposed under the British Man-power Bill. That bill provides, approximately, for 450,000 fresh men, whereas this military expert estimates that at least 850,000 men in addition to that number will be required. Incidentally, he suggests conscription for Ireland, and the withdrawal of large numbers from distant campaigning grounds, such as Salonica. And Colonel Repington is probably not writing without a fair knowledge of what America is doing. America, we doubt not, is sending her men to the front as fast as she can, but it takes a long time to transport a large army across the sea. It is all very well to talk about our vast superiority in man-power, but unless we have the men where they are wanted—that is, within striking distance of the enemy—it will avail us nothing. And we must hope that there will be no more "Cambrai failures."

THE FIGHT FOR THE COAST.

It has been suggested in some quarters that the Germans have been making plans for some time past for a possible withdrawal from the coast; but there is certainly not much evidence of it so far. Instead, we hear of fresh fighting in the Nieuport sector, and as the attack was made by the Germans it would seem to indicate that they are intent on strengthening their hold on the coast. The German view of the strategic value of this ground was recently expressed in the following terms by the "Vossiche Zeitung":—"A base in Flanders would enable England to annihilate with her air squadrons the whole of our industrial basin, and to drive Germany completely from the seas. German industry would be at her mercy. We must hold our positions between the sea and Lys, or we shall lose the war entirely. The fate of Germany is now being decided in Flanders." The London "Spectator" quoted this enemy view in support of its demand for a more energetic policy by the navy against the Belgian coast. It assumed that a bombarding squadron, composed of vessels not essential to the integrity of the Grand Fleet, could make things very unpleasant on the German flank and coast communications. According to Mr. Hector C. Bywater, the well-known writer on naval questions, the significance of the "Battle for the Coast" is not realised by everyone. There is nothing obscure about the objectives of the British army's latest thrust, he says. Mile by mile the Germans are being pressed back over ground every yard of which is worth the bones of many Prussian grenadiers. As the struggle proceeds the promises to develop into a combined naval and military offensive, for the navy has now begun to bear a hand, as the repeated bombardment of Ostend from the sea plainly testifies. "The Huns are fighting desperately to maintain their hold on the Belgian coast. They are evidently prepared to sacrifice men by the hundred thousand if only they can cling to that stretch of seashore which brings their naval front within sight of the Channel. If Ostend, Zeebrugge, and the hinterland were lost, their submarine and aerial activity would be seriously curtailed, and to them the submarine and the aeroplane are now the last resort." Since these words were written Ostend has been further bombarded by British warships, whilst air raids on important German depots in Belgium are of almost daily occurrence.

SUSPENDED.

It is noteworthy that both the "Berliner Tageblatt" and "Vorwaerts" have been suspended for three days. We do not know what the former paper has been saying, but "Vorwaerts," according to yesterday's cables, warned the German authorities that in persisting in their annexationist programme they were "walking on the edge of a precipice." This paper, as we all know—for it has been well advertised during the war—is the organ of the German Socialist party, and as far as the frequency of its suspensions since the war began is concerned it has shared the honours with Maximilian Harden's "Zukunft." But the suspension of the "Tageblatt" of Berlin is a far more significant thing. For this is probably the best all-round newspaper in Germany. German people take the classical "Vossische Zeitung"—much as London people take the "Times;" they take the "Kreuz Zeitung," the Conservative organ, for literature, metaphysics, and philosophy; and they take the "Lokal-Anzeiger" for news. Indeed, the lastnamed, which is so often the medium for "inspired" news and views, is preferred by many men of affairs in Germany to the "North German Gazette," which has been described as the official mouthpiece and denial machine. But the "Berliner Tageblatt," which has a brilliant editor in Theodor Wolff, is noted chiefly for its moderation. In these last three years of war it has frequently counselled caution and moderation on the part of the German authorities, and it has refused to join in the general "hymn of hate" against England. It has seen faults on both sides, and if at times it has made violent attacks on the Entente, it has not been afraid to hold its own people up to the mirror. The probability is that the "Berliner Tageblatt" has incurred the displeasure of the pan-German militarists by condemning their annexationist demands at Brest-Litovsk. Whatever the cause, the suspension of a paper of such standing as this is a significant event.

A LOOK BACKWARD.

Before the war Theodor Wolff belonged to that group of German and British editors who strove hard to bring about a better feeling between Great Britain and Germany. In an article which he wrote in 1912 he said:—"All Germans, with the exception of a few excited tavern politicians, join heartily in the wish for conciliation. Even if we leave aside the deeply-rooted feeling of admiration with which we—and especially we Liberals—regard the great and free British nation, there are multitudes of excellent reasons why we should strive for conciliation. The hour in which this problem is solved the most difficult problems of international policy will also be simultaneously solved. As for me, I do not belong to those who see salvation in grabbing a large quantity of distant land, and to whom the German commercial traveller appears in the guise of an expert robber. During the Morocco crisis I represented the view that the dubious Congo fragment should not be asked of the French—whereby we should gain nothing, and French sentimentality would be hurt. . . Such desires for power are only cherished by a few pan-Germans and a few young lieutenants; but, after all, English rights of domination cannot penetrate to every corner and part of this planet. . . It would be foolish to try to prophesy what will come of the political confusion, and what course the development will take. Those who are only the chroniclers of this development, and are not behind the scenes, do not certainly overrate the importance of their utterances. But if all these utterances show a similar line of thought, if they all result in a mutual desire for conciliation and 'rapprochement,' such a proclamation of the common will is certainly not without value, and it will be the more valuable the more things are discussed in a sober and positive way. We do not wish to disregard facts. We do not wish to deceive anybody, least of all ourselves." And now, quite possibly, the "Berliner Tageblatt" has been suspended because its editor-in-chief has been too outspoken in regard to facts, and has endeavoured to prevent the deception of the German people.

LATE WAR NEWS.

WESTERN FRONT.

LONDON, Jan. 24.

Sir Douglas Haig, reporting at mid-day, states: There is hostile artillery firing to the southward of the Scarpe, near Passchendaele. Aeroplanes bombed aerodromes near Courtrai and Ghent. The latter were used by the enemy for night-fliers. They also bombed and machine-gunned billets in Roulers. All our machines returned.

THE GREATEST PROBLEM.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

Sir Auckland Geddes, winding up the debate on the Man-power Bill, said the Government intended to make the utmost possible use of the home forces for agriculture and similar purposes. The most anxious problem at the moment was not the supplying of men for the army, but the production of tonnage, transport, agriculture, and the distribution of food.

RATIONING ENGLAND.

Lord Rhondda, speaking in the Mansion House announced that meat was also to be rationed on February 25. Compulsory rationing was inevitable and urgent, and the whole country would shortly be covered with rationing schemes, which would be developed on a national system. It was proposed to fix a fair share of meat, margarine, and tea for each district, and to see that they were supplied according to necessities. It was proposed to start with a level ration of meat for adults, half that ration for children under 6 years. There was no ground for suspicion that well-to-do people were getting more than the workers.

ACTION BY RED GUARDS.

It is reported from Petrograd that the Red Guards surrounded the Social Revolutionaries' headquarters, arrested 50 members of the military organisation formed for the defence of the Constituent Assembly.

AUSTRIAN STRIKERS' DEMANDS.

A report from Rotterdam says there is a renewal of the strikes in Vienna. The Austrian workers demand (1) a peace without conditions, (2) an eight-hour day, (3) the release of Dr. Adler, and (4) the stoppage of all war industries.

ENEMY TORPEDO BOAT SUNK.

A report from Copenhagen says a lifeboat containing 17 survivors from a German torpedoer has arrived at Ringkjobing after drifting in the North Sea for four days. The survivors were exhausted and one died. Some had broken legs and arms, and only three were able to walk. The torpedoer was sunk. The survivors state that the vessel struck a mine on Sunday. Another German topedoer hastened to the rescue, and was also mined and sunk. Three others did not dare to approach, and steamed towards Heligoland.

THE BRITISH COMMAND.

Mr. Bonar Law said the matter of the British High Command was most unsuitable for public discussion. It was very embarrassing for the Government. Sir Douglas Haig and Sir Wm. Robertson had the Government's full confidence.

Mr. Kennedy Jones asked if this were true why was Sir Douglas Haig made subordinate to General Neville by an order of the War Cabinet last January.

Mr. Bonar Law did not admit the accuracy of the statement.

WHISKY TRADE COMBINE.

LONDON, Jan. 24.

Arrangements are being completed to form a combine to control the Scotch whisky trade, seven firms being involved, including Buchanan's, Dewar's, Watson's, and Walker's, with a capital of £50,000,000.

COAL MINE DISASTER.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 24.

A message from New Glasgow (Nova Scotia) reports that an explosion occurred in the Allen coal mine, 80 miners being entombed. Twenty bodies have been recovered.

FEDERAL POLICY.

MINISTRY'S PROGRAMME.

Reinforcements, Repatriation, and Shipbuilding.

LOAN OF £40,000,000.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

An important statement was made by the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, in the House of Representatives this afternoon, setting out the programme which it is proposed to submit when Parliament reassembles after the recess.

He said the Government intended to direct its immediate and earnest attention to the great questions that were now demanding its consideration, in particular the questions of reinforcements, of repatriation, shipbuilding, and the organisation of industry.

The Government proposed, in addition to these matters, to consider the whole question of industrial legislation, and it hoped to be able to submit to the House on its reassembling a more or less comprehensive measure dealing with this matter. There were other matters, of course, of the first importance, and the Government would endeavour, as far as it lay in its power, to deal with these in such a fashion as would be to the advantage of the country. Members knew that the Government had given a guarantee. It had arranged to pay 5s a bushel on the present harvest. He regretted to say that the Government Wheat Board had been unable to effect the sale of this harvest, and, although they would spare no effort to make a satisfactory sale, he thought it only right to say that it appeared, as far as one could see at present, there was no immediate prospect of being able to do so. That would, of course, not affect the guarantee which stood on its own basis and was independent of any sale. One was unable to offer any useful observations as to the present state of the war as to when we may look for such a happy conclusion as the one they all desired, but it was in the last degree improbable that would come before the House was called together again. He felt sure he was echoing the opinions and desires of every one in the House when he said that it would indeed be a happy consummation, if, when they met again, the first real earnest offer of peace had been made which would prove acceptable to both belligerents. In the meantime, and failing that, the Government would direct its attention whole-heartedly, and particularly, and without delay, to the question of maintaining reinforcements for our forces abroad, and the other side of the same question—repatriation of returned soldiers. He hoped the Ministry would, in both of these questions, and the all-difficult and complex problems that confronted them, have the assistance of all sections of the House.

The question of finance was engaging the earnest consideration of the Government, continued Mr. Hughes. It would be necessary to raise £40,000,000 in Australia before the end of this year, and probably a good deal more. All the problems he had mentioned, and the disposal of primary products, and the great question of finance were all-important questions in which the Government were entitled to receive the support of every section of the House.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tudor, said that the Prime Minister had foreshadowed a programme infinitely greater than most Governor-Generals' speeches foreshadowed. As regarded industrial legislation, no one would know what it would be until they saw the bill, but he hoped that it would not mean any kind of industrial conscription.

The Prime Minister: I can give you a positive assurance on that point that it does not.

Mr. Tudor said if they were going to have harmony and unity in the country certain things that had been done must be undone.

Sir William Irvine (Vic.) said he hoped that the Ministry would be able to call the House together earlier than Easter, though he recognised that in the present extraordinary circumstances it must have time to consider matters. He wanted to say a few words in regard to the remarkable situation which now existed in connection with Federal politics. He felt particularly concerned in regard to the attitude which had been taken after the Prime Minister's pledge at Bendigo. To his mind the only thing which would warrant Ministers retaining their seats must depend upon whether between now and the next meeting of Parliament they could bring forward a definite and complete scheme which would be a reasonable substitute for conscription.

Mr. Finlayson (Q.) said the statement of the Prime Minister that the Government was going to consider its policy regarding reinforcements was the most astounding admission of bankruptcy of policy that Australia had ever been faced with. Mr. Finlayson proceeded to refer to Sir William Irvine's remarks concerning reinforcements when Sir William interjected: "I believe conscription will come into operation in Australia if the war lasts, but there is no reason why we should not meet and discuss this matter on the voluntary basis."

Mr. Finlayson said he agreed that there was no reason why this should not be done.

Mr. Maxwell (Vic) said conscription was dead, and ought to be buried. He suggested that members of both parties should tour the country in pairs calling for volunteers.

NEW P.M.O.

ARMY MEDICAL OFFICERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It is announced in the Commonwealth "Gazette" that Captain (temporary lieut.-col.) E. M. Humphrey has been appointed P.M.O. for New South Wales, and Captain (temporary-major) A. J. Mackenzie, Commandant of No. 4 (Randwick) General Hospital.

Honorary Captain E. M. Humphrey was born in 1876, received his first commission in the A.A.M.C. reserve in November, 1915. The appointment is at the rate of £800 per annum, inclusive of all allowances, except travelling.

Captain (Temporary Major) A. J. Mackenzie was born in 1883, and received a commission as captain in the A.A.M.C. in March, 1912. He was appointed temporary major in March, 1916.

MOTOR CARS WANTED.

FOR THE RED CROSS.

The Red Cross Motor Service, of which Miss C. Garvan is secretary, the office being at Real Estate-chambers, Castlereagh-street, requires more motor cars than are now enrolled.

The motor cars serve a very useful, patriotic purpose. When wounded and invalided soldiers arrive from the front by boat or train, the Motor Service meets them, and conveys them either to the Anzac Buffet, where they meet their friends; to the Rose Hall, or other institutions where they are accommodated during their sojourn as they pass through the city; and to the hospitals. The motor car service is one of the best branches of the Red Cross work.

There are, however, not enough cars to carry out all that the ladies of the Red Cross Society desire. Upwards of 400 are registered for service. But there are a great deal more than 6000 cars officially registered in the metropolitan area, and so it is thought a much larger number can be placed at the disposal of the Red Cross workers.

The conveyance of wounded and invalided soldiers to the buffet, the hall, or the hospital, is but one phase. The Red Cross wishes to be able to give the men in hospital the benefit of motor drives, to get them away from the monotony of hospital life, to give them fresh air, sunshine, and enjoyment, and so help the work the nurses are doing in the hospitals.

Therefore a bigger registration of cars at the disposal of the society is desired. Cars are not when registered exclusively at the disposition of the Red Cross, but it is expected—indeed, insisted upon—that once a car has been registered, the owner shall notify the service depot should he not be available for a certain period. Again, many people who do not own cars have assisted, and others can do likewise, by contributing a sum of money that will allow of the engagement of, say, a taxi. Taxi-car owners are very generous, but they cannot be always on duty. One lady resident in the country undertook this method of assistance in October last. To date the cost to her has been 17s 6d. There is, then, a wide field for co-operation in this way.

The main thing to be kept in mind is that motor cars are wanted to give convalescent soldiers an outing. Registration may be made at the depot in Castlereagh-street.

INTERRUPTING A MEETING.

JUNEE, Friday.

William Webb, who interrupted Mr. George Black's meeting at Old Junee, in connection with the referendum campaign, was this day fined £5, with costs.

RECRUITING.

BURY THE HATCHET

DIRECTOR'S APPEAL.

It was to those who have oscillated between conscription and voluntarism, to the people of Australia generally, and also to politicians, that the remarks in Martin-place yesterday of the Director-General of Recruiting (Mr. Donald Mackinnon) were addressed. He appealed for unity, and for the burying of political strife as the principal means of ensuring the success of recruiting.

"The people of Australia," he said, "recently decided that the Australian army is to be maintained by the voluntary method. Under voluntarism you have achieved wonderful results; it remains for you to crown those efforts with complete success. I do not regard this recent decision as some people did in the excitement and the disappointment of their side not winning. I do not interpret this decision as one, in effect, that Australia quits the war, nor as a verdict by the people that our gallant defenders are going to be deserted. The Mayor of Newcastle received from one of the battalions a message that the people of Australia were to 'stick to it.' That is my sentiment. The people of Australia are going to stick to it, unless I do not properly understand them. When I took charge of this recruiting business I was told that we were whipping a dead horse, and that no good would come of it. One of your papers pointed out that the Government was never really in earnest about this business, because it had appointed to look after recruiting a man who had never achieved success in anything he had undertaken. I am that man. (Laughter) But we got 47,000 Australians to join the colours last year, or an average of 3900 per month, although we fell away in the later months of the year. We have had the rudder hard against us during the recent months, because the standard of physical fitness for the Australian soldier in Britain has been substantially increased during the last year, and especially during the latter months of it. The reason for this I do not know. It is due, not to action here, but to action at the other end of the world. Seemingly, Australians are not able to stand the strain of training in the old country as well as other troops. This I do not believe, but it seems to be the decision. My own impression is that too much is expected of individual Australians. The men have shown such a tremendous willingness for fight and have achieved such results that every Australian apparently is expected to possess the same great physical fitness as characterised some of the earlier batches, who made Australian regiments famous. There are, I believe, many men in Australia who would be gladly accepted in the British army, but who are not apparently good enough to fight in the Australian army. But, as I have already said, last year—a difficult period in many ways—we got 47,000 men, and that is nearly 2½ divisions. No other country is doing very much better than Australia, with her 47,000 men at such a period of the war, considering that we have to maintain not only five divisions, but also a mounted division of some 13,000 or 14,000 men in Palestine. And they got into Jerusalem more quickly than did the crusaders in the old days." (Applause.)

Mr. Mackinnon went on to describe as most praiseworthy the work of the State recruiting committees, and referred particularly to the services of Professor Macintyre.

"And now," he proceeded, "I want to talk plainly, not as a military man nor as a politician, but as a man in the street who happens to be on this platform to-day. I believe that the political strife and bitterness in Australia to-day were interfering seriously with the honour and credit of the Commonwealth, and you should bring to bear all the pressure of your public opinion in order to end it. (Applause.) We hear of the Bolseviks. We in Australia think that they and the Russians generally are a terrible people—a people with no form of government, and fighting among themselves. But I do not know, if you compare the political and party strife of Australia, that the position here is very much better than in Russia. The Russians are, as it were, crazed with the liberty of a newly-found democracy. Eighty per cent of them, we are informed, can neither read nor write. They have been subject to the corruption and the incompetence of their ruling classes for many centuries. Many of them have emerged from a system of slavery only during recent years. They know nothing of free institutions, but yet to-day there are two belligerent countries on the Allied side which can be closely compared. They are Russia and Australia. Russia is destroyed, and to some extent you also are destroyed, by the fact that you are not pulling together to try to bring the war to an end by the only means possible—the unity and the determination of the whole people."

Mr. Mackinnon went on to contrast with our position the tremendous war activities of America, and said that the whole of the American people were marching as one man, without dissension and without strife, all prepared to throw their weight into the balance in order that the world may be safe for democracy.

"Are we in Australia," he asked, "all marching as one man? Does Australia to-day more closely resemble Russia or America? Think it over, and when you have done so bring your thoughts to bear in order to say to those responsible for these differences: 'There are things of more importance—the honour of Australia and the proper maintenance of the men who are defending our homes—than personal or party ambitions.'

"Again, there must be for the people a plain and emphatic declaration that this subject which has caused two great disputes among them will not be revived again, and that it is a thing of the past. Fighting about politics is natural to Australia, but the sooner you get rid of these differences and those who are helping you to carry on the strife the better it will be for Australia. The people will also have to know with some sort of certainty how many men are required. Figures, however, are not altogether satisfactory in this connection, because in war there is an uncertainty about them which makes them liable to be wrong. But it should be possible, independently of politicians and party bickerings, to arrive at some reasonable quota which can be confidently considered to be the proper reinforcements per month for the Australian army."

Mr. Mackinnon contrasted with our position that of the people of England just now. He spoke of the latter's suffering, especially the wage-earning class, and asked:—"What do we owe to the men who are manning the British fleet, a fleet which is defending us in Sydney to-day, and to the men who are paying the taxes in order that the efficiency of our sea power might not be impaired?"

Referring to recruiting, he admitted that there were some things that required amendment. "The Government," he said, "will, for instance, have to spend a little more money. If we do not spend the necessary money, and the war goes against us, then the cost will be a great deal heavier than any present expenditure. There must be more expenditure in some directions. Where, for instance, married men are asked to go there should be more liberal provision for their dependents. (Applause.) Time will not permit of my indicating other things which I am urging in connection with the improvement of the recruiting system, but whatever proposals we may make they will all be futile unless the people are united. No schemes, whatever they are, will get the same results as will the united efforts of a united and harmonious people. In my long political career I have found valuable two working principles which are applicable to Australia at present, and which should be taken to heart by the people individually and as a nation. One of these rules is that true toleration consists in tolerating the intolerent. The other is that good temper is nine-tenths of Christianity. If you can get a little good temper into political life you will be doing good. And if you can only make our leaders forget the hard things they have said about each other, then it will be possible for us this year to fulfil, as far as is humanly possible, every obligation that Australia has entered into as regards overseas troops." (Applause.)

Captain Pike, organising secretary of the Queensland Recruiting Committee, also spoke.

THE INTRIGUE.

MEMBERS EXPLAIN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Several references to the move against the Hughes' Ministry on Friday last were made in the House of Representatives to-day. Mr. Boyd repeated, in effect, the published explanation of the incident and declared that neither he nor any other of the four members concerned in it had any communication whatever, direct or indirect, with any member of the Opposition. It had been alleged that some other plot was made, and that Mr. Catts and the leaders of the Opposition were consulted, and that Mr. Catts said to some gentleman that 14 and 19 would do the trick.

Mr. Catts: That is quite untrue.

Mr. Cook (Minister for the Navy): What did you say?

Mr. Catts: I said nothing in connection with the matter.

Mr. Catts subsequently stated that he had no communication with a member of the Ministerial party such as had been alleged. After Mr. McWilliams had been speaking he crossed over the Chamber and, leaning across Mr. Maxwell, he said to Mr. McWilliams that if there were sufficient others on the Ministerial side who were of the same way of thinking as Mr. McWilliams, there might be something doing.

Mr. Maxwell said that the statement he heard from Mr. Catts was "Fourteen will do it," and it had no significance to him until he heard of the proposed amendment.

DISASTER AT MACKAY

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE

Cyclone and Tidal Wave

WIDESPREAD DAMAGE

Mackay has been struck by a cyclone and tidal wave.

There has been heavy loss of life. Fourteen bodies have been recovered. Several steamers have been washed ashore.

There is widespread distress and hundreds are homeless.

All the wharfs and sugar stores thereon collapsed. Two small steamers and a barge were sunk.

The centre of the Pioneer River Bridge has been washed away, and Flat Top Island lighthouse buildings demolished.

Mackay is on rations.

THE FIRST NEWS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The first news of the disaster came by means of a radio message from the steamer Wyreema. The steamer at the time was standing east and south of Flat Top. She had on board 300 tons of cargo for Mackay, but it is not known at present whether it can be discharged on her northern or southern voyage. According to reports, the immediate difficulty is that tenders are not available.

The Wyreema's radio stated that the steamers Pelican, Tay, and Apa were ashore.

It may be necessary, said the Premier to-day, to arrange to bring tenders from Townsville. The matter is being inquired into, and arrangements will be made as necessity requires.

The following telegram has been received from the harbour master at Mackay, dated January 15, stating: "The cyclone was accompanied by a tidal wave and flood, resulting in loss of life. Fourteen bodies have been recovered. The bridge was wrecked, and hundreds of people are homeless. All the wharfs and sugar stores collapsed. The Government steamer Relief, the Adelaide Company's steamer Brinawarr, and a barge were sunk. No tenders are available for lighterage. The steamers Pelican, Tay, and Apa are whole. All marks, except the lighthouse, have been destroyed, and there are no means of replacing them. The country has suffered badly. Mackay is on rations. There is only enough food for ten days, and it is urgent the Government should send a steamer capable of entering the river with a food supply and a large quantity of galvanised iron. All buildings on the pilot and signal station were unroofed, and are vacated by the craw. The boatshed and all the plant were swept completely away."

MACKAY UNDER WATER.

The Home Secretary's Department received a wireless last night from the steamer Bombala stating that part of the town of Mackay was under water, and that the residents were badly in need of relief. The centre of the Pioneer River Bridge has been swept away and the light on Flat Top damaged and the buildings demolished.

The Under-Secretary telegraphed to the captain of the Bombala asking him to convey a message to the Mackay police, if it was possible to reach them, giving instructions that every relief be afforded to the distressed residents.

SUGAR IN DANGER.

Through recent strikes in the north there has been a considerable accumulation at Mackay of raw sugar, and great anxiety is expressed regarding the safety of this product. A fortnight ago it was reported there was then 33,000 tons of raw sugar in Mackay and in the seven or eight miles in the vicinity. Of this 9000 tons was stored in the Adelaide S.S. Company's wharf. The total value of the 35,000 tons referred to would be in the neighbourhood of £1,200,000, and it is feared that a considerable portion of this may be in jeopardy. It is understood that the raw sugar on which refiners have made advances is covered by insurance against both fire and flood risk, but under the sugar regulations of the Federal Government most of the sugar purchased by refineries is on an f.o.b. basis, and refiners, therefore, do not become possessed of the sugar until it is on board ship.

Though the State is the direct agent between the mills and the Commonwealth, it is understood any loss will fall directly on the Commonwealth Government. Under the sugar agreement the Commonwealth Government has been making advances to the mills against the sugar in storage, so it is thought probable the sugar might be covered by insurance.

TELEGRAPHIC ISOLATION.

All the coastal towns between Rockhampton and Townsville are still telegraphically isolated, and there is no immediate prospect of restoration in any of the sections covering this area. The inland lines between Emerald and Ravenswood are down in several places.

A wire from Townsville to the Commissioner of Police to-day stated that the telegraphic and telephonic communications between Townsville and Mackay were interrupted. Townsville had no information regarding the floods and cyclonic disturbances elsewhere. The mailboat Bingera, concerning which some anxiety was felt during the week, arrived safely at Gladstone this morning. The wireless stations at Brisbane and Rockhampton were unable to render any assistance.

GOVERNMENT RELIEF.

At a special meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon it was decided to advise the Mayor of Rockhampton that the Government would give a donation of £1000 to the Central Queensland Relief Fund.

The police magistrate at Mackay was instructed to inquire into the situation there, and give attention to the rationing of the people, and to afford the police all possible facilities, and to assume absolute control.

It has been arranged to despatch 50 tons of foodstuffs by the Arawatta, leaving Brisbane to-morrow. Arrangements will be made to lighter the Arawatta at Townsville if no suitable lighter is available at Mackay.

FATE OF BOWEN.

The Government is in touch with northern public officials with a view to ascertaining at the earliest possible hour some definite information concerning the fate of Bowen. This port has been isolated since Sunday.

HEAVY FLOODS.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

The Nogoa River has nearly touched the 41ft mark, and is slowly rising. The low-lying parts of Emerald are under water, and a serious washaway has occurred between Yamala and Comet, the line in parts being twisted like a corkscrew. The mail train has been at Longreach since Tuesday. A large number of passengers are stranded, increasing the shortage of flour, butter, and potatoes. The line is under water at Alpha, but slowly receding. The rainfall for the week at Springsure was 12in, and at Emerald 10in.

The Deputy Railway Commissioner at Rockhampton at noon to-day advised that all traffic in and out of Rockhampton was blocked, except that to Emu Park and Yeppoon. It was still showery. The report continued: "I tried to get to Port Curtis Junction with an engine this morning, but could not do so. The water is falling slowly here. Dawson River is in very high flood, which will certainly affect the Fitzroy River."

CATTLE SWEPT AWAY.

The Fitzroy River fell over a foot to-day, and continues to fall slowly. When the western waters arrive, however, there is bound to be another rise. Water has now gone out of a considerable number of houses. Since Sunday the rainfall here has been 2332 points. A great area of the country in North Rockhampton, Kalka, Koongal, and Lakes Creek is still submerged, and the police and others had a trying time rescuing residents. Floodwaters went through Lakes Creek works. The food situation is very serious, meat now being practically unprocurable on the south side, but there are plenty of fat cattle on the other side. The difficulty will be in getting it in. The firewood question is also very serious. The gas supply has been cut off.

A railway employee, Walter Wadeham, was drowned near the railway line between Dent and West streets early this morning. Over 20 refugees from Miljmen, formerly Jardine, arrived here by ballast train, they having been flooded out. Among the number was a settler named Bailey, who managed to save his horses, but his cattle were swept away. On Tuesday afternoon a pumper, named Farley, in the employ of the Railway Department, is stated to have left the railway pumping station at Serpentine Lagoon in consequence of the flood waters, and, despite diligent search, no trace of him can be found.

Two railway men, W. Stanley and Lortmer, left Rockhampton in charge of a boat yesterday to bring in some people from Gracemere. They were expected back last night, but arrived this morning. They were unable to make any progress, owing to debris and weeds in the water, and were compelled to tie up the boat and swim some distance to safety. Several trains were able to run to-day to various suburbs.

The police performed splendid rescue work in the vicinity of Stanwell and Warren. They then proceeded to Boolburra and Gogango, where residents were rescued. The relief party had much difficulty in reaching several families.

STEAMERS DELAYED.

The steamers Buninyong and Chillagoe reached Port Alma yesterday. The Burwah arrived in Port Alma to-day on the trip down from Townsville to Sydney. Captain Black stated that the Burwah was caught in the cyclone on Sunday, when in Whitsunday Passage. She took refuge, and for 39 hours, with two anchors out and steaming full speed ahead, she rode out the gale. Captain Black stated he had a most trying experience. Advices from Mount Morgan state that the weather took up this afternoon. Operations have been resumed at Mount Morgan works.

Inspector McGrath, of Rockhampton, in a wire to the Commissioner of Police, says he cannot estimate the damage until the water subsides. All the low-lying parts of the town are submerged. Many families have been removed by the police and others to places of safety, the police and special constables rendering all possible assistance in supplying Government relief to those in distress. Only two casualties so far are reported. There is a possibility of the flood becoming higher when the Comet, Nogoa, and Dawson rivers come down seven or eight days hence, unless the river falls much more quickly than it is now doing. A message from Rockhampton this afternoon stated the Fitzroy fell to 28ft, but is commencing to rise again. Rain has ceased locally.

SHORTAGE OF FOOD.

Mr. J. Petersen, M.L.A., pointed out to the Minister for Lands this afternoon that, judging from disasters at Rockhampton and Mackay, the people at S. Lawrence must be in a bad way, as food supplies were brought to St. Lawrence monthly. Mr. Hunter said it had so far been impossible to get into communication with St. Lawrence, but he promised, when every information was available, the member for the district would be consulted as to the best form of relief. Mr. Petersen also mentioned that the construction workers on the line from Marlborough to St. Lawrence and from Kamalia to St. Lawrence might be in difficulties. Instructions have been given to the Commissioner of Police to arrange for assistance if necessary in this and other flooded zones.

CLERMONT ESCAPES.

Apparently Clermont, which suffered so badly from floods some time ago, escaped with comparatively little damage on this occasion. Inspector M'Grath wired to the Commissioner of Police to-day that the Clermont police advised no damage has been done by the flood. All the people had been removed to safety, and the creeks were falling.

DAM BURSTS.

A message from Gladstone states that the dam of the huge reservoir just outside the town burst under the burden of banked-up water. The storage capacity of the dam is about 120,000,000 gallons, and it is estimated 100,000,000 gallons have been lost. When the dam gave way a mighty volume of water surged down into the harbour. Fortunately, there was no loss of life.

CONDITIONS AT BUNDABERG.

The river at Bundaberg is rising slowly. The steamer Tinana arrived this morning, and while proceeding up the river she passed several head of cattle drowned, also three or four horses. One had harness on, and is believed to have been a packhorse. The police, so far, have not been advised of any fatality having occurred up the country. It is believed that the water will cover the decking of the wharf to-night. All the cargo is being removed as fast as it is unloaded from the steamer. It is reported from Gayndah that the state of the river was 30ft above normal, but is now beginning to fall.

THE MORIALTA'S EXPERIENCE.

The Adelaide Company's steamer Morialta arrived from the north early this morning. Captain S. Webb reports the vessel left Cairns on the 16th for Sydney, via ports. Fine weather was experienced to Mackay, but after leaving Flat Top anchorage, on the 18th, south-easterly gales, accompanied by high seas, were encountered, and, as the weather grew worse, Captain Webb decided to shelter under the lee of Walter Island, and his example was followed by two oversea vessels. On Monday morning, as the wind had shifted to the north-east, and increased in intensity to hurricane force, accompanied by mountainous seas, Captain Webb weighed anchor, and sheltered in Rescue Bay. The cyclone having passed to the north by Tuesday morning, the captain decided to proceed on his voyage. The weather continued thick, with heavy rain and mountainous seas. Hundreds of storm-birds, in a thoroughly exhausted condition, took refuge on the vessel. The weather gradually moderated, but high seas prevailed until the vessel passed Cape Moreton.

INTERSTATE STEAMERS SHELTERING.

Owing to rough weather along the Queensland coast, the time-table of the interstate vessels has been disorganised.

The A.U.S.N. Company's Arawatta arrived at Keppel Bay (Queensland) yesterday morning, two days late. The Wyreema early yesterday was off Flat Top, from where she sent a wireless message of Mackay's plight.

The Howard Smith steamer Burwah left Townsville for Brisbane on Saturday last, and yesterday was anchored in Keppel Bay. It is expected that she will sail for Brisbane to-day.

The steamer Buninyong was due at Sydney yesterday, but is sheltering in Keppel Bay. The steamer Bombala is near Flat Top.

The Adelaide Company's steamer Morialta is due to arrive here from Queensland ports on Monday. She is running five days late.

The following message was received by the Deputy Postmaster-General from the postmaster at Marlborough, under date 9 a.m. 22nd:—"A terrific gale has been blowing, with heavy rain, since Sunday night. It eased off this morning, but is still raining. The country is in flood, and the lines are interrupted on each side. The rainfall up to this morning makes 16 inches 95 points. All mails are hung up."

It has now been definitely ascertained that on Saturday last there were 5000 tons of sugar on wharfs at Mackay, and 24,000 tons at various mills, the approximate value being £640,000.

HISTORY OF MACKAY.

THE GREAT SUGAR CENTRE.

As was anticipated in a footnote to the block in the "Herald" yesterday showing the places visited by the disastrous cyclone in Queensland, Mackay was the centre, and received the full force of the cyclone, besides experiencing a tidal wave, while torrential rain must have fallen, for the Pioneer River is reported to be in flood.

THE TOWN OF MACKAY.

A VIEW FROM THE NORTH SIDE OF THE PIONEER RIVER.

Mackay, a town of some 10,000 to 12,000 inhabitants, is situate in the southern portion of Northern Queensland, on the Pioneer River, about three miles from its mouth. It is generally recognised as the sugar city of Queensland. Mail steamers do not go up the river to Mackay, but anchor off Flat Top Island (where it is reported the lighthouse and buildings have been demolished), and tranship their passengers to steam lighters. A railway connecting it with Rockhampton in the south and Townsville in the north is now under construction.

The Mackay district is recognised as one of the most progressive in the northern State. Its one great industry—sugar—is the source of its wealth, and every other industry takes second place. The whole of the district, more especially to the north and north-west, is given over to sugarcane growing. There are some twelve mills in the district, the principal being Homebush, Racecourse, Palms, Meadowlands, Pleystowe, Marian, Cattle Creek, Farleigh, Plane Creek, North Eton, and Merani.

The Pioneer River, on which Mackay stands, was discovered by the late Captain John Mackay, for many years portmaster of the northern State, in 1860, and it was after him that the town was named. Captain Mackay left Armidale, New South Wales, in July, 1861, his party consisting of five white men and one black boy, with 1100 head of cattle. He arrived, after a journey of five months, on the southern branch of the Pioneer River on Christmas eve of the same year, but owing to the broken nature of the country he did not reach his station till early the following year.

According to early historians, the first sugarcane was planted in the district by Mr. John Spiller on June 1, 1865. This gentleman had brought a number of cane plants from Java, some of which he planted in his garden for propagating purposes, the balance being entrusted to Captain Hope, of Cleveland. The first sugar mill was erected in 1868 at Alexandra. The first output of this mill in that year was 110 tons, while to-day it is estimated that the value of the output of the whole of the mills of the district is nearly £1,000,000. Tropical fruits also grow luxuriously, the district being noted for its mangoes, pawpaws, and bananas, though this fruit grows better further north.

CORRECTION OF "HANSARD"

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Tudor's complaint that by altering a "Hansard" proof the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) had qualified his offer to stand down in order that a coalition Ministry might be formed, formed the subject of a statement by the Speaker in the House of Representatives to-day. The Speaker said the matter had been referred to the Principal Parliamentary Reporter, who had expressed the view that, "although the alteration referred to, unquestionably qualified the phrase originally used, it could not be regarded as an alteration of sense within the definition of the terms laid down by many presiding officers' decisions, nor, according to similar decisions, could it be regarded as new matter. If it was considered that in allowing the alteration to be made his discretion had been wrongly exercised, it would be necessary in future to reject many emendations that had hitherto been accepted without question as not infringing the rule."

Commenting on this report, the Speaker said that it not infrequently happened that the effort to crowd a number of subjects and arguments into a time-limited speech, betrayed members into expressing themselves in terms which, when read in printed type, either obscured their meaning or conveyed an erroneous impression. He would not say that in such circumstances members would not be entitled to make the corrections necessary to convey their true meaning, but if the general trustworthiness of "Hansard" was likely, in consequence of emendations to be seriously affected, its value would be greatly impaired, and it might, therefore, be necessary, in future, unless the House otherwise decided, to confine emendations strictly to correction of obvious errors.

MR. HUGHES AND MR. D. WATSON.

We have received from Mr. W. G. Higgs, M.P., a letter dealing with the abandonment of the suit for libel brought by Mr. Hughes against Mr. David Watson in respect of certain statements by the latter bearing on his interview with Mr. Hughes and the resignation of Mr. Ready. The letter covers the following letter from Mr. D. Watson's solicitor:—

[COPY.]

19 Temple-court, Chancery-lane, Melbourne,
January 18, 1918.

The Honourable W. G. Higgs, M.P.,
Federal Parliament House, Melbourne.

Dear Sir,—

Re Ex-Senator Watson ats. Hughes.

When the action brought by the Prime Minister against ex-Senator David Watson was settled I refrained from giving statements to the Press, believing that that lay without the scope of my duties as solicitor for Mr. Watson; but I determined that if a charge of withdrawal was made by any political opponent I should regard it as my duty to defend him in his absence.

I have read the report of yesterday's debate in the House of Representatives referring to this case, and should be glad if you would make public the following:—

Mr. Watson did not withdraw a single word of the statement made by him in either the Senate or the party meeting.

A settlement highly favourable to Mr. Watson in honour and money was made, but the settlement was sought not by Mr. Watson but by or on behalf of the Prime Minister.

As the result of a conversation between a friend of Mr. Watson and a member of the Nationalist party, which conversation was reported to Mr. Watson, Mr. Watson expressed his willingness to repeat what he had already said in his pleadings—that is, that his statements were true, but that they were made without malice and for the protection of Mr. Watson, his party, and their constituents.

Mr. Hughes's friend desired Mr. Watson to make this statement:—

"With reference to the statements made by me to the party meeting on 1st March, and to the Senate on 2nd March last, I deny that they bear the construction placed upon them by Mr. Hughes, namely, that he was guilty of attempted bribery. I do not believe that this was Mr. Hughes's intention in interviewing me."

Mr. Watson refused to make this statement as sought by Mr. Hughes's friend, but said that on condition that his costs were paid he would not withdraw any part of the statements made in the House or party meeting, but would say that his intention in making those statements was not to charge Mr. Hughes with bribery, but to protect his own and his party's interests.

It was stated by Mr. Watson that failing acceptance of this or the original proposal at once, the action must proceed to trial.

Though treated with the utmost unfairness, Mr. Watson never faltered in his position that he had no ill-feeling against the Prime Minister, and that nothing but a sense of his duty induced him to repeat his conversations with the Prime Minister. What was the construction to be placed upon those conversations was not a matter for Mr. Watson.

A week later I informed Mr. Hughes's friend that, failing unqualified acceptance in the next week, that action must proceed, and within that time Mr. Watson's alternative proposal was accepted; and some time later his costs were paid.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) GORDON HOLMES.

BAND CONTESTS.

NEWTOWN LEADING IN HIGHEST GRADE.

The interstate band contests, under the direction of the Band Association of New South Wales, were continued last night at the Sydney Sports Ground. The Premier (Mr. Holman) and Mrs. Holman had seats a little distance from the band stand.

The attraction last night was the A grade contest, which carries with it the championship of Australia for 1918, a silver-plated cornet presented by W. H. Paling and Co., Ltd., the right to hold the Besson Challenge Shield for 12 months, £20 in cash, and 20 per cent. of the profits of the contest.

The competing bands were:—Goulburn Light Horse (F. B. Wilson), Leichhardt District (T. Goodall), Newtown (E. P. Kerry), Rockdale Municipal (J. C. Walker), and South Sydney Model (W. Ryder).

THE MINERS.

MR. BEEBY'S FINAL WORD.

JUDGE EDMUNDS APPOINTED.

"I would like one final word in reply to Mr. Baddeley," said Mr. Beeby yesterday. "Once again I repeat that since the strike a great number of local differences at the various collieries have been settled by an amicable chat between the management and the men actually concerned. If Mr. Baddeley wants me to do so I will publish every one of these cases and show how effective local conciliation can become when the men in the different mines are allowed to adjust their minor grievances by prompt consultation with the management. The conciliation scheme proposed by the Government merely aims at making a system of this kind a permanent and accepted institution amongst coal-miners.

"Mr. Willis resents the fact that this department has addressed a circular letter to individual miners. What else could be done? During the strike and after its termination the executive of the Colliery Employees' Federation was urged to co-operate with the Government in the establishment of a complete scheme of conciliation—more on voluntary than on compulsory lines. These gentlemen profess to believe that some scheme of this character would be of great benefit to the industry. The offer was made four or five months ago, but the miners' executive, up till yesterday, would not say whether they intended to assist in completing the scheme. They attached to its consideration matters that had nothing to do with it.

"The Government was anxious that the miners should clearly understand what was proposed, and after waiting in vain for some final answer from the executive issued a circular letter to every coal-miner in the State, setting out the scheme for local pit committees to arbitrate upon and adjust purely local disputes.

"The Government does not want the coal-mining industry to remain in its present unregulated condition," went on the Minister. "The proposals for the future working of the mines are made in good faith, and a great body of the miners are beginning to believe that the scheme outlined is an honest and unbiassed attempt to bring about a more peaceable and equitable working of the industry in future. The Government yesterday decided to proceed with its scheme, and to request Judge Edmunds to act as Judge of the proposed Coal Court.

"In effect, Mr. Baddeley now says that the federation will not consider the scheme unless what he calls the 'victimisation' question is settled. The proposal made is that the Government should go back on a number of obligations which it entered into during the strike. Up to the present the Government has discharged all these obligations, and will continue to do so.

"I again repeat," said Mr. Beeby, "that a large number of men who at the outset were unable to obtain re-employment have been re-engaged, and that the number of unemployed miners has been steadily reduced. The Government has not relaxed its efforts to do all it possibly can in this direction. Cleaning up these unfortunate remnants of the recent strike is quite separate from the establishment of tribunals for the future working of the industry. The Government wants the co-operation of the executive of the federation, but if union officials refuse to assist, then the only course is to get the miners individually to consider the proposals."

FEDERATION COUNCIL.

Mr. A. C. Willis, secretary to the council of the Australian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation stated yesterday that at the annual meeting of the council the future policy of the federation was discussed. The opinion of the council was that everything should be done to secure the return of a Labour party to power at the next election.

It was resolved that the Federation adopt the platform of the Australian Labour party.

Mr. Willis added that he was instructed to take the necessary steps to convene a conference of trade unions and other associations to consider ways and means to reduce the high cost of living.

CO-OPERATIVE SHIPBUILDING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Is it too much to hope that some of our prominent commercial and Labour men might, through the medium of public meeting, at which all shades of opinion could be represented, meet, discuss, and devise means whereby the employers and operatives could settle their differences sufficiently to encourage the Government to give State assistance to the permanent establishment of the shipbuilding industry, so immediately and pressingly vital to the needs of every member of the community?

Shortly, my proposition is this: It being more a State than a Federal matter, as the ships to be built are (at least, so far as handling of our primary products) really an extension of the State railway service, the State Government should offer contingently: (1) A subsidy of one-third of the cost of production by private enterprise, already established or to be formed, of any tonnage up to the first 100,000 tons of shipping built completely in the State. (2) That only standardised steel ships of not less than 5000 tons carrying capacity should be entitled to the subsidy. (3) That the Government should pay the subsidy monthly as the work proceeds. (4) That on completion of each steamer the Government should guarantee to take them over from the builders at the price now current in England and America. We will suppose that the Government having made the offer as suggested, contingently on agreement having been come to between the subscribers of necessary capital and the operatives, it then remains for them to tackle some of the differences to be adjusted, before either Government or private enterprise dare enter on the project with the most remote hope of achieving successful business results. Both sides will need to approach the subject in a spirit of give and take, and the first concession may be looked for by the proprietors or subscribers of capital, who, being represented by the average small investor, may, seeing a possibility of their investment being free from industrial upheaval, temporary unforeseen setbacks and fluctuations, consider some method of equitable division of profit between themselves and the operatives, especially so in view of it being a subsidised concern.

On the side of the operatives some agreement must be arrived at concerning piecework, dilution of skilled labour, or any other matter that after discussion may be shown to militate against securing the best results for every individual whose interests, whether as subscriber or operative, are bound up with the venture, as well as ensuring the complete justification for assistance by the State.

That the subjects for adjustment are possibly difficult is, or should be, no bar to an honest attempt being made to reach an acceptable compromise, always remembering that their decision will either make or mar this or any other scheme.

The ventilation of so urgent a matter is of paramount importance in order that this or some other workable scheme may be found deserving of adoption. No country can be said to have found itself so long as it depends on outsiders for its shipping and its steel. Subsidy of shipbuilding is also a subsidy to the iron industry. Are we to spend the money here, or shall we be forced to spend it elsewhere?

I am,
ALFRED H. ROSS.

SHIPBUILDING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Hughes stated to-day that the agreement between the Ministry and the unions regarding the industrial conditions which were to rule in the new shipbuilding industry had been ratified by a conference. As soon as the contract was signed a tribunal would be appointed for the various trades to regulate matters that might arise from time to time. The functions of these tribunals would be to determine piecework rates, deal with the question of dilution of labour, and settle disputes. When it is possible to fix a date for the commencement of operations the necessary labour will be engaged. Mr. Hughes stated that arrangements were being completed for the occupation of the State dockyards. Finality had almost been reached as far as Victoria was concerned, and in New South Wales the State Ministry was considering details in regard to the handing over of the Walsh Island dockyard for Commonwealth shipbuilding purposes.

INTERSTATE COAL TRADE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

When questioned to-day regarding the request that a guarantee should be given that the three colliers now plying between Newcastle and Melbourne should not be withdrawn, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) stated that the shipping position was becoming worse, and the Shipping Board had to shoulder the responsibility of taking the necessary steps to meet the situation.

SALE OF CROWN LANDS.

LITHGOW, Friday.

An auction sale of 12 lots of Crown land was conducted at the Court-house by the Crown land agent, Mr. H. L. Meads, but only two lots were sold. Jundah Singh, storekeeper, bought one, a town lot of 1 rood 9 perches, in the village of Rydal, at the upset price of £16, and John Lane, railway ganger, bought the other, a suburban lot of 3 acres 3 roods 29 perches, at the upset price of £10. There were no offers for the remaining lots, the opinion being that the upset prices were too high.

"THE FIGHTING MURRAYS."

ORANGE, Friday.

Ten days after the war broke out, Driver G. W. Murray, son of Mr. W. Murray, Fairyburn, Cargo-road, now reported killed in action, enlisted with fourteen others from this district with the Light Horse. There were fourteen other members of the Murray families of the district to obey the call. Two of them were deceased's brothers, who are still in action, whilst at least four of the others have been killed. Deceased was 27 years of age, and an orchardist. Upon being transferred from the Light Horse, he first served with the Field Artillery at Gallipoli.

CRICKET.

WAR CHEST MATCH.

When stumps were drawn yesterday in the International—Interstate War Chest match at the Sydney Cricket Ground, the Interstate side had lost seven wickets for 394 runs, made in 3½ hours. About 1000 persons watched the play very closely, and when the Internationalists, led by M. A. Noble, who won the toss, took the field, they were warmly greeted. When they took their places all the old mannerisms of the great players were noticeable, although Time had left its mark on some of them, and slowed down their movements. Perhaps the most interesting figure was that of J. J. Kelly, the sturdy wicket-keeper in many big games. "Mother," as he is still familiarly known, quickly showed that he had lost none of his keenness for the game; and when he relieved Carter behind the wicket he demonstrated that he still retains some of his old skill. J. A. O'Connor was absent owing to illness. His bowling might have reduced the score considerably.

The batsmen had complete control of the bowling, the only failure being E. L. Waddy, the captain, who was out first ball to a catch at mid-on. Ratcliffe, who is now one of the leading batsmen of the State, was smartly thrown out by Gregory, when he was going strongly for the century. Andrews, after a very fine display, obtained the coveted three figures, and when he retired three wickets were down for 224. Punch (North Sydney) and Berry (Glebe) in scoring 88 and 82 respectively also played attractively for their runs; and Scott was doing well when he lifted one from Hordern to Emery. The only six was hit by Berry, who sent a ball from Hordern over the fence in front of the members' stand. The slow bowler, however, quickly had revenge, as Berry, in endeavouring to repeat the stroke, was well caught by Carter on the boundary.

Several ladies were busy with boxes and selling tickets for articles to be disposed of for the fund; and yesterday's attendance indicates that the ground will be well patronised to-day, when play will start at 11 o'clock. Scores:—

INTERSTATE.—First Innings.

UMPIRES' MATCH.

A match will be played to-day at the Sydney Cricket Ground No. 2 between the Moore Park Association umpires and the St. George Association umpires.

THE COMMISSION ON THE CARD SYSTEM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The proposed Royal Commission into the operation of the time-card system is surely questionable. It is so obvious that no genuine result could be obtained from it that suspicion is cast upon the motives of the Government in proposing it. For what could such a commission reveal? The character of the time-cards? That has already been made public. Or would the commission show that the time-cards had not been used badly? Probably, since such seems to be the fact, but as the Government, at the time of the card strike, denied that there was the slightest intention of using them badly, and as the public generally accepted this statement of intention, it is difficult to see whom such a conclusion would enlighten. It was the men who suspected the system, and it is, therefore, the men who should be convinced of their mistake. There is surely no reason to convince those who, all along, have been convinced that the men were wrong; but one would suppose that actual experience of the operation of the system has already convinced the men that they were wrong, and, if it has not, a Royal Commission will hardly be successful.

It would appear that a Royal Commission verdict is designed for the consumption of the general public. But if the aim of the Government in appointing a commission is to obtain a verdict that the system has so far operated without harm, its motives in introducing the system seem decidedly ambiguous. In itself the time-card system is neither good nor bad, everything depends upon the use that is made of it. Now the Government will (probably) establish by a Royal Commission verdict that the card system has not been used badly since its introduction in the railway workshops. What will that prove? Certainly not that the system cannot be used badly, nor even that it will not be used badly—perhaps to-morrow. Is it the contrary inference that the Government wishes to arouse in the public mind—is it to be suggested that the system cannot be abused, because it has not been abused here since its introduction? This would be a devious method of preparing for a conceivable future eventuality. Or, perhaps the Government has the intention of meeting some possible future Labour charge that the system is being used for the purpose of undue speeding up, by pointing to a Royal Commission verdict (based upon the evidence of unionists, among others), to the effect that, for six months after the introduction of the system, it was used in a perfectly innocuous way. If so, its intention is hardly commendable, as such a reply would be irrelevant; but if not, what is the aim of the commission? A commission was to be granted to the men provided they asked for one. In the absence of such a request from the men, why is the commission proposed?

I am, etc.,
B. MUSCIO.

Blackheath, Jan. 24.

FEDERAL SESSION.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives to-day,

The Minister for the Navy, replying to Mr. Finlayson (Q.), said that Captain Glossop, who was in command of H.M.A.S. Sydney when she sank the German raider Emden off Cocos Island, was an officer of the British Navy who had been lent to the Royal Australian Navy. His present appointment was Captain-in-Charge of H.M.A. Naval Establishments at Sydney.

WAR PENSIONS.

In answer to Mr. Gregory (W.A.), the Assistant Minister for Defence (Mr. Groom) stated that the Government did not deem it advisable, in the claimants' interest, to allow applications for pensions under the War Pensions Act to be heard before the Commissioner, as in open court. An applicant ought to submit the evidence of his own medical officer, if he so desired, and any soldier who was dissatisfied with the rate of pension granted was given the right of appeal, when he would be further medically examined by another doctor or a specialist.

AUSTRALIAN DISTILLERY COMPANY.

Mr. Finlayson (Q.) was informed that permission had recently been given to the Australian Distillery Company to issue 15,000 new shares of £1 each. The Treasurer stated that the practice of the department was to permit the issue of shares where it was shown that additional capital was required for the maintenance of a business established before the regulations came into force, provided that the amount was not considered excessive and the Treasury's conditions were accepted.

PENSIONS TO BE REVIEWED.

The Prime Minister, in reply to Mr. Page (Q.), said that the Government was reviewing the whole question of pensions to soldiers, particularly of those who were totally blind.

WOOL WORKERS PAID OFF.

Mr. Considine (N.S.W.) stated that he had been asked to bring before the House a telegram from Sydney, addressed to Mr. Riley (N.S.W.), who was absent, stating that about 40 workers at Messrs. Whiddon Bros. had been paid off, the management stating that wool could not be procured. He asked whether the Government would take steps to procure such a supply of wool as would ensure continuity of employment.

The Minister for Works and Railways (Mr. Watt): I will have inquiries made to-morrow morning.

The House at 6.30 p.m. adjourned until a date to be fixed.

THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The debate in the Senate on the Supply Bill lasted until nearly 4 o'clock this morning.

The Minister for Repatriation, Senator Millen, in reply, said the effect of Senator Gardiner's speech on the people of Australia was calculated to create a still wider breach. The Commonwealth Ministry was innocent of any complicity in the strike. Statements were being made by members of the Opposition that the Government was continuing to conscript men. The Government had not conscripted any man. Such statements were made to create in the minds of the people fear that the Government would attempt to bring in conscription by some underhand method. The Government had kept its word so far, and would continue to do so. Senator Gardiner had suggested a new Ministry. He wanted to direct attention to the fact that Senator Gardiner had left one position vacant. He might assume that it was Senator Gardiner's modesty that had caused him to make that omission. Had Senator Gardiner's offer the sanction of the official Labour Party? Was it content to waive the provision in its constitution which prohibited its joining with another political party. Unless the assurance was forthcoming he must regard to offer as a piece of cheap kite flying. Nobody recognised more than he did the valuable asset it would be to this country if the two parties could be united. He was not concerned about parties, but he was concerned about the aims. The people of Australia had concurred in our full participation in the war, and the National Party had been formed to make a special effort to win the war. The Labour organisation to which Labour members of the Federal Parliament were responsible had denounced the war as a capitalistic war. Could it be said that the Labour Party would throw itself loyally into the work of securing recruits.

The Supply Bill was passed, and the Senate adjourned to a date to be fixed.

ANNIVERSARY DAY REGATTA.

To-day the 82nd Anniversary Day Regatta will be held on the harbour. Four sailing races, viz., 6ft dingys, 16ft sailing skiffs, 14ft and under, and 18-footers will be decided, and the two rowing events, include that for Gladstone skiffs and service cutters for three crews from H.M.A.S. Tingira. A steam launch will leave Fort Macquarie for Clarke Island at 12.30, 1 p.m., 1.45, 2.30, and 3.10. The steamer Kulgoa will follow the 18-footers' race, leaving Stephen-street at 2.15, Point-street 2.20, Darling-street 2.30, and Fort Macquarie at 2.50, and will call at Clarke Island.

DISTINGUISHED OFFICIAL DEAD.

SIR S. A. PETHEBRIDGE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

Brigadier-General Sir S. A. Pethebridge, K.C.M.G., Administrator of the North-Western Pacific Islands, with headquarters at Rabaul, New Guinea, died this morning at his home at Canterbury, following upon an acute relapse after a long spell of malaria. He was 56 years of age. Brigadier-General Pethebridge enjoyed good health until March of last year, when he was seized with malaria. He arrived in Australia in November last on his annual furlough, and had been practically confined to his home ever since. He has left a widow, two sons, and a daughter. One of the sons (Lieutenant H. V. Pethebridge) is attached to the second Australian Tunnelling Company. The other son, Mr. J. Pethebridge, is undergoing a course of wireless instruction at Randwick.

Brigadier-General Pethebridge's death closes a career distinguished by gifted administrative ability in various capacities. He was born in Brisbane on August 3, 1862. A son of the late Mr. H. L. Pethebridge, at one time Inspector of Works in Queensland, he was educated at public schools in Brisbane and Townsville, and on September 26, 1876 he entered the Queensland Public Service. He rose to the positions of Chief Clerk in the Marine Department, and Secretary to the Queensland Marine Board. Passionately fond of the sea, he later joined the Queensland Naval Brigade and rose to commander. On December 1, 1901, he took up the proffered position of Chief Clerk of the Commonwealth Defence Department, at Headquarters, Melbourne. Then came, on the departure of Captain Collins for England, promotion to the post of Secretary of Defence. The occupancy of the North-Western Pacific Islands taken from Germany served to open a broader horizon for him. He was made colonel, placed in command of 250 troops, and went to Madang, where trouble was expected, and where he co-operated with Captain Cumberlege, R.N. Then came an investigation of a supposed trouble at the Sepik or Kaiserin Augusta River, after which Colonel Pethebridge proceeded to Rabaul on H.M.A.S. Una, and then to Nauru, where the garrison was relieved. On returning to Rabaul Colonel Pethebridge accepted the position of Administrator for the German possessions, an arrangement having been made meanwhile for Japan to conduct the affairs of islands north of the equator originally intended as his sphere of action. Officers of the First Expeditionary Force who had been placed in administrative positions returned to Australia, and Colonel Pethebridge then reorganised the departments. The result was that his regime was marked by little or no friction, despite the delicacy of the post that involved such arbitrary changes, and by a sense of justice, which contributed largely to the success of his administration. He was created a K.C.M.G. in January, 1917.

THE LATE BRIGADIER-GENERAL SIR SAMUEL PETHEBRIDGE, K.C.M.G.

BUSH FIRES.

WHEAT CROPS DESTROYED.

FORBES, Friday.

Two bush fires have occurred in this district during the week. On Mr. Jas. Henderson's property, on the Grenfell road, 65 acres of standing crop, which was giving eight bags to the acre, was destroyed, and 144 bags of wheat in the paddock. The crop was insured for six bags with the Royal Insurance Company. The fire came up rapidly. Mr. Henderson only had time to save his horses. Fighters for this fire came by car from Grenfell and Goolagong.

On Wednesday Mr. J. Berg, who has a property right on the railway line at Daroobalgie, lost fencing and a few acres of grass from a fire which started in an unknown manner. There was also a fire on this and adjoining properties at Christmas time, and the railway authorities are just now inquiring into the circumstances.

JUNEE, Thursday.

Mr. E. R. Pike lost five stacks of hay and 14 acres of standing wheat crop by a bush fire. The stacks were uninsured, but the standing crop was insured.

LICENSING ACT CASE.

ORANGE, Friday.

An unusual case under the Licensing Act was heard by Mr. H. Malone, P.M., yesterday. Two young men were charged with being on the licensed premises of the Station House Hotel during prohibited hours, and they pleaded guilty, and were each fined 10s, with 6s costs. The licensee, James F. Fitzgerald, was then charged with a breach of the Act by suffering the men to be in the bar. He pleaded not guilty, and said the men represented themselves as bona-fide travellers, saying they had driven from Spring Hill, 13 miles away. Not knowing them, Fitzgerald said, "All right. If the sergeant comes, you take the risk." The P.M. held that the licensee believed that he was acting within his rights, under section 60 of the Act, and dismissed the information.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Horse-racing at Randwick, and pony and galloway racing at Kensington furnish ample sport for metropolitan racegoers this afternoon; while those who prefer to go further afield will be catered for at Boolaroo, where a registered meeting takes place; and race meetings will also be held at Albury and Bathurst. Victorian sporting folk assemble at Sandown Park, and the Western Australian Turf Club opens its summer meeting at Perth.

The Kensington Racing Club holds its Cup meeting this afternoon, and the whole of the profits are to be devoted to charitable and patriotic purposes. Owing to the number of entries, the six items on the card will furnish a dozen races. The track is good going, and interesting sport may be anticipated. The customary transit service by rail will run between the city and the convincing grounds, and the first race is timed to start at 12.15 p.m. The results of the racing may be anticipated as under:—Maiden Handicap:—First division: Norley, Soultette, Blue Vapour. Second division: Tirla, Mervella, Chief Lad. Third division: Smart Chaser, Derwent D., Munni. Fourteen-one Handicap: Karraha, Morpeth, Berg. Kensington Handicap:—First division: Persian Queen, Dilla, Halston. Second division: Wombah, Larras, Twisel. Fourteen-two Handicap:—First division: Stene, Traclu, Bon Accord. Second division: After Walk, Havoc Blue, Little Merv. Fourteen Hands Handicap: My Dove, Themis, Honeymoon. Kensington Cup:—First division: Lady Clarit, Lineage, Coonoona. Second division: Ruby Brown, The Soother Royal Flora. Third division: Howard Lady, Volcup, Cwan.

An attractive bill of fare has been framed for the Boolaroo Race Meeting, which takes place this afternoon, and metropolitan visitors can reach the scene of action by the trains leaving the Central Railway Station at 6.40, 8.16, and 8.35 a.m.

L.R.L. (Leichhardt): Our Pambula correspondent writes that the starting price of Duke Moorefield in the Publicans' Purse on the second day of the local race meeting (December 27) was 3 to 1, and that the starting price of Master Wally in the Trial Handicap was even money.

The programme for the Moorefield February meeting, on the 9th prox., is announced, and, for the half-dozen items therein the prize-money aggregates 600 sovs., equally distributed. Entries close with the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, at 4 p.m. on Monday next, the 28th inst.

M.S. (Darlinghurst).—No.

J.P. (Stanmore).—The starting prices were 10 to 1 v Tuncurry, 15 to 1 v Banarwa, 10 to 1 v Jennie B.

A pony race meeting takes place on the Londonderry racecourse, near Richmond, on February 13, and for the six events on the card, and which carry, in the aggregate, 160 sovs. prize-money, entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. Kildruff, Royal Arcade, 209 Pitt-street, up to 5 p.m. on Monday, February 4. The weights are promised on the 7th prox.

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY CLUB.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

The Anniversary Meeting of the Australian Jockey Club will be brought to a conclusion at Randwick this afternoon, and, with every prospect of favourable weather, a large muster of turf patrons seems assured, for the programme is a varied and interesting one, including a race over the battens, a couple of contests for juveniles, and a race over a mile and a half. The track is first-class going, and the surroundings bright and fresh after the recent rainfall. The transit service by rail includes special trams from Circular Quay (via Oxford-street), and from the Railway loop (via Cleveland-street), at short intervals, while motor cars, cabs, and 'buses will also ply between the city and the racecourse. Visitors should have the exact change to tender at the turnstiles, and at the ticket offices, and thus avoid delay and inconvenience to themselves and others.

The sport commences at 12.15 p.m., with the Second Hurdle Race, in which the battle may be fought out by Jack Rice, Plymouth, Basil K., Mulgawillah, and Lightning Dream, and the numbers may be hoisted for Jack Rice, Mulgawillah, and Basil K.

Bonnie Plume, Rosedell, Enlacre, Princess Winifred, and Hem should have the settlement of the Flying Handicap among them, and the judge may declar for Rulacre, Rosedell, and Bonnie Plume.

Woorawa, Royal Malt, Nulgarra, and Zanatello read as well as anything for the Phillip Stakes, and Woorawa, Nulgarra, and Zanatello may fill the places.

A good contest is promised for the Novice Handicap, in which Earlsan, Tonio, Tom Gallon, Burnham, and Harcliff should play the principal parts, and the situations may go to Tonio, Earlsan, and Tom Gallon.

The Anniversary Handicap foreshadows an interesting race. Chantemerle heads the list of 18, with 9st 4lb, or 6lb more than he carried when he finished at the head of the procession in the Summer Cup on Boxing Day, and even with that, he should run well. Cisco should give a good account of himself under 8st 12lb, and with 2lb less Ulva's Isle seems to have a good look in. Hitachi should be suited with 8st 6lb, and neither Norbury nor Wedding Day has been overburdened at their respective weights. Recent running invests Kennaquhair with a strong claim on the prize, and even the 7lb penalty incurred by his success in the January Handicap last Saturday, is not likely to affect his chances. The Christian Brother should run well, and Phast Boy and Mafoota may be the best of the others. The brunt of the battle should fall to Chantemerle, Cisco, Ulva's Isle, Hitachi, Norbury, Kennaquhair, and the Christian Brother, and the places may be filled by Kennaquhair, Cisco, and Chantemerle.

Slake, Constellation, and Peat appear to be the most reliable of the candidates for the Second Nursery Handicap, and they may pass the judge in that order.

The Heighweight Handicap brings the meeting to a close, and the issue may be fought out among Dear Laddie, Lord Nazar, Rebus, and Gallipoli, and Rebus, Lord Nazar, and Dear Laddie may demand the attention of the judge.

CRITERION.—"THE WILLOW TREE."

To-night at the Criterion Theatre J. C. Williamson, Limited, will stage for the first time in Australia "The Willow Tree," which is described as a fantasy of Japan. Miss Kathlene MacDonell will play the part of Mary Temple, besides lending her aid in the symbolism of the play as the Image. The cast includes Mr. Charles Waldron as Edward Hamilton, Mr. A. E. Greenaway as Geoffrey Fuller, Mr. Roy Redgrave as a Japanese priest, Mr. Cyril Richards as Nogo, Mr. Kenneth Brampton as Kimura, Mr. George Barnum as Tomolada, and Miss Ealy Malyon as a street singer. The plan of the seats is at Paling's.

HER MAJESTY'S.—"THE BING BOYS."

The combination of comedians, singers, and dancers in "The Bing Boys Are Here," at Her Majesty's, is enjoying a flood tide of sustained success. By the look of things this mixture of broad comedy, travesty, brilliant spectacular effects, and comic opera, could run for a whole year. The booking of seats at Paling's is described by the business manager, Mr. George Matheson, as "phenomenally big." Apart from the mounting the production has many attractive features. In the singing line Miss Minnie Love has deservedly become a great favourite, and Mr. Leslie Holland is seldom outpaced by Mr. Jack Cannot on the comedy side of the show. There will be a special "Bing Boys" matinee to-day.

COMEDY AT THE PALACE.

To-day there will be a holiday matinee performance of "Turn to the Right" at the Palace Theatre. To mark the hundredth performance of the American farce comedy in Sydney (two seasons), the J. and N. Tait management will have a souvenir night on Tuesday next. Pictorial souvenirs of the successful play, it is announced, will be distributed at the matinee on Wednesday next. Seats for "Turn to the Right" may be reserved at Nicholson's.

OPERA HOUSE PANTOMIME.

The Fuller management has decided to keep "Robinson Crusoe" on at the Grand Opera House until Easter. There are two shows daily of Victor Prince's twentieth century pantomime. The matinees start at 2.15. Miss Nellie Kolle, Miss Maud Fanning, Miss Olive Sinclair, Miss Nellie Fallon, Mr. Prince, Mr. Walter Cornock, Mr. Percy Clifton, Mr. Charles Zoli, and the Paulastoes are included in the cast. Miss Kelso Henderson and Miss Nellie Fallon are principal dancers. "The Devils' Whirl" is one of the sensational effects.

STROLLERS AT PLAYHOUSE.

Sydney James and his bright band of Strollers are catering well at the Playhouse (formerly the Little Theatre) for those who like "wholesome fun." A "Trial by a Jury of Ladies" is one of the most amusing features of the programme now being presented. The holiday matinee to-day is timed to start at 2.30. On Thursday next Mr. James will appear for the first time here as the Widow Twankey in a potted pantomime version of "Aladdin," supported by the whole of his company. The plan for booking seats for the Strollers is at Paling's.

THE TIVOLI.

The matinee bill at the Tivoli to-day will be the same as the evening show. Mr. Peter Dawson is keeping up his reputation as a baritone whose art enables him to challenge admiration and win applause with equal success in lively songs and those of the sentimental order. It is announced that Mr. Dawson will be pleased to respond to the request of patrons for particular songs if the titles of the songs are sent to the management. Since Saturday last Miss Beatrice Holloway and Mr. Robert Greig have been appearing, with a supporting company, in "Baby Mine." This boisterous American laugh-raiser will be kept on next week. The contributors to the programme include Annette George (a singer with refinement of style), the Skating Novaks, Ethel Vaugn, and the Creole Fashion Plate. Seats may be reserved at Nicholson's and the Tivoli.

"JACK AND THE BEANSTALK."

With the matinee and evening performances to-day Mr. William Anderson will close his successful season of pantomime at Wirth's Hippodrome Theatre. Next week "Jack and the Beanstalk" will start on tour, opening at Adelaide on Saturday next. Broken Hill, Bendigo, Ballarat, Geelong, Newcastle, and Brisbane will then be visited, with a New Zealand season to follow. The travelling company includes Miss Mabel Morgan, Miss Lili Sharpe, Mr. Harry Farrow, Mr. George Welch, and Mr. Billie Rego.

THEATRE ROYAL. "PARENTAGE."

To-day, at 1 o'clock, under the direction of J. C. Williamson Films, "Parentage" will be shown on the screen for the first time in Sydney. It is claimed that this cinematograph production teaches a lesson through the medium of a silent drama. The evening screening commences at 8 o'clock. All next week "Parentage" will be shown daily from 1 to 6, with the evening session at 8 o'clock.

THE LYCEUM.

At the Lyceum to-day and to-night the special features will be "Maciste Alpine Soldier" and "The Dormant Power," with Ethel Clayton and Montagu Love in the principal parts. On Monday next the Lyceum picture entertainment will be transferred by Mr. W. Barrington Miller, general manager of Union Theatres, Ltd., to the Strand Theatre, Pitt-street, opposite Farmer's. All the Triangle plays, Mutual Chaplins, World, and Vitagraphs will hereafter be shown first at the Strand. De Groen's orchestra will supply the music for the evening sessions.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

To-day all the Union Picture Theatres will be open from 11 o'clock. On Monday next many new films will be screened. "The Awakening," a five-act World feature, in which the leading parts are taken by Montagu Love and Dorothy Kelly, will be shown all the week at the Crystal Palace. Gladys Brockwell will be seen in "To Honour and Obey," a five-act Fox feature, at the Empress. Jewel Carmen and Charles Clary are also in the film. Alma Reubens and Walt. Whitman, in "The Regenerates," a five-act Triangle play, will be seen on Monday at the Lyric Theatre, George-street. Thursday's feature will be "The Dormant Power," with Ethel Clayton in the lead.

THE STRAND.

The Lyceum Pictures are being transferred to the Strand, and "Because of a Woman" will be presented as one of the latest Triangle productions on Monday next. In this seven-act photo-play Belle Bennett has the star part. The incidental music will be furnished by De Groen's orchestra. To-day and to-night Nance O'Neil will be seen in "The Love Question."

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

Following up the success of "A Coo-ee From Home," the management of the Alhambra Theatre, Haymarket, are now showing dramatic and comedy subjects. This picture-house will have a continuous show to-day.

WADDINGTON'S PICTURE THEATRES.

With the exception of King's Cross, Darlinghurst, all the Waddington Picture Theatres will be open to-day from 11 a.m. The Southern Cross show starts at 8 p.m. The changes on Monday next will be as follow:—Emily Stevens in "Outwitted," a five-act Metro film, at the Majestic, Ryde Park. A two-act Keystone comedy and a new story of "The Seven Pearls" will be shown in addition. Gladys Brockwell, in "To Honour and Obey," a five-act Fox feature, at the Grand Theatre, supplemented by a two-act comedy. "Under Handicap," an eight-act Metro picture, adapted from the novel by Jackson Gregory, at the Globe, with Harold Lockwood and Anna Little in the leading roles. "Alimony," a seven-act picture, will be screened for three nights, commencing Monday, at the King's Cross Theatre, Darlinghurst. Thursday's attraction will be "The Regenerates," in which Alma Reubens appears.

WEST'S OLYMPIA.

Besides the evening show, there will be a matinee at West's Olympia to-day, with "War and the Woman" as one of the pictures. The new films on Monday next will include "The Love Question." The matinee to-day starts at 2.30.

HOYT'S PICTURES.

The screenings at Hoyt's Picture Theatre, in George-street, are continuous from 11 a.m. to 10.30 p.m. To-day's bill includes "The Varmint," "Lost in Transit," and "Oh, Doctor."

BURNS CLUB CONCERT.

Last night, at the Conservatorium of Music, under the auspices of the Highland Society of New South Wales, the Burns Club gave a concert to celebrate the 159th anniversary of Scotland's national poet. The Rev. John Ferguson, in an address, spoke of the spirit of patriotism which characterised many of Burns' poems. Mr. William Urquhart presented a portrait of the Governor-General to Pipe-Major Mackay and three other Highland pipers. On behalf of Sir James Burns, two shields which had been won at the Highland gathering sports on New Year's Day were handed over by Mr. W. Sutherland, chairman of the sports committee.

Major Donald Smith, chairman of the Burns Club, was the conductor of the choral numbers which were contributed by the Highland Society's select choir. Miss Lily Juncker and Miss Dorris Easton lent their aid as pianoforte accompanists. Miss Dorrie Ward, Miss N. Nisbett, Mr. Philip Wilson, and Mr. W. H. Colyer were the assisting vocalists. Mr. Lacey sang the solo in "There was a Lad was Born in Kyle." The Highland Society's choir concluded their singing with "Annie Laurie," "Duncan Grey," and "Auld Lang Syne." In addition to playing several popular selections, the Highland Society's Pipe Band was associated with Miss Maggie Bertram, a Highland dancer, in "Barn Rocks of Aden."

MINING.

A moderate volume of business was transacted in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday, but the market did not appear to be as bright as on the previous day. Business was much quieter, and in some cases weaker prices ruled. "Hills" closed firm at 59/, and British hardened /6 to 29/, but Junction Norths reacted /3 to 22/10½. Among copper propositions Hampdens were handled freely, and hardened /4½ to 27/7½. Local gold enterprises attracted a little attention. Hawkins Hill Central receded /2 to 2/2, but Mt. Dudley recovered /6 to 1/8. Mt. Boppy provided exchange at 7/6. Among Westonias, Deeps remained steady at 25/, while Consols rallied to 16/6. Tin stocks were dull, and miscellaneous concerns were practically neglected.

The promoters retain 10,000 shares (paid up) of the 100,000 shares. It is the intention of the new owners to open up several new pipes on the line where some have been worked with profit during the past year, and the industry promises to become a very important one for the district.—Glen Innes correspondent.

The Mount Bobby gold mine, which has been closed since February of last year, will resume operations in full on January 28. The mine was closed down for the purpose of sinking a new shaft, and the re-arrangement of a portion of the surface plant. Mount Bobby mine has had a successful career. It has worked about 15 years, and has produced £1,612,560 in gold, and has returned in dividends about four times the lapsed capital of the company. A considerable amount of money has been spent during the last few months in the reorganisation of the plant.—Canbelego correspondent.

The B.H. Proprietary Coy. has declared a dividend of 1/ per share, payable February 20.

WAR-TIME PROFITS TAX.

BORROWED MONEY.

The Federal Commissioner of Taxation has ruled that money borrowed by a business for the purpose of investment in the Commonwealth War Loans must be excluded from borrowed money in respect of which a business may seek the additional deduction provided for in Section 15 (15) of the Assessment Act, which reads as follows:—

"Where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that borrowed money has been used for the creation or acquisition of any of the assets employed for the purpose of gaining profits which are liable to tax under this Act, a deduction shall be allowed from the profits of the difference between the interest paid in the accounting period on borrowed money which has not been repaid and the statutory percentage thereon."

The Commissioner advises further that as there is doubt as to whether Section 15 (15) should be applied when calculating the pre-war profits of a business, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 16 (1) which requires profits of pre-war years to be calculated according to the same rules as war-time period, it has been decided to give taxpayers the benefit of the doubt and to apply Section 15 (15) to ascertaining the profits of the war-time period only. This interpretation will operate to the benefit of taxpayers who use borrowed money.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Some houses were fairly well stocked with fencing wire, and prices were a shade easier. No. 8 galvanised was to be had at £51, and No. 10 at £56. Good sales of No. 8 black were made at £50. Supplies of galvanised iron were extremely small. Some holders of corrugated asked £84 a ton. Black sheets were also scarce, and the basis price for up to 14-gauge was £65 a ton. There was a steady inquiry for sheet lead. Full rolls cleared at £40 a ton and cut rolls at 42/ per cwt. The market for galvanised roofing screws was firm, and case lots commanded 1/3 per lb. Plaster again brought 52/6.

Jute goods were quiet at the previous day's levels.

Chemicals were in strong hands, and only small parcels of most lines were available. English brands of caustic soda, 70/72 per cent., were wanted at £74 a ton, and business was done in American, 76/77 per cent., at £77. Quotations for acids were somewhat wide, but 3/10 appeared to be a fair price for tartaric and 4/2 for citric. Stocks of rosin were fairly heavy. Some "cheap" lots were available.

Paint materials met with an improved demand. Linseed oil sold freely in cases at 6/8 and 6/10 a gallon, and for the best makes of imported whitelead £85 a ton was secured.

An auction sale of tea is announced for next Friday.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

A BRISK TRADE.

The fact that to-day is a public holiday was, probably, responsible for the increased volume of business transacted in dairy produce lines yesterday. With the exception of honey, which was too plentiful, agents reported an exceedingly brisk trade in all lines. Bacon and hams were scarce, particularly flitches and sides; small cheese were forward in abundance. Butter was plentiful. The Orara arrived with 5600 boxes from Byron Bay, the Kyogle with 950 from the Clarence River, and the Brundah with 1500 from the Richmond River. In addition more than 1500 boxes were forwarded from railway centres.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

In the forage and grain section of the Sussex-street markets yesterday potatoes were scarce. Consignments totalling 200 bags only arrived from the Clarence River, and commanded £7; Hunter rivers were quoted from £8 to £9 a ton. Prime yellow maize was still firm at 5/6 a bushel; oats were held well.

At the firewood auctions 35 trucks were offered to a fair attendance of buyers. Prices generally were easier.

FRUIT MARKET.

OUR POSTAGE STAMPS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The very interesting extracts published to-day from Mr. Mowle's diary make no reference to the embossed penny wrappers which were supplied by the post-office here in 1838, or two years earlier than the date of the first penny stamp of Great Britain; so that New South Wales holds the distinction of having issued the first postage stamp of the Empire.

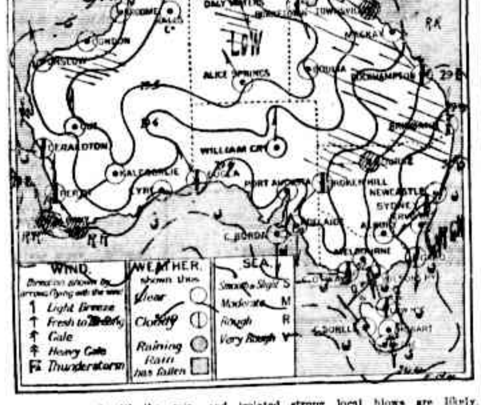
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



During the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Friday, a further slump occurred in the pressure values throughout Australia, and now the entire mainland is under the control of the vast tropical depression, the extent of which can be traced over the South Pacific Ocean to about the Fiji Islands. Between New Caledonia and Norfolk Island an energetic cyclone has developed, and at the latter place there are strong SE gales, with very high seas raging. Perhaps the only part of the continent not yet strongly influenced by the tropical depression is that portion east from a line joining Brisbane and Melbourne, where relatively high pressure is still in evidence, though weakening to the extent of one-tenth of an inch in barometric values per day. During Thursday evening or early on Friday morning, the sultry conditions in New South Wales culminated in a rainstorm in the north-western districts, yielding, so far, light to heavy amounts. A gradual expansion of the rain area should result in the whole State being affected during Saturday and Sunday. Thunder should be associated with the rain, and isolated strong local blows are likely. Sultry and squally NE winds are indicated and later (probably early in the week), cool to SE winds. Disturbed seas should shortly be experienced on the coast. The centre of this great disturbance is situated over the heart of the continent, and extends westward to the northern goldfields of Western Australia.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally on part of the Queensland coast; strong southerly in the Western Bight, moving eastwards. No data from NW coast; cyclone between New Caledonia and north, moving south-eastwards.

FOR YOUR INFANT OR INVALID

BENGER'S FOOD is appetising and delicious. Even the fresh new milk used to prepare it is made lighter and easier to digest.

In the tin one food may look like another, but there the resemblance of any other food to Benger's ends. You prepare in a way different from others. Fresh new milk is always used, and in a few minutes (see directions) both the Food and the milk become blended into a dainty cream by a gentle first process of digestion, self-contained in the Food.

To this, and to its great nutritive power, Benger's owes its unique position as "THE FOOD THE DOCTOR ORDERS."

Benger's Food is entirely British in origin, ownership, and manufacture. It is sold in tins by chemists, etc., everywhere. Carefully follow the directions on the tin when preparing it.

BEAUTY'S FAVOURITE.

The article which excels all others in improving the beauty of the skin is naturally and deservedly beauty's favourite. This has been the acknowledged and honoured position held by PEARS' SOAP for nearly 130 years. It won and has maintained that position by virtue of its complete purity, and by the possession of those special emollient properties which soften, refine, and impart natural colour to the skin. No other Soap possesses these qualities in such a pre-eminent degree as

PEARS'.

A SAVING IN COST OF BUILDING BY INTRODUCING OSCILLATING WALL BEDS

We have accomplished over and over again how considerable money is saved by introducing OSCILLATING PORTAL WALL BEDS in the original structure; people sometimes say that they are not furnishing, and we would like here to point out that our WALL BED is more of a construction saver than it is a piece of furniture. To-day there are thousands of our beds in use throughout Australia, and everyone is [illegible] in its many advantages.

In many of the Architects offices in Sydney there are plans which embrace WALL BEDS as a unit of the building. The persons building at the present time without adopting our system are those who have never studied this modern utility; thus they are blind to their own interest, and will seriously affect their [illegible] investments in the near future.

[illegible] out the cost of your floor space with, and without, OSCILLATING PORTAL WALL BEDS, and you will then see the importance of introducing them, not only into flats and hotels, but also the modern villas [illegible] should be equipped with a Wall Bed for in-and-out-door sleeping. [illegible] write to-day for our latest booklet, which will be forwarded POST FREE on application. Demonstrations daily at

The success of our students at the examinations is the best possible proof of the efficiency of our methods of teaching Accountancy. Not only do they win the majority of the Honours Places, but invariably pass much above the average percentage of all candidates.

These are our figures for 1916 and 1917 for the two principal Institutes in Australia. (Space does not permit showing results for all other Institutes.)

Our total results these two Institutes alone aggregate 696 for 1916 and 1917.

Our grand aggregate to December 31st, 1917, totals over 2800, with other results still to come.

These facts and figures cannot be lightly passed by by any young man desirous of qualifying.

We stake our reputations as Public Accountants for over twenty years on the accuracy of every figure and result we publish and every statement we make.

The majority of the men qualifying as Accountants in Australia and New Zealand are students of Hemingway and Robertson.

LADIES, RESPECTED PUPILS,
STRICT BUSINESS ATTENTION IF U PLEASE.

Yesterday we were visited by an Australian Manufacturer, who stated emphatically he was UNABLE to produce only a fractional part of the demand he had for HIGH-CLASS ASSORTED SWEETS.

He was good enough to state that the fame for the quality, combined with appearance, of what our pupils made had reached his ears. Hence his call, and on viewing samples of Pupils' work was candid enough to freely admit we carry the finest show he has

EVER SEEN OUTSIDE THE STATES.

His firm can dispose of TON LOTS PER WEEK. They will place with our pupils AT ONCE orders for all the pupil cares to undertake, will supply their own fancy boxes, and even go so far as to finance any person who is short of money on their giving suitable credentials. They impress the fact that a lady who is "SLAP-DASH, oh, it's only going to be eaten, throw it in the box kind of individual," will save time by not applying.

BEST WORK ONLY IS WANTED.
BEST PRICES WILL BE GIVEN.

The name and address in this city will be given OUR PUPILS ONLY on applying to us. Please do not think this is a trap to bolster up trade. Croaker's don't do business that way, hence our success from the start. We tell you here right now, it's only one firm of many who are and will be cornered for sweets. We've told you long enough how it would be, and now we're sitting back watching firms manoeuvring for sweet stocks for sale, and as the year grows it will be worse. What we tell you here is true in every detail, and we stand or fall by our given word.

SHORTHAND IN THIRTY DAYS.
The BOYD System.
(Taught personally or by correspondence.)

"Many happy returns of the day" to OURSELVES.

FRIDAY Next, 1st February, is our FOURTH BIRTHDAY.

FOUR YEARS AGO, come Friday Next, BOYD SHORTHAND SCHOOLS started.

After ONE MONTH'S ADVERTISING FOUR STUDENTS appeared at the commencement.

That showed the prejudice that existed then.

TWO and A HALF YEARS afterwards we had THE LARGEST SHORTHAND SCHOOLS IN AUSTRALIA.

Don't you really think it is TIME THAT YOU THREW ASIDE THE PREJUDICE THAT WARPS YOUR BETTER JUDGMENT?

DO YOU THINK for a moment that WE COULD SUCCEED as we have done IF WE WERE TURNING OUT FAILURES? Honestly, do you?

We have the CLEANEST, MOST AIRY, BEST LIGHTED, and BEST MANAGED COLLEGE South of the Line.

That sounds like boasting and boosting, doesn't it? Well, it isn't; IT'S TRUTH.

NINETY-FIVE PER CENT. of our enrolments come through our Students, not from our advertising at all.

THE TRAINED GIRL
HAS A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK.

There are wonderful opportunities for Trained Girls in these days of stress and storm. Positions that offer handsome salaries, with a promise of independence in a few years; situations that afford scope for a fuller and more efficient life. But the training must be practical, and the knowledge gained of real commercial value.

One only has to think of the hundreds of girls who are accounted well educated, but whose education has been confined to subjects that are of no commercial value, to realise how essential a business training is in these days.

Every Girl should put this question to herself, "If misfortune comes to me, am I prepared to fight my own battles, and be independent of others for my support?"

LET US TRAIN YOU.

We have over 200 Courses of Instruction from which you may choose. Write Mr. Geo. H. Rose, B.A., The Principal, for full particulars if you can't call.

A term of 6 months in Shorthand and Typewriting at moderate cost will fit your daughter to take a place in the business world.

Let her commence at once.
